PREFACE

This small book has been a labor of love that started as a seed in 1972 and became a reality in 1999. I owe special thanks to many for their encouragement to publish and patience to teach me the intricacies of the genealogical field. It has been a long and baffling experience, but one which I would not exchange for anything.

First and foremost is my husband, Dean Smith, whose support both moral and financial, and encouragement to publish set the impetus for the project. Right there at the top of the list also is my mother, Fern Patrell, in whose memory this has been dedicated. She furnished me with all the little bits of information from which I was able to unravel most of the mysteries of my ancestry by supplying me with diaries, letters, photographs, lists of births, marriages, and deaths kept by my maternal grandmother Flora (Abbott) Patrell. She sat with me for hours, in the last few years of her life, going back over her memories and trying to make them come alive for me. In actuality, this is her book.

Acknowledgement must also be given to those who helped me during the research phase. I could not have provided you, the reader, with all the insights into the lives of those within these pages without their assistance and contributions to this work. The names are listed alphabetically and not necessarily in any order of significance: Mildred Allen, Carroll and June Bailey, Scott Bartley, Jane Bramwell, Janet Ireland Delorey, Evelyn Dick, Jane Fletcher Fiske, Pat Flagg, Di Greene, Thomas and Ginnie Howard, Joan A. Hunter, Earl Joslin, Robert Keyes, Michelle Nawrocki, Robert Nielson, Oliver Patrell, Gordon L. Remington, Leslie Romine, Robert Sanders, Calista Scott, Neil D. Thompson, Leon Thresher, and Neil D. Todd. I also gratefully acknowledge the contributions of the reviewers of the penultimate draft, Jane Fletcher Fiske, David W. Kruger, George Freeman Sanborn Jr., Jerome E. Anderson, and Ann T. Chaplin.

There is one addition I wish to make to the list of contributors named above without whose continued interest, enthusiastic support, insightful suggestions, and hours of utilitizing her research and editorial skills has made this book creditable and a pleasure to publish: Melinde Lutz Sanborn, F.A.S.G.

METHODS

Chronicling the living is an entirely different enterprise from chronicling the dead. So many of the individuals included in this work are vibrant, interesting people, currently engraving their marks on the present and the future. Members of the fifth generation survive, including at least one centenarian, Helen Patrell Lee of Colorado.

Many embraced this family history with interest and enthusiasm. Letters, emails, clippings, and photos poured in from across the country. New friendships were formed. A few did not care. A few could not be reached for comment. One entire branch of the family escaped us completely, despite the best efforts of some leading genealogists. To the descendants (if any) of Jesse and Lois (Patrell) Reed, if you recognize yourselves in these pages, please make yourselves known!

This book went through several major rewrites in the past few years, the scope being altered, tailored, and finally a comfortable compromise found. Through trial and error, we came to understand that the life experiences of the earliest Patrells were not the stuff of most social histories. The unique paths their lives took, as evidenced by the meager records specifically about them, defied a generalist's approach.

We also learned that personal privacy is a precious thing. In an era where a mother's maiden name and a date of birth are parts of the security code for numerous financial accounts, this kind of detail is an area for caution. In cases where there was doubt, we have omitted specific dates or places, with apologies to future generations who will hold this book and wonder what all the fuss was about!

Obituaries were our friends. Where 19th-century tools for writing biographies focus on deeds, probates, vital records, and government records, the 20th century is best illuminated by graceful, detailed obituaries. These accounts are often written by or with the assistance of close relatives, who gave something of the personal, as well as statistical, to the memory of their departed ones. We make no apologies for quoting from them extensively here, despite the many inaccuracies brought about by the fragile memories of the bereaved or the editorial departments of some newspapers.

A number of valuable record groups and indexes are now available online. The vital records indexes of many states, from California to Maine, may be easily accessed at little cost. The Social Security Death Index provides both birth dates and approximate dates of death. Department of Motor Vehicle registrations online in the unlikely sounding database called "anybirthday.com" are the source of some birthdates. More and more of the U.S. census is available in digital images online, as well. We made use of all these sources, with very satisfactory results.

Our format here is modified Register form. Families are presented in birth order and children with children of their own are assigned a number and continued in the next generation. We arbitrarily stopped with the seventh generation, naming the eighth, although there are now living members of the eleventh generation from Joseph[1] Patrell.

In the modern era, we lost track of a number of families, particularly in Colorado and New York. There is no excuse but lack of time. Our request for vital records from New York continues to languish in their hands, eight months after providing them with full references, a clear-cut example of how not to run a vital records department. We did our best to go around them, with obituaries, gravestones, and family interviews.

A large number of unidentified family photos were offered by several branches of the family. Copies of these are to be found in the Patrell manuscript notes placed in the archives at the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston, Massachusetts. Also among these notes are the letters, emails and records of interviews gathered for this book. Many of the individuals in our final, living generations, were the sources of their own information presented here. Many provided information on their siblings, cousins, aunts and uncles. These details will be deposited in the Patrell manuscript papers at the archives.

INTRODUCTION

The Isle of Guernsey, situated in the English Channel within sight of the coast of Normandy, was silent witness to William the Conqueror's 1066 conquest of England and has been a part of England ever since. Traces may be found of the LaPatourels in Normandy as early as the 1300s.[1]

Just twelve miles long and nine miles wide, Guernsey has ten parishes and one major port. St Peter Port, was originally home to one large parish, with records beginning as early as 1563. Of the other parishes, Vale, St Pierre-du-Bois, Castel, St Sampson, St Saviour, St Martin, Forest, St Andrews, and Torteval are all early enough to have included the baptism of our American immigrant Joseph LePatourel or Patrell, but none of them do.

All LaPatourels on the island can be traced to early families in St Andrew and St Martin's parishes, but Joseph is not to be found among them. The St Martin's family descends from a French fisherman and has not been connected to the St Andrew's LaPatourels. A Joseph LaPatourel was baptized in St Sampson's on 25 December 1719, but he died in Guernsey on 22 May 1782, when we know Joseph of Ware, Massachusetts, was still living.

It has been suggested that Joseph may have been an anglicization of "Josue," of whom there are many in the early Guernsey parish registers. Unfortunately none fall very close to our target birth date of 1723.

Isolated as it was, the small island was said to have several different subdialects, so that had we only been able to hear Joseph speak, we might have recognized whether he was from the Upper Parishes in the South, or from the Lower Parishes where the pronunciation is broader and slower.[2]

The LePatourel families on Guernsey produced a number of distinguished sons, includingWorld War II hero Brigadier Herbert Wallace Le Patourel, V.C. (1916-1979) and his elder brother, Professor John Herbert Le Patourel (1909-1981), author of many articles and books about the medieval Channel Islands.[3]

Since Joseph is the only Patrell to be found in pre-Revolutionary New England, his reasons for coming, apparently alone, are of considerable interest. Perhaps the answer lies in the analysis of Channel Island apprentices done for the recent History of Jersey.

> Apprentices, too, continued to travel from Jersey to New England. In a typical draft indenture of 1741, we learn of Philip Laffoley, bound apprentice for six years to Robert Hooper and his wife of Marblehead, New England. As so many other Jersey youths were to do over the years, he promised that he would 'faithfully serve, their secrets keep, their lawful commands everywhere gladly do.' He was not to marry during the period, nor play cards, nor frequent taverns. He would be taught to read and write and learn arithmetic as far as the rule of three, and would receive in return 'good and wholesome eating, drink, washing, lodging and apparel.' After six years he would receive two new suits besides the old ones, 'one of which if not both to be fore the Lord's day.'[4]

We have no direct evidence that Joseph Patrell was apprenticed in New England, in fact such evidence is quite rare. If he was an apprentice, it was not in one of the major trades, for all later evidence suggests that he made his living as a laborer and a soldier.

While no other Patrells came to New England in the first half of the 18th century, families of the name did begin to appear in the next century. Several families came down from Canada and may be found in the U.S. census records of New York, Wisconsin and Michigan. Immigrants not of French or Guernsey extraction but with similar names, such as Patrella, Patroul and Petrelli, came from Italy and Germany.

PATRELL

JOSEPH[1] PATRELL, born about 1723 on the Isle of Guernsey, Channel Islands[1]; died likely in Norwich, Vermont, after 1 March 1790[2] and probably before April 1791[3]; married say 1752 ESTHER _____, born say 1733, who died between 22 June 1785[4] and 1 March 1790,[5] likely in Ware, Massachusetts.

Although we cannot now pinpoint the moment of his arrival, immigrant Joseph Patrell was probably in his early twenties when he came to New England, no later than 1747 when we first find his name in Massachusetts records. We assume that he was a native speaker of French, but that he had adequate English.

Traditions preserved by various branches of the family all make prominent mention of Joseph's military service. One branch remembers that he fought in the battle at the Plains of Abraham. Lewis Patrell of Ware, a descendant of Isaac[2], had an interesting obituary that told of Joseph's service:

> Mr. Patrell's great-great-grandfather, Joseph Patrell, was a native of one of the islands of Guernsey and was one of the first settlers of the Ware River Parish. He served during the French and Indian War in 1778[sic], and was at the capture of Fort William Henry. He also served at Dorchester during the Revolutionary War in 1788.[6]

There is no indication that Joseph Patrell was of a religious turn of mind. The Guernsey Patrells were not Huguenots. There is nothing to suggest that Joseph ever joined a church.

Service in King George's War

By early spring, 1747, as the end of King George's War was in sight, Joseph, now about 24 years old, succumbed either to a desire for adventure or to impressment by the local "draft board," and as "Joseph Parttorall" was enlisted as a "centinel" or private under the command of the well-known Lt. Col. William Williams, for five weeks' service 11 March 1746/7 through 14 April 1747.

Three muster rolls from this period survive, all showing Joseph Patrell in the company of Phineas Stevens at Fort No. 4 [now Charlestown, N.H.]. Each of the muster rolls was dated long after the fact and submitted to Boston between 10 December 1747 and 14 April 1749. Each was signed by William Williams or by Phineas Stevens and two of the three are nearly identical, evidently meant as copies, although there are some minor discrepancies.[7] The portions pertaining to Joseph Patrell from the two different lists are reproduced below:[8]

[7] Joseph Patrell would encounter many of the men on this muster roll again and again.
[8] For a complete transcription of the two different lists, see Appendix I.

Among the slight differences between the three muster rolls is the indication on one that Phineas Stevens was a lieutenant and the other, a captain. The original scribe and the copyist both had problems with Joseph Patrell's name, the copyist finally settling for "Parttorall."

With its battles a considerable distance away, King George's War had had a very limited effect on Boston and eastern Massachusetts. The situation was entirely different at the other end of the colony where Joseph soon found himself. The much-besieged Fort N° 4 was on the very eastern edge of hostilities and was of no small strategic importance, although there were few remaining settlers in the area.

The diarist Rev. Ebenezer Parkman wrote in his journal of April 1747:

> 7. ...Mr. Bacon from Ashuelot (upper) came and lodg'd here. He brings the sorrowful News that a Number of Indians the night after last Sabbath was Sen-night came to Mr. Shattucks Fort,[9] and fir'd it. They burnt down the Fort at Number 2[10] or great meadows - and burnt an House of Colonel Josiah Willard. That their Town as well as the other Ashuelot[11] were broke up and come off - as was Winchester also. That Captain Melvin[12] and 26 men went out after the Indians, and discover'd 14 and packs of about 20. That Captain Stephens with 50 men had been gone about 3 Weeks and no news of him but twas hop'd he was at No. 4.[13]

Phineas Stevens and his 49 men were indeed at Fort N° 4, but not in an enviable position. On orders from Gov. William Shirley, Phineas Stevens, Lt. William Lyman, Sgts. John Burk and Noah Clap, and Cpl. Sampson Colfax, had marched their company probably from the vicinity of Rutland, Massachusetts, Stevens' original home, to the abandoned fort. After the disastrous loss of Fort Massachusetts the previous year, the settlers and troops at Fort N° 4 had for the most part returned to their former homes after burying possessions they could not carry. Six men remained to guard the fort, but when winter set it, they too left.

Having returned to a deserted fort,[14] Joseph Patrell and his 49 companions had eleven days of comparative quiet before they began to suspect that a large party of Indians and French was nearby. Phineas Stevens wrote a report of the events of the next three days which was sent to Col. Williams, who was rebuilding Fort Massachusetts, and from there communicated to Boston.[15]

[15] Ibid., pp. 15-22. What follows here is a paraphrase of his report.

The barking of the dogs at the fort made the soldiers suspicious on the morning of April 7th, and they did not open the gate at the usual time. The suspense was too much for one soldier, who let out the dogs at about 9 o'clock and followed quickly behind them, shouting encouragement and firing his gun. An ambusher immediately stepped forward and returned fire, soon followed from all sides by a considerable number of French and Indians. The running soldier, probably either John Brown or Joseph Ely, the only men to be wounded, made it back to the fort "...with only a Slite wound...."

The enemy came out in force and set fire to the old fences and an old log house that was some distance from the fort. The high wind and dry conditions meant that > ...in a few minutes we were entirely surrounded with Fire. All which was performed with ye most hideous shouting & firing from all quarters, which they continued in a very terrible manner until ye next day at 10 of the clock at night, without Intermission....

The defenders had no chance to eat or sleep, but kept up a steady return fire, which discouraged the enemy. The soldiers watched as their enemy built a wall of logs to hide behind while pushing fuel to the side of the fort to set it on fire, but when it looked to be ready, the besieging forces called a truce until sunrise when they wished to parley.

In the morning the French commander

> ...came with about 50 or 60 of his men with a Flag of truce & stuck it Down within about 20 Rods of the Fort in plain sight of the same, & sd if we would send 3 men to him he would send as many to us....

Stevens tells us that a French lieutenant, a French soldier and an Indian came forward, and he sent out three of his men, but does not tell us who they were. What an excellent choice Joseph Patrell would have been. While the better-educated colonist and many Indians spoke French, Joseph's bilingual gifts probably gave him a considerable advantage over his fellow privates and centinels. Certainly this parley would have been a good use of his skills.

The French, commanded by Chevalier Jean-Baptiste Boucher de Niverville, offered to take the fort without further bloodshed if the defenders would lay down their weapons and be carried into captivity to Montreal. He generously offered that they could keep their clothing, blankets and provisions, and without waiting for Captain Stevens to answer him, launched into threats, saying that he would immediately set the fort on fire or overrun it because he had 700 men with him. Further, if they killed even one Indian "we might Expect all to be put to the sword."

Captain Stevens replied that it was inconsistent with their orders to surrender and

> ...unless I was better satisfied he was able to perform what he threatened, I further told him yt it was but poor Encouragement to resign into the hands of an Enemy yt upon one of them being killed they would put all to the sword when it was probable we had killed some of theirs already....

The parley broke up and Capt. Stevens put it to a vote among his men, and they "...voted to a man to stand it out, and also declared they would fight as long as they had life, rather than goe with them."

Hostilities resumed, but the French and Indians never had the courage to get close enough to fire the fort. By the next morning the Indians came forward to parley, and two men came out from the fort to hear what they had to say. The proposal was that if they would sell them provisions they would abandon the fight. Stevens replied that it was not legal for him to sell provisions to the enemy, but if they would send in a prisoner for every five bushels of corn, such a trade was possible. The Indians declined this offer and returned to the woods, where, after several guns were fired, silence fell.

Suspecting a ruse, the defenders in the fort prepared for another onslaught. They dug trenches all around the fort so deep that a man could stand in them without exposing himself and yet keep the fort wet with barrels of water. This they did all night long.

Capt. Stevens described their

> ...distressed circumstances...to have such an arm[y] of Starved creatures around us, whose necessity obliged them to be the more earnest; they seem'd Every minute as tho they were going to swallow us by using all the threatening Language they could possibly invent, with shouting and firing as if the Heavens & Earth was coming down together....

The French and Indians eventually broke off their attack, and ending the seige proceeded south to Northfield, Massachusetts, where they killed two men, and then retreated to Canada. Reports from the French indicate that de Niverville had only 60 men with him, not 700.[16]

Through the seige Joseph Patrell undoubtedly participated in the active defense, balancing on the steep roofs of the fort to fire at the enemy. Perhaps he traded pithy insults from the walls with his opponents in the nearby woods or translated scraps of overheard conversations. Whatever his contribution, the silence of the records suggests that he returned from his service unscathed. He was not on the muster rolls of August, 1747, when several men were killed and scalped at No. 4.

In February of 1748, the General Court ordered that to encourage enlistment

> ...those Soldiers already posted at N° 4 & at Fort Massachusetts, will make the Number at each to be One hundred effective Men (Officers included) and to give Orders to the Commanding Officers in said Garrisons respectively that a Suitable Number be constantly Employed to intercept the French & Indian Enemy in their Marches from Wood Creek & Otter Creek to our Frontiers to Continue in said Service until the first of October next & that the Commanding Officers keep fair Journals of their Marches from time to time & Return the same to this Court & that over & above the Bounty abovementioned & the pay & subsistance of the Province agreeable to the last Establishment there be & hereby is granted to be paid to the Officers & Soldiers in Equal Parts who shall be in any Scout that may kill or Captivate any Enemy Indian the Sum of £100 the Scalp of the Indian killed to be produced to the Governour & Council in Evidence thereof[17]

A further bounty of £5 on the day of enlistment and £5 at the expiration of a three year service was voted for each man who volunteered to serve in either the eastern or western frontiers.[18] In May 1748, the hoped-for 400 men had still not enlisted, and the Council voted to give a £5 bounty to any man enlisting for frontier service for just one year.[19] Evidently this was not sufficient inducement for Joseph Patrell to re-enlist after the harrowing seige at Fort N° 4. He did not enlist to fight again until 1753.

Settlement in Western Massachusetts

Many of Lt. Col. William Williams' men were from the western parts of Massachusetts, and it is in this area that Joseph Patrell settled by 1753, and probably met, courted, and married his wife, Esther.

Her identity is a matter for speculation. Since she had children between 1753 and 1774, we may assume that she was approximately twenty at the time of her marriage, say 1752, and thus in her very early forties by the end of her childbearing years in 1774. [H]Esther is a rather uncommon name, but preliminary searches for likely candidates have not netted any promising people.

On a bitter cold 3rd of February in 1753, Joseph and Esther welcomed their first son into the light of day. No contemporary record of this child's birth was made in any town records, but many decades later, a full list of the children born to Joseph and Esther was included in the town books of Ware, Massachusetts. This first child may have been born in the frontier town of Greenwich.

Our earliest contemporary evidence for Joseph's location places him in the town of Greenwich, Massachusetts. At the December 1756 Term of the Hampshire County Court of General Sessions, Joseph Patrell complained against the Assessors of the Town of Greenwich for overtaxing him. The court agreed that he had a valid case and ordered the matter continued to the next term when the Assessors would be called to appear.[20]

At the March 1757 Term, in the case brought by Joseph Patrell, both parties appearing, the judgment was issued that, > the s^{d} Joseph be eased of y^{e} Taxes at Greenwich the sum of one pound 8/ and that he be reimbursed and Costs allowed him taxed at two pounds 1/11[21]

Seated as one of the Justices of the Sessions during this term was Joseph Patrell's old commander, William Williams.[22]

While this record serves several very useful purposes, it does not tell us much we would like to know. We cannot say what the length of time Joseph was overtaxed might be, nor can we judge whether the property in question was land or something else. The considerable sum in question would suggest that it was either several hundred acres of land for a year or two, or personal property taxes for the better part of a decade.

If we assume that the property being taxed in 1757 was land, the question of how it came into Joseph's hands becomes of interest. We have found no surviving record of Joseph's purchase or sale of this land. This is not to say that there was no such transaction, only that it was not recorded.

Another possibility exists. The lands that were eventually incorporated into the town of Greenwich were originally bounty grants for service in King Philip's War. These lands, called the Narragansett No. 4, were granted to veterans of the 1676 conflict, but not laid out until over forty years later. Many veterans had died by this time, and their heirs were sought to take title. It was not uncommon for happily settled heirs to pass on the chance to tackle unbroken ground on the frontier. Many sold their bounty lands without ever seeing them, often for just a pittance.

Esther may have inherited bounty lands from her father or grandfather. In the absence of male heirs, or upon an agreement or the purchase of rights, the interest in the bounty could pass to a woman. This would explain the lack of recorded deeds attached to what we assume were Patrell's lands. The title may have been held in Esther's father's name, but managed by her husband. If the court judgment was not enough and Joseph did not pay future taxes, the town probably eventually seized the lands. At this point there should have been a record in the Greenwich proprietor's records, but a diligent search turned up no such record. The Patrells may also have bought the land and failed to record the instrument. Not enough evidence has been found to resolve this mystery.

From muster rolls and town records, we know that Greenwich was not Joseph's only residence. He is credited with being from Hardwick and Ware River in subsequent years, before finally being moved to Norwich, Vermont, at the end of his life.

Service in the Seven Years' War

As we have seen, Joseph Patrell had found useful employment as a soldier in his early twenties. In his thirties, he again answered the call for men to serve in the militia, this time in the Seven Years' War being waged in the Lakes region of New York. Joseph answered the call for additional troops to march to Fort William Henry in August of 1757, as it stood besieged, but a timely surrender probably allowed him to turn around and march home without firing a shot. Joseph Patrell appeared on this "Alaram Roll" dated 5 January 1758 at Ware River Parish:

A Muster roll of Cap^{t} Jacob Cummins Company for Col. Israel Williams Redgement that went to y^{e} relief of Fort William Henry when besieged by the Enimy In augst 1757

During the march from his home to Kinderhook in the Hudson River Valley, Patrell and others dined at least once with Luke Bliss, an innkeeper, who promptly sent the government a bill:

The payment of individual soldiers for their service is among the only record sources we have to trace a man's activities during the French and Indian wars.[25] Pay was a perennial problem, not just for the men, but also for the officers. Journals and letters of the time are full of complaints over being "ill used" and "much disappointed" at promised paydays that never came. In an undated but probably 1758, "Return of y^{e} Men Under Capt Robinson In Col^{l} Tim^{o} Ruggles's Reg^{t}," our "Joseph Pattourel" was one of one hundred and two men paid various amounts between £9.15.0 and £14.9.15, depending on their time served. Joseph received £12.15.0 old tenor.[26]

In a petition to Colonel Timothy Ruggles Esqr., dated at Northampton, May 30, 1758, the names of 59 of Capt. Samuel Robinson's men are signed, asking that Ruggles,

> Pleas to pay Unto Cap^{t} Sam^{l} Robinson our Respective Billeting as We Being Soldiers In Your Regiment & in her Company & you Will Oblidg us y^{e} Subscribers

The name "Joseph patourell" is affixed to this petition, but whether it is his authentic autograph or simply his name signed to the page by a comrade, is not certain.[27] What is sure, is that this was not the only time Joseph Patrell would have to wait overly long for his money.

In 1758, Joseph Patrell took part in the campaign at Lake George in Capt. Samuel Robinson's company under Col. Timothy Ruggles.

In an undated return of Capt. Samuel Robinson's Company in Col. Ruggles' Regiment, is included

> Jos: Patriel 3 Apl france Cap^{n} Commin 35 not muster'd [28]

The columns on this muster roll are not headed. There is one other man from France listed: John Boureaw, aged 33. Only two other foreign-born soldiers are on this list: Henry McKneel, aged 36 and Abra^{m} Black, aged 28, both from Ireland. It is interesting that these foreign-born men were all older than the average soldier in this conflict.

Joseph Patrell returned to the service in 1759, attached to the company of Capt. William Paige. Whether this was where Patrell thought he would end up or not is a question. Commissions in the young army were often won by the recruitment of substantial numbers of men. In his book, The People's Army, Fred Anderson had this to say about the conduct of William Paige:

> Paige was miserably ineffectual as a recruiter in his own right, but enjoyed an inestimable advantage in his lack of scruples. In order to preserve his claim to a captaincy, Paige took credit for enlisting the troops who thought they were signing on to serve under [Rufus] Putnam.[29]

Paige may have stolen other men's recruits, as well. This was a calculated risk, since by enlisting, most men were not only choosing to serve, but choosing the man they wished to follow. Having lost a number of men to Paige, Putnam had to be contented with a lesser commission, that of corporal, rather than the captaincy he had earned and expected. Paige's co-opted troops performed well, regardless of what they may have thought of him, and we do not find any of them being charged with desertion or accused of other crimes during their stints.

In an undated return, but probably 1759, "Joseph Patrel" is listed as one of the men enlisted to serve in Col. Timothy Ruggles' regiment "for the Invasion of CANADA." He enlisted on April 2nd, having served in the previous campaign of 1758 at Lake George. We further learn from this list that Joseph was residing in Hardwick, was aged 36 years, and had his own arms.[30]

"Joseph Pattourell" appeared on another 1759 muster roll; this time among sixty-four men in the company commanded by William Paige Esq^{r}, Captain, in "the Late Crown Point Expedition." Patrell was a private from Ware River, enlisted on 2 April through 29 November. Also on this muster roll were Cornelius Stowell as 1st Lieutenant, James Henderson as 2nd Lieutenant, and Rufus Putnam as Corporal. This service of thirty-four weeks and four days should have netted him a pay of £15.11.2, but the muster roll shows that he had received £1.15.3 from the Commissary and £1.18.0 from the Captain. This list was submitted in Boston on February 9, 1760, by William Paige.[31] Consequently, the country owed Patrell £11.17.11.

A significant item on this list is the column entitled "What each Man receiv$^{'}$d of the Captain." Some soldiers had received more than £10 from Captain Paige. In contrast, Joseph Patrell had received just £1.15.3, indicating that he was not particularly needy and had probably carried considerable provision with him.

The captains charged with writing out these company pay lists encountered significant difficulties in completing them, either because they had not recorded the amounts they gave some of their soldiers, or as a result of lost records. These

Once again, Joseph more than earned his money on the 1759 campaign. James Henderson, listed as a Lieutenant in Capt. Paige's company actually served in Capt. James Johnson's company in Col. Timothy Ruggles' regiment while Joseph served with Capt. William Paige. Henderson kept a journal of events, many of which would have happened to and been noticed by Patrell, as well. Exerpts have been selected from Henderson's journal of events experienced by Patrell while the two companies were under identical orders:

At this point we leave the journal of James Henderson, since Joseph Patrell and the healthy members of Capt. Paige's company were headed for Fort No. 4 and Henderson was headed home.[35]

From October into November, Joseph Patrell and hundreds of others worked on seventy-seven and a half miles of what was called the Crown Point Road, reaching from Chimney Point to N°. 4.

Cornelius Stowell, who maintained a journal and orderly book for the year 1759, also served in Capt. Paige's company. He recorded that Joseph "patriel" received his arms at Albany on 29 May 1759.[36] We can only wonder what happened to his own arms which he must have carried from Hardwick to Albany if the original muster roll was correct.

Joseph Patrell took a break from the wars after the 1759 campaign until March of 1762 when he enlisted again from Ware.

In any event, Joseph Patrell, now 40 years old, once again returned home unscathed.

Revolutionary War Service

Joseph Patrell, and his two eldest surviving sons, Joseph Jr. and John Patrell, each served several stints in the Revolutionary War. The elder Joseph enlisted from 19 August to 30 November 1777 for service with Capt. Joseph Hooker who recruited many men from the town of Greenwich, Massachusetts, to fight under Col. Ruggles Woodbridge in the Northern Army. Patrell was credited with traveling 175 miles. Hooker's command was sent to New York, passing through Scarsdale to report to Major General Gates who was put in charge of operations against Burgoyne at Saratoga. Joseph Patrell arrived just in time to participate in the First Battle of Saratoga, which saw heavy fighting on several famous battlefields.

In 1778, Joseph Patrell again enlisted, this time with Capt. Samuel Fairfield under Col. Nathan Sparhawk for service at Dorchester, Massachusetts. Probably this was routine guard duty and provided a welcome respite from the close encounters of the previous year for the now 55-year-old Patrell.

Later Life

WARE

Dame Nature once, when making land,
Had refuse left of stone and sand;
She viewed it well, then threw it down,
Between Coy's Hill and Belchertown,
And said, you paltry stuff lie there,
And make a town and call it Ware!

Following his 1778 service, Joseph Patrell returned home to western Massachusetts and resided in Ware. While later records insist that he never owned any land there, never paid any property or poll taxes, and thus never established a legal residency, likewise there are no contemporary records of his being warned out. This suggests that he had sufficient means or enough friends and comrades in arms to be considered a contributing member of the community and that the town selectmen were not concerned that he might need their support.

This situation changed as Joseph Patrell grew more aged. On 22 June 1785, the Ware selectmen voted to "take some method to releave Patroll and his wife."[39] By 1788, the town of Ware foresaw mounting charges stemming from Joseph's old age, and determined that since he was not a native of Ware, a case could be made for his support coming from the General Court rather than from the citizens of Ware. Representing the town of Ware, Isaac Pepper wrote to the Court on 30 May 1788:

> To the Hon'b Senate & Hon'b House of Representatives in General Court Assembled... The subscriber in behalf of the Town of Ware Humbly Sheweth That Joseph Patrill who resides in said Town of Ware is in very needy circumstances and by reason of age cannot by no means support himself and although the above mentioned Joseph Patrill has for a considerable Number of years dwelt in said Town of Ware, yet he never has made himself an Inhabitant of Ware or any other place that is known of in this Country and ever since he has resided in Ware has been in such low circumstances as to Estate that he never was taxed by said Town of Ware for his poll or any Estate whatsoever but has received his maintenance from Ware for about two years and for a number of years has in some measure received his support by the Charity of Individual persons as will appear by a certificate accompaning this petition and as said Joseph Patril is a native of the Isle of Gernsee the town of Ware knows of no place whereby they may by law transmit said Joseph Patril unto for to be supported and maintained. Your peitioners do therefore Humbly Pray that your Honours would cause the said Patril to receive his maintenance from this Commonwealth in General that thereby said Town may be Releaved from the burden in that respect and that your Honours would put in some person or persons for a Guardian of said Patril as your Honours in their wisdom shall think fit and proper as your Petitioner in Duty bound shall ever pray.
> Isaac Pepper Representative in behalf of the Town of Ware.[40]

Mr. Pepper described how the town of Ware had never taxed Joseph Patrell on his poll or on any property, hoping to support the notion that Patrell had no settlement there, despite having lived in the town for decades. Pepper did not describe Patrell as an experienced soldier who had served numerous enlistments, usually fulfilling one of Ware's quotas, since this might have caused the Court to throw out the petition. The idea of an ongoing pension rather than bounty land or bonuses had not yet gained popularity in the Commonwealth, although, given the large numbers of disabled Revolutionary veterans, it soon would.

Ware had not followed the letter of the law, however, and could not point to warnings out or any of the legal steps that should have been taken had the Patrell family ever been considered a potential burden. No mention is made of Joseph's wife's settlement, which may well have been in Ware, and may point to the likelihood that she had died not long before May of 1788.

The General Court turned down Mr. Pepper's petition, and the town of Ware finally resolved to send Joseph to his oldest son, now living out of state.

marched to reinforce General Gates' army at Fishkill, N.Y., in 1777, and had service in Rhode Island from July to December of 1779.

Following the war, on 10 May 1784, John and his brother Joseph pooled their resources and paid £128 to Jonathan Delano for a one hundred acre lot in Norwich, Vt.[49]

About the time Joseph Patrell Sr. was sent to live with his son Joseph in Norwich, on 10 March 1789, John Patrell quitclaimed for the sum of £75 to his older brother, all his rights in property they had jointly purchased.[50] John removed to Shelburne, Vermont, where he settled on a beautiful lakefront property and served as a surveyor of highways and hayward.[51] Both John and Eunice were buried in the West Cemetery, in Shelburne.

On 8 June 1803, widow Polly declined administration of her husband's estate, and letters were granted to Joseph Harrington of Burlington, who posted a $2000 bond.[52] Harrington sold the land and personal estate and paid the bulk of the proceeds to Mary Harrington and to John Patrell's brother-in-law, Roderick Day. Widow Polly Patrell probably married second this same Joseph Harrington, since she not only received the largest share of John's estate, but Harrington quitclaimed his rights in "the land formerly belonging

iv. JOSIAH[2] PATRELL (twin), birth on record at Ware, Mass., 11 December 1759; living 8 November 1817 when the constable of Richmond, Vt., was ordered to warn Josiah Patrill "now residing in Richmond" to depart the town.[54] On 22 November, Stephen Cooper, the constable served the paper by leaving a copy at "the last & usual place of abode of the within named Josiah Patrill."[55] Where he went and how long he survived is not known.

In 1785, the town of Ware repeatedly paid doctors for treating "young Patroll," but the town orders do not inform us of the nature of his illness or injury. At the same time, Mr. Lot Whitcomb was directed to consult an attorney on the behalf of the town regarding "a note belonging to Josiah Patroll." On 2 June 1785, Capt. Brakenridge was appointed guardian to Josiah Patroll to take steps to "procure a certain sum of money that is due to said Patroll."[56] In all likelihood, this sum was back wages, perhaps earned before an injury.

In September of 1796 in Windsor County, Vt., Josiah brought suit in Superior Court against his brother, Joseph Patrell[57]; no further record. By14 June 1806, Josiah Patrell was warned out of Berkshire, Vt.[58]

v. EPHRAIM[2] PATRELL (twin), birth on record at Ware, Mass., 11 December 1759; no further record.

Being so closely related, the two couples were interdependent. SECOND GENERATION

2. JOSEPH[2] PATRELL (Joseph[1]), birth on record at Ware, Massachusetts, 9 August 1754[1]; died in Norwich, Vermont, 29 October 1829, aged 75 years[2]; married in Norwich 25 August 1790[3] MARY (FOX) BURT[S], born about 1753,[4] died in Norwich 24 December 1834, aged 81 years,[5] widow of Benjamin Robert Burt[s].

We may assume that Joseph[2] Patrell, eldest surviving son of Joseph[1] and Esther Patrell, grew up in Hampshire County, Massachusetts, and learned the skills of husbandry from an early age. Like most young men in his circumstances, he would have begun working either as a day laborer or a boarding worker by the time he was in his early teens. While we do not know on whose farms he may have worked, we do know that he learned well, mastering skills with crops and livestock to make his future family comfortable in the decades following the founding of the new American government.

In the early years of the American Revolution, recruitment for area militias and for the Continental Line was extensive in western Massachusetts. Bounties for enlisting and promises of adequate pay made the short stints - anywhere from three months on up - attractive to young men without family or property obligations.

On 5 May 1777, at the age of 23, Joseph Patrell enlisted at Petersham, Massachusetts, as a private in the company of Capt. William Henry, in Col. Whitney's regiment. Two months later he was discharged at Rhode Island on 5 July 1777, having spent nine days traveling about 180 miles to camp and home.[6] Not much happened in Rhode Island during this time, and it is doubtful that Joseph saw dangerous action. Col. William Barton of Providence, commanding part of Stanton's Rhode Island militia, made a daring raid on the British, capturing Major General Prescott, but it is unlikely that Joseph Patrell was near enough to participate.

Joseph re-enlisted a month later with Capt. Wing Spooner's company on 23 August 1777 and served until 19 November 1777, when he traveled 200 miles to return home.[7]

It was winter of the next year before we have record of him enlisting again. Joseph appears on a roll dated at Petersham, Massachusetts, with service from 3 November through 19 November 1778 in Capt. Jotham Houghton's company, which was detached from Col. Nathan Sparhawks' 7th Regiment under Col. Jacob Gerrish.[8] Their assignment was to guard and escort the hapless troops captured by General Gates when Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga in October. This large assemblage of soldiers, originally totaling 4,991 men, including British, German and Canadian soldiers, and the unfortunate Baroness Reidesel and her three daughters, were left in limbo for years as a result of the Saratoga convention.

This surrender agreement originally stated that the prisoners would be returned to England where they would be freed upon promising not to serve against the Americans for the duration of the Revolution. For one reason or another obstacles kept preventing the hoped-for sailing and they remained prisoners, guarded by various Continental troops, until the end of the war. Joseph Patrell and the men under Capt. Jotham Houghton were sent to escort the "convention troops" from Roxbury to Enfield, Connecticut, on the first leg of a journey that wound through New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania (where many of the Germans faded away into the night), Maryland, and dipped as far south as Charlottesville, Virginia, in early 1779, before heading north again to avoid a rescue by Cornwallis. Evidently, Joseph's company took them only as far as Enfield, before Houghton's men were relieved and sent home.[9]

This last service brought Joseph into contact with many troops under General Seth Warner. A large number of these men were from Vermont, and they may have assured young Patrell that it was an attractive place to settle.

By the end of the war, Joseph and his brother John Patrell were living in Brookfield, Mass. Although we believe Joseph was a single man, John had been married for two years when on 10 May 1784 the brothers pooled their resources and paid £128 to Jonathan Delano for a one hundred acre lot in Norwich, Vermont, it being the second hundred acre lot laid out to the 15th right, belonging to Benjamin Jenning, the original proprietor.[10] The partnership lasted for about five years, at which point, on 10 March 1789, John Patrell quitclaimed all his rights in the property to his brother, Joseph Patrell Jr. of Norwich, for the sum of

Joseph's earmark at Norwich, Vermont

Sometime between 9 June 1789 and 1 March 1790, Joseph's father, Joseph Sr., was transported from Ware to Norwich, Vermont, to live with his son.

[11] Norwich, Windsor Co., Vt., Deed, 1:348.
[12] Shelburne, Vt., Town Records, 1:81, 90.

In 1790, Joseph started his family by marrying the widow Mary (Fox) Burt. Called to depose regarding a pension claim, neighbor Sally Johnson described the arrival of the widow Burt in Norwich:[13]

> That some time about the year 1790 the widow Mary Burts came into our neighborhood & took up residence in the family of Mr. Humphrey Ball who lived less than half a mile from the Johnson's house as a nourse to Mr. Ball. (Mary) informed me that she was a widow and came from Canaan, N.H., and that she had several children then living; not long after, the s[a]id Mrs. Burts married to Joseph Pattrell of Norwich & that Pattrell lived within one mile of our house until his death.[14]

With her first husband, Mary Fox had children, surname Burt: Benjamin R., born 23 December 1774, Jacob, born 10 June 1776, Mary born 10 April 1778, Lucy, born 19 April 1781, Seth, born 27 March 178?, Dean, born 31 March 17??, and William, born 23 August 17??. In addition to these recorded children, there was also a son Jedediah Burt, who was living in Essex, Vermont, about 1849, described as "an old man."[15]

Benjamin, Jacob and Jedediah Burt were all 14 years old or older at the time their mother remarried, and it is possible that none of them came to live with their new step-father, but may have already been living on their own and working in other families.

Nearing the end of her childbearing years, Mary evidently had five children in quick succession with her new husband. The births of four of these children were recorded at Norwich and three of the children survived to adulthood and married.

The 1791 and 1800 Norwich censuses would imply that there was a first, unrecorded child, a daughter, born about 1790.[16] Although no record of her birth survives; she was probably the "child d Norwich VT 1804/5, 16y" recorded in the Congregational Church records of Norwich. The age given as "16y" may actually mean "in her 16th year," or what we would now consider 15 years old. At the latter end of the range 1804/5, this would make her born sometime in 1790. Further, the Vermont 1790 census, so called, was actually taken after April 1791, unlike subsequent censuses where the count was taken in the decade year. This late date helps explain why there were two females in Joseph Patrell's family in the "1790" census.[17]

[17] 1791 U.S. Federal census, Vermont, Windsor Co., Norwich, p. 62. "Joseph Patril 1 male over 16 2 females."

The vagueness of the date in the church death record encourages us to interpret this daughter as Joseph and Mary's first child, rather than embrace the idea that Joseph was married earlier to a woman for whom we have no independent evidence.

On 19 February 1796, Joseph Patrell (no longer called Jr.), sold two 20-acre parcels of land to Sarah Miner and Anderson Miner for £40 and £30, respectively, out of a lot of "land on which I now live."[18] These deeds were not recorded until 9 June 1800 and 2 October 1805.

Joseph's final Norwich land transaction was his purchase for $100 from the administrator of the estate of neighbor Samuel Bartlett of 20 acres of Bartlett's farm on 19 January 1813.[19]

Joseph Patrell took little part in the political dealings of his chosen town. Ordinarily, a land-owning man might be expected to serve his town in minor offices, such as hogreeve or fence viewer by the time he was in his early thirties. This did not happen in Joseph's case. He did sign a 1792 petition for a lottery to build a free bridge in Norwich.[20] A clue to why he might have remained an outsider in Norwich for almost forty years is found when he stated for the record on 4 April 1804 that, "I do not agree in religious opinion with a majority of this town."[21] He signed his name to this document, indicating that he was literate.

Joseph's handsome gravestone stands in the back of Waterman Cemetery on Drewry Lane in Norwich, where his Revolutionary service is honored by a fresh flag each year. No gravestone has been found for Mary, who survived him five years.

Some years after Mary's death, a pension application was made by two doctors in Norwich on behalf of her son, Benjamin R. Burts Jr., on the service of Mary's first husband, Benjamin Roberts Burts. The doctors had recently acquired a pension for a neighbor in town, despite the fact that the widow in question had been dead for some years. Having initially told Lyman Patrell, in whose house on the old homestead Mary had died, that she had died too long ago, Doctors Davis and Sweatt returned and told the family that a new law had been passed, and they could benefit from it, as their neighbor had. Depositions were gathered from credible witnesses and Burts was given a paper written by one of the doctors to register with the Norwich town clerk. This paper included births and marriages for Benjamin Burts' family and the death date of his mother, Mary (Fox) (Burts) Patrell. The date was given as 27 December 1839 rather than the 25 December 1834 correctly maintained by Lyman Patrell.

The doctors collected the pension, distributed one third of it to the surviving children, Lyman Patrell, John Patrell and Benjamin Burts, then divided the remaining two thirds amongst themselves. Their greed eventually got the better of them. Dr. Davis engaged in a long correspondence with the War Department and the Pension bureau demanding further payment of the pension, challenging the decision to pay based on Burts' service after he returned from what was called a desertion, and not including his earlier service. While this was going on, a son of Mary's long believed dead, Jedediah Burts, came back to Norwich having heard that his mother's heirs were entitled to a portion of her pension.

The ensuing charges and recriminations over fraud make most interesting reading. The statute of limitations having run out, the recourse in the law was very limited. This is not your usual pension file, and selected transcriptions of papers from it may be found in the second appendix in this book.

Here lies the mortal remains of Joseph Pattrell, who died Oct. 29th 1829, aged 75 years.

3. SARAH[2] PATRELL (Joseph[1]), birth on record in Ware, Massachusetts, 29 January 1762[29]; died in Norwich, Vermont, 22 March 1841, aged 78 years[30]; unmarried.

Despite the fact that Sarah Patrell's birth is recorded in Ware, the town fathers did not act as though they believed she had a settlement there. After her daughter Malinda, a child born out of wedlock, but evidently of a Cummings father, became a ward of the town at age six in 1793, the selectmen took steps to remove Sarah, paying Mr. Snell to provide her with a pair of shoes and to "forward her on to her brother Joseph Patrill," who lived in Norwich, Vt.[31]

Sarah prospered in Norwich. In 1828, her ear-mark for cattle was registered, having once been the ear-mark used by Elisha Partridge.[32] She also owned a parcel of land, containing two acres and four rods.[33] Sarah recorded no grantee deeds, so we don't know how she acquired this land. It may have been a gift from her brother, Joseph. In the 1800 census, Sarah's family consisted of two women, Sarah and her daughter Malinda, although the census-taker must have thought them somewhat older than their actual years, calling 38-year-old Sarah "over 45" and teen-aged Malinda "26-45."[34] In later decades, although Sarah owned the land, son-in-law James Sweeney, was called the head of household.

At her death in the spring of 1841, Sarah's estate was administered by David Slafter, and her inventory taken by John Slafter and Ira Davis of Norwich:

2 acres & 4 rods of land & buildings thereon	$50.00
4 Acres of land easterly of the above	40.00

On 17 February 1842, David G. Slafter was ordered to sell the estate at public auction or private sale. Slafter'settlement of the estate showed that he had paid "James Sweeney the only heir" the sum of $4.43.[35]

Ware Congregational Church

While Isaac made no appearance in local church records, Sally attended the Ware Congregational church, where she was baptized as an adult on 14 July 1816.[45] Presented by their mother, on 29 September 1816, all the surviving children, Isaac, Sally, Bersheba Pastor, Esther Day, Eliza, Terzy Madison and James Brakenbridge, were baptized as well.[46] On 6 April 1822, little Sophia Snell Patrell was baptized there, too.[47] None of the children of Isaac's second family chose to be baptized in that church.

On 6 March 1832, Isaac and "Sally my present wife" sold seven acres and two and a half rods of land in Ware to Esther D. Patrell of Ware for $100.[48] Six months later, on 6 October 1832, Esther D. Patrell sold back the same piece of land for $100 to Isaac Patrell, Esther acknowledging the deed as "Esther D. Day formerly Esther D. Patterell."[49]

In 1841, Isaac deeded property to his two unmarried daughters Bathsheba Pattrill of Palmer and Eliza Pattrill of Enfield, it being a lot with buildings. Sally (Joselyn) Pattrill of Hardwick quit claimed her dower in this property to her two step-daughters on 9 April 1847.[50]

After his death in 1847, administration of Isaac's estate was granted 1 February 1848 to his widow, Sally Patrell of Ware, and to Stephen Joslyn of Enfield.[51]

5. LOIS[2] PATRELL (Joseph[1]), birth on record in Ware, Massachusetts, 7 October 1771[68]; living 1792; marriage intention dated 5 February 1792,[69] in Greenwich, Massachusetts, by Esq[r] Stebins, 17 [April] 1792[70] with JESSE REED.

Lois began her life in relatively comfortable circumstances, but as one of her parents' youngest children, she was still quite young when they fell on hard times. In 1785, the town paid for a pair of shoes for "Lois Patroll,"[71] and by the time she was eighteen, she was being bid out by the town for support. Armchair historian Arthur Chase wrote of Lois,

> Apparently the Patrills were an unfortunate lot, for in 1790 Lois, only 19 years old, and her baby, are cried at the town meeting. James Brackenridge bids the pair off at a penny a week - exclusive of clothing and doctoring. It was evidentally a charity on Brackenridges part which he could not continue indefinitely, for he only keeps them the stipulated six months, after which poor Lois's price goes higher. In 1792 the selectmen's books show charges for keeping Lois, for nursing the child, and "one order to James Brackenridge for makeing a coffen - 3 shillings."[72]

Lois lived in the households of Jonathan Marsh, Jacob Lazell, and finally Thomas Patrick, while she attempted to raise her chronically ill child. About two years after the baby's death, Lois entered her intention to marry fellow Ware resident Jesse Reed. When the marriage record was returned and entered in the Greenwich town books, it bore no date and the name of the groom was rendered "Joseph" by the clerk.

A Jesse Reed was head of a considerable household of young children, many too old to belong to Lois, in the 1800 census of New Ashford, Mass.[73]

A Jesse Reed appears in the 1820 Springfield, Vermont, census, with the following family: 0 0 0 0 1 0; 3 1 1 0 0; 0 0 0 1, for a total of six persons.[74] This means there was one male 26-44, 3 females under 10, one female 10-15, and one female 16-25. One person was involved in manufacturing, probably the adult male. If this was Lois' family, we may interpret what became of her after marrying Jesse Reed. She had at least one daughter between 1795 and 1804, one daughter between 1805 and 1810, and three little girls between 1810 and 1820, before dying by 1820. In 1820 she would have been 49 years old, so her final three daughters were probably born before 1806, when she would have reached 45.

Springfield would have been a natural place for Jesse and Lois to have settled, no great distance from where some of her older siblings had lived.

We cannot now be certain what became of Lois after her marriage, but this Springfield family could provide some of the answers.[75]

THIRD GENERATION

6. JOHN[3] PATRELL (Joseph[2-1]), farmer, born in Norwich, Vermont, 31 May 1792[1]; died in Moretown, Vermont, 15 April 1874, aged 82 years[2]; married first by Elisha Burton, J.P., in Norwich 14 May 1815[3] SARAH BURTON, perhaps the daughter of Levi and Ruth Burton; married second in Norwich 5 September 1816[4] MEDINA [called DURA] METCALF, born about 1790, died in Moretown 30 April 1856, aged 66 years[5]; married third by Rev. N.W. Scott, in Glover, Vt., 19 November 1860[6] CATHERINE PERKINS, housekeeper, born in New Jersey about 1792,[7] died probably between 1860 and 1870.[8]

John Patrell became a freeman of Norwich on 7 September 1813,[9] but although he actively purchased and sold land in the town, he was not active in town affairs.

He paid Ira Baxter of Norwich $100 for 2 acres and 25 rods of land in Norwich, being a "piece of land taken off the third hundred acres laid out to the original right of Samuel Havens," part of the land Baxter had purchased from Roswell Percivel.[10] John Patrell broke even when he sold this piece of property on 29 May 1819 to David F. Slafter for $100.[11] He added steadily to his holdings, with purchases on 20 May 1819 of Ralph Waterman for 20 acres in lot no. 17 in the 4th range for $200[12] and on 19 February 1825 of Ethan Burnap for land formerly owned by Elijah Waterman for $72.[13] Patrell even accepted mortgages from Ira Broughton on 80 rods of land on 8 and 10 February 1831.[14]

In 1836, the Patrells moved to Moretown, where, on 23 September 1836 John purchased of Ezekiel Clapp a homestead farm for $1500.[15] This property carried a $600 mortgage, which John Patrell discharged on 22 November 1838.[16] On 19 October 1836, John Patrell, still described as "of Norwich," began selling his Norwich land, receiving $300 from Henry S. Burton of Norwich for 24 acres.[17]

On 21 January 1837, John Patrell sold for $600 to his younger brother Lyman a piece of land of 4 acres and another parcel of 48 acres with buildings "which was owned and occupied by Joseph Pattrell at his decease," excepting 26 acres purchased from the estate of Samuel Bartlett.[18] On the same day, Lyman sold several parcels in Norwich to John, evidently settling between themselves the ownership of land inherited from their father.[19]

In the next month, as the snows cleared, John Patrell, now "of Moretown," resumed selling off his Norwich land, deeding 6 acres and 34 rods to Willard and William Waterman for $215 on 14 February 1837 and selling 30 acres more or less to Caleb Clough for $275 on 20 February 1837.[20] By summer he was again selling land, this time parting with 80 rods for $150 paid by Harry H. Waterman on 12 June 1837.[21]

As a resident of Moretown, John Patrell served the town as a highway surveyor in 1844,[22] and as District clerk for school district #11 in 1845.[23] He sent two children to the District 11 school from 1843 through 1849, and just one, his youngest child, Smith, in 1850.[24]

On 15 September 1848, John Patrell purchased lot #52 in the second division from Abner Child of Moretown for $250.[25]

On 13 October 1848, John Patrell sold his homestead farm, "on which I now live and the same I bought of Ezekiel Clapp" for $600 paid by William G. Clark of Middlesex, Vermont.[26]

After his wife Dura's death in 1858, John, then aged 68 years, lived with his son Joel in the nearby town of Warren, Vermont, and still lived there in 1870.

Despite owning considerable property at his death, John Patrell's estate was not probated. Both John and Dura were buried in the Village Cemetery in Moretown.[27]

The original Patrell homestead at Norwich was purchased in 1784 by Joseph[2] and John[2] Patrell. John quitclaimed his rights to Joseph in 1789 and at Joseph's death, the property descended to eldest son John[3].[51]

On 21 January 1837, John sold to his younger brother, Lyman Patrell, for $600, a parcel of four acres of land, and another parcel of forty-eight acres with buildings, it being the property owned and occupied by their father, Joseph Patrell, at his death.[52]

Lyman and Lyman's descendants lived and worked on this same land until 1943, when the homestead was sold out of the family.

Malinda spent her early years in Ware, Mass., where she was supported by the town. At the age of six, she was bid off to Mr. Oliver Newton, and in subsequent years to Lt. Abraham Cummings, Jacob Lazall and the widow Downing.[62] Although it seems certain that her father was a Cummings, what relationship she might have had to Lt. Abraham Cummings is a matter for speculation.

Malinda followed her mother to Norwich by 1800, met and married James Sweeney, and settled in to live on her mother's property. Her son, James, Jr., is seen in the 1830 census, having reached the age of 9 years, but is not part of the household in the 1840 census, when he would have been approaching 20 years old.[63]

On 23 May 1828, James Sweeney and Malinda Sweeney of Norwich for $10 quitclaimed their right to two acres and four rods of land in Norwich to her mother, Sarah Pattrill of Norwich, the land's owner.[64] The nature and purpose of this quitclaim is not obvious, and it did not pertain to another parcel of four acres in Norwich which Sarah Pattrill also owned. The homestead and buildings in which Sarah and the Sweeneys were presumably living was located on the two-acre parcel. One possible intent was to clear the path of ownership to grandson James Sweeney Jr. Whatever the purpose, it resulted in serious consequences.

Following Sarah's death in the spring of 1841, her property was appraised on 9 October 1841. The appraisal was taken to court on the 27th of October, at which time it was probably clear to all concerned that Malinda and her husband would have to move. The realization that the Sweeneys were out of a house had tragic results.

> On the morning of Sunday, Nov. 7th, Mrs. Sweeny, who lived four miles north of Norwich [ ] in on the Thetford road, was found dead in the garden attached to the house, her head horribly beaten in and the bar of the house lying near and bloody - the presumption is that her husband, James Sweeny, an Irishman, was the perpetrator. complained of for abusing his wife, and had to [post] bonds for good behaviour, but unable to give bonds he absconded, threatening at the time vengeance on his wife for testifying against him.

On Saturday, Mrs. Sweeny spent the day in Hanover working at the Hotel and returned home at night. A female acquaintance spent the evening with her and went home leaving her alone. Sweeny was seen in Hanover Friday and Saturday. Probably he lurked at the house until his wife was alone and then killed [her].

As yet no track has been obtained of the murderer by the pursuers. Mrs. Sweeny was a native of Norwich. Her husband is understood to be a drinking man. J.R.[65]

A manhunt was initiated and a description of the suspect circulated in the newspaper:

His height is about 5 feet 4 to 6 inches, thick set, from 65 to 70 years of age, hair nearly white, dark complexion, cross-eyed, an Irishman by birth and speaks with considerable brogue, usually wears a blue frock coat and white hat.[66]

Sweeney eluded the trackers for more than a week, but finally surrendered to authorities.

Compelled by cold and hunger, Sweeny has surrendered himself, having been concealed in the neighborhood. Editor[67]

Whether the neighbors sheltered him or if he knew the area well enough to avoid detection, is left open by the phrasing of the newspaper account.

Within the month, James Sweeney's case was before a Grand Jury:

The Grand Jury have found a true bill against James Sweeny for the murder of his wife. He was carried into court on Monday morning and had the indictment read to him, to which he plead, "not guilty, yer honor" and was then remanded back to prison to await his trial, which was assigned him on Friday morning instant.[68]

The exposure to the cold and perhaps the forcible separation from alcohol in the supervised closeness of his jail cell, combined to leave Sweeney in a bad way. As the Christmas holiday approached, it was clear that he was too sick to stand trial.

Sweeny, who was arraigned at the December Court for beating his wife's brains out, with "a door bar of little value, viz. of the value of 6 cents," had his trial put over till June next, on a plea of ill health, and as some said, with a hope that the Lord in his merciful providence would interfere, by sending the grim messenger in form of a delivering angel and take him away by death. But his benevolent friends are in a fair way of being disappointed. The old man is recovering fast, and will probably live to have his trial at the next term of court.[69]

As it became clear over the next weeks, that his ill health would not carry him off, Sweeney determined not to stand trial.

James Sweeny, who was arraigned at the December term of the Court, for the murder of his wife, and whose trial was postponed until June on account of his ill health, was on Tuesday morning last, found suspended by a handkerchief to the grate in the cell of his prison, dead. He took every precaution to make his work effectual having filled his mouth with paper, and bound a handkerchief close round his face to prevent the possibility of making a noise.[70]

Malinda was buried in Norwich in the Center Cemetery.

Some months after Malinda's murder, the administrator of her mother's estate was ordered to sell Sarah Pattrill's personal effects. On 16 April 1842, the administrator brought forward his final account of the estate "James Sweeney the only heir being present." Under the date of 19 April 1842, was the item, "[By] Articles sold D[e]l[ivere]d James Sweeney 3.50." James Sweeney "the only heir to said estate" paid in $4.43 to balance the account and close the estate.[71]

This "only heir" must have been the young James Sweeney Jr., whose subsequent history has not been discovered. The elder James Sweeney's estate was brought to Probate Court on 7 May 1842 and David G. Slafter was appointed administrator. Sweeney's meager belongings were valued at $68.25 and included a sword and scabbard appraised at 10 cents.[72]

Pownal 14 March 1873 of lung fever, aged 68 years,[78] daughter of Phineas and Ruth (Loomis) Rice.

Although no formal record of the transfer has been found, Isaac received land from his father, some of which he sold to Joseph Luce, Jr., of Ware, on 3 November 1826.[79] This parcel of nine acres in Ware, Isaac described as "at the southeast corner of a tract of land I had of my Father Isaac Patrell...."

Isaac bought and sold a fair amount of land in the 1820s before his marriage to Eveline Rice. On 12 March 1821, he bought of Thomas and Elizabeth Patrick of Ware, thirteen acres of land in Ware for $200.[80] On 15 November 1826, Isaac purchased from Thomas Bond of Springfield, gentleman, thirty-five acres and one hundred forty-nine rods of land in Ware for $625.25.[81] In March of the following year, he sold an eight acre parcel of these thirty-five acres to Ward Davis of Ware, yeoman, for $168.[82]

Isaac sold thirty-nine acres to the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Company on 3 July 1828 for $300, and sold to David Thomas on 31 March 1829 three parcels: the 35 acres and 149 rods he had bought of Thomas Bond, eleven acres, and thirteen acres, for a total of $330.[83]

For more than thirty years Isaac and his wife made no further land transactions, then on 28 June 1862, Eveline Patrell, wife of Isaac Patrell of Pownal, purchased one acre of land in Pownal from Maria Bovie, Irving E. Green, and Mary Esther Green of Pownal for $50.[84] Five years later, on 17 April 1867, Isaac and Eveline Pattrell of Pownal, sold this single acre to their son, Justin A. Pattrell of Pownal.[85]

Isaac spent his last years living with his son, Justin, in Pownal.[86]

v. JUSTIN A.[4] PATRELL, carpenter, born in Shaftsbury, Vt., 13 February 1838[95]; died in Pownal, Vt., 19 June 1911 of pulmonary thrombosis, aged 73 years, 4 months, 6 days[96]; married in Pownal by Rev. John Bascom, 9 November 1864[97] HARRIET ELIZABETH BLANCHARD, born in North Pownal, Vt., 15 March 1840[98]; died in Pownal 5 June 1922 of aortic degeneration and arteriosclerosis, aged 82 years, 2 months, 21 days,[99] daughter of William R. and Mary (Mather) Blanchard.

In 1862, Justin was drafted into the Union Army from Pownal, but he paid a commutation fee and did not serve.[100] Despite their 1864 marriage, this couple lived in the homes of their respective parents in 1870. In later decades, they are found together. Both Justin and Harriet were buried in the North Pownal Cemetery. No known children.

Augustus B. Reed, 4 July 1833[108] CALEB HAYDEN, farmer, born in Oneida Co., New York, 1 June 1807, died in Morgan, Porter Co., Indiana, 27 February 1883,[109] son of John W. and Sarah (Wolcott) Hayden.

On 26 August 1833, Caleb and Sarah Hayden of Shutesbury, Massachusetts, sold twelve acres and a saw mill in Shutesbury to John Atkinson Jr. of Prescott.[110] Evidently Caleb and Sarah owned the adjoining property, because they gave permission for Atkinson to "flow" their land when he opened the dam. On 17 March 1835, Caleb Hayden sold twenty acres to Job Hunt.[111]

On 12 June 1836, Caleb sold forty-five acres to Gideon Read of New Salem, Mass.[112] Having disposed of his lands in Shutesbury, Caleb took his now pregnant wife Sally to LaPorte County, Indiana, where the couple lived with his father's family.[113]

As a resident of LaPorte County, Caleb bought and sold a considerable amount of land between 1837 and 1850.[114] Caleb provided land for each of his daughters when they reached adulthood. In 1864, he deeded to his son-in-law-to-be Frederick Tully about thirty-one acres.[115] To daughter Mary Jane he deeded twenty-seven acres in 1875.[116] No deeds are of record between Caleb and his son Almon, however.

Following Sally's death, Caleb Hayden married second in Porter Co., Indiana, 27 September 1856[117] Mary Westbrooks, who died in Morgan 21 January 1861,

For $100, on 6 March 1832, Esther's father deeded her a seven-acre tract of land in Ware, which she promptly deeded back to him, for the same $100, a few days before her marriage.[129] Exactly what this accomplished is not obvious, but since the Days moved soon to Vermont, Esther may simply have wanted to keep the land in the family.

In the 1880s, Chester lived with his son Joseph Day in Mexico, New York.[130]

LOUISA BURBANK, born in Warren, say 1833,[168] died in Sturbridge, Massachusetts, 20 February 1909, aged 74 years,[169] daughter of John and Fanny (Leathe) Burbank; presumably divorced; married second say 1861-62 ESTHER ETTA HOVEY, born say 1840,[170] died in Springfield, 3 April 1900, aged 59 years,[171] daughter of John B. and Charlotte (Winans) Hovey.

Maria married second sometime between 1875[172] and 1878 to Clark Grant.[173] She had no children with either husband.[174]

At the time of his first marriage, William was a shoemaker. The couple did not remain together long, and by 1860, Maria was living in Warren, Mass., with her widowed mother and married sister, and William was living in Enfield in a boarding house.[175]

During the Civil War years William worked at the Leverett Smith Livery Stable as a teamster and hack driver. In the 1870s he worked for B.B. Hill and lived at 29 Railroad Street in Springfield. In the 1880s he worked for W.H. Lewis and Co. and lived at 35 Emery St.[176]

After a brief illness, William died at home, as reported in the local newspaper:

William P. Patrell

William P. Patrell, 75, died at his home on Sheridan avenue yesterday afternoon after an illness of five weeks. Mr. Patrell who had lived in this city for 33 years was born in Ware and had been a teamster the greater part of his life. He leave[s] a widow, Mrs. Etta Patrell, two daughters Mrs. Frank Hanson of Boston and Mrs. Clarence Dirbin of this city, and one son, Henry Patrell of this city. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.[177]

The funeral of William P. Patrell, who died in this city Wednesday aged seventy-six, will be held today at 2 p.m. from his late residence, 1 Sheridan Avenue.[178]

Etta survived her husband six years. The local newspaper, the Springfield Daily Republican, of 4 April 1900, reported her death:

Sarah Ensler McIntire Patrell

Charles A. Pattrell served in the Civil War, enlisting at Chicopee, Mass., as a private in Company D, 46th Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, on 25 September 1862.[212] He was honorably discharged at Newbern, N.C., on 20 June 1863 for an unspecified disability. Descendants Christopher S. Lee and Oliver Lincoln Patrell, III, remembered family stories about their great-grandfather, who, it was said, walked all the way home from the South.[213] It took him about two years to return to Ware, and when he arrived he was in poor health and somewhat shell-shocked. In this condition, he could not support his wife and children, and various families took the children in. After a number of years he recovered his health and eventually made his living as a carpenter, building houses and barns in western Massachusetts.

Like that of many other Civil War veterans who died in the early decades of the 20th century, Charles Patrell's funeral attracted a large attendance, particularly of his fellows in arms:

FOURTH GENERATION

19. MARY[4] PATRELL (John[3], Joseph[2-1]), born in Norwich, Vermont, 15 March 1817[1]; died in Northfield, Vermont, 6 July 1900 of pneumonia, aged 83 years, 3 months, 21 days[2]; married in Moretown, Vermont, 7 May 1840[3] EBENEZER MAYO SILSBY, born in Moretown 21 March 1817,[4] died in Northfield 10 November 1901 of pneumonia, aged 85 years,[5] son of Lasel and Lucy (Mayo) Silsby.

On the 1900 census, Mary is listed as having had no children.[6] According to the Silsby genealogy, Mary and Ebenezer adopted children.[7] Young Frances is seen with Mary and Ebenezer in the 1860 census, aged 9 years.[8] Eben indicated on his marriage records that he was Ebenezer and Mary's son.[9] No formal records of adoption have been found in Vermont for Frances or Eben.

Mary Sillsby

Mary, wife of Eben Sillsby, died Friday forenoon of pneumonia, at the town farm at the South Village, after an illness of about a week; she leaves a husband and one son Eben, of Charlestown, Mass., who was present to attend the funeral. Mrs. Sillsby's maiden name was Mary Pattrell and Norwich was her birthplace. For many years Mr. and Mrs. Sillsby lived in this town, their last place of residence on Wall Street. The funeral was from the home Sunday morning, at nine o'clock, the Rev. Walter Dole officiating, and the remains were taken to Moretown for burial. Mrs. Sillsby was an aunt to Frank Rowe of this village. Her age was 83 years.[10]

Adopted children of Mary[4] Patrell and Ebenezer Mayo Silsby:

50 i. FRANCES H.[5] SILSBY, born about 1851.

51 ii. EBEN MAYO[5] SILSBY, born in Middlesex, Vt., about August 1866.[11]

The following material has been collected and compiled by Mrs. R. Harvey Sargent (Helen Olive Bailey) - granddaughter of Ithiel Silsby Bailey.

Life of An Old Settler - Ithiel Silsby Bailey

Ithiel Silsby Bailey, son of Eliphalet and Abigail Silsby Bailey, was born at the family homestead near Acworth, N.H., March 16, 1817. His older brother, Giles, was a frail boy and unable to do much, so when very young, Ithiel helped with the chores on the farm. He attended the local school and became well-educated for a person of his time.

When a young man he moved to Moretown, Vt., where he was married May 30, 1846, to Lucy Patroll, a school teacher. She was a fine singer and had many engagements to sing in churches and for special entertainments.

The first year of their married life was spent at Fitchburg, Mass., where Ithiel worked at the carpenter's trade. Then they moved to Moretown, Vt., where 10 children were born to them - Septum, Wilbur Carlos, George, Emma, Ithiel Silsby, Jr., Lucy Jeanette, Joel Patroll, Abbie, Frank, and Mary. Septum and Emma died in Vermont, and in 1869 the family came to Grinnell, Iowa.

The Bailey family had started out in America in northeastern Massachusetts, but the wanderlust which brought them to this country, kept them moving westward along the Merrimac River. Finally Ithiel Silsby Bailey went to Vermont where he lived for about 23 years.

Farming on the rocky farms of Vermont did not seem a prosperous way to live and raise a large family.

At this time eastern Iowa had been settled a number of years and the trek westward had begun. Father Bailey suggested that his oldest son, Will, who was then about 18 years of age, journey to Iowa and look over the situation. If the prospect appeared good, the family would follow. Father left very soon after Will reported that this was a favored land, and the family came out in 1869, under the protection and guidance of the oldest son in Vermont, George, who was then about 16 years old. George died at Grinnell about 1872. During the time they were in Powshiek County near Grinnell, the family lived on four farms - 1 year on Mr. Hobart's farm, 2 years on Mr. Barth's farm, 1 year at Seymour's, and then bought a farm from Mr. Plow (or Plough) where they lived for 3 years.

Again it appeared favorable to move westward for the family. It was the privilege of the eldest son to seek new and greener fields and he came from Grinnell to Sac County ahead of the others. About 2 years before the family moved here, however, his father arrived in 1875 to buy land and build a home. The sod was broken by Charley Shaw with his team of four oxen.

Will Bailey and Charley Shaw explored the country, which was nothing but prairie at that time. They married sisters - Sarah Etta and Elizabeth (Lizzie) Mary Burnette.

They rented farms near Early, Iowa, where they lived for several years. Will bought an "80" a few miles from the Bailey homestead, which he broke and farmed.

An interesting story of early travel in the State is related. One of the first trips to Sac County from Grinnell, a distance of about 200 miles, made by Charley and Lew Shaw, required 6 weeks of winter weather for the trip. They drove a team of three horses, with only two good eyes for the team. They carried their own food for the journey, including mince pies frozen hard to preserve them. When they wished to top off their dinner with a pie, they had to plan for it hours before and sit on it to thaw it. That trip, which was so arduous then, is made in about 4 hours in our automobiles today.

Speaking of horses, the three nearly blind horses were the pioneers in Cook Township, and may have been the forebearers of the handsome steeds the Shaw and Bailey boys were noted for driving. After several years, they could always be seen driving a spanking-fine team with a swell carriage. It was sometimes said they would "rather have a horse than a home." There is a tradition to this day that the youngest son, Frank, won a neighbor girl-friend, Emma Hixon, for his wife because he drove the handsomest and fastest team in the country. Now there are no horses on the place. If Old Dobbin were even pensioned in the pasture, it would lend a bit of old-time atmosphere.

The family moved up here in 1876 on this fine farm of 160 acres which Father Bailey bought from the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Co. for $19.00 per acre.

He and his wife lived here most of the time until they died. The farm is still in the possession of Frank and his wife Emma. Father Bailey and his wife, Lucy, lived in Odebolt, 8 miles from the farm, for 1 year during 1884-1885, otherwise on the farm.

Ithiel Silsby Bailey was a sturdily built man of 160 pounds, was 5 feet 8 inches tall, had a ruddy complexion and sandy hair. He had a fine bearing and an aristocratic manner; a strong personal vitality; and a forceful character. He loved people and was sociable. He had a fine sense of humor, liked a good joke, and possessed that droll Yankee wit which was innate in his generation and seemed to pass with them. He was a kindly neighbor and friend.

Ithiel Silsby Bailey was a life-long Democrat of the old school in politics. He was tenacious in his beliefs, and not easily swerved. He was so sure the Democratic [party] was right, and that it would bring all but the Millenium, he would have staked his all on its principles. However, he was tolerant and agreeable and had many Republican friends. His opinion was often sought and his judgment respected.

He held a number of offices in the township - Justice of the Peace for more than 20 years, School Director, and Secretary of the School Board for Cook Township for many years. He was instrumental in drawing the plans for the new school buildings in the township.

For several years before his death his health had been failing, but he died suddenly, being found sitting dead in an out-building November 16, 1899. He was buried in Cook Township Cemetery, 2 miles from the farm.

At the time this paper is written, the record of his descendants seems to be as follows:

10 children	2 alive
25 grandchildren	19 alive
58 great-grandchildren	53 alive
25 great-great-grandchildren	all alive
2 great-great-great-grandchildren	both alive
120 descendants	101 living

His wife, Lucy Patroll, was a very lovely person and much respected by all. She was born in Norwich, Vt., on April 3, 1825, where she lived until 12 years of age. She then moved to Moretown, Vt., with her family where she lived until married. Her father was John Patroll, who came from Canada [sic], and her mother was Dura Metcalf, probably from Connecticut. There were four girls - Lucy, Mary, Laura, [blank] and one son, Joel, in the family. Mary Patroll married Ebenezer Silsby, brother of Abigail Silsby, mother of Ithiel Silsby Bailey.

[17] Otherwise unreferenced information on the ten children of Lucy Patrell comes from the private records of Helen Olive Bailey Sargent (#100 in this work), whose notes on this family are tentatively dated about 1933. The births of the Bailey children do not appear in Vermont Vital Records.

i. SEPTA[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., say 1847; died in Vermont by 1869.

52 ii. WILBUR CARLOS[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 14 September 1851.

iii. GEORGE[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., say 1852; died in Grinnell, Poweshiek Co., Iowa, 1872; unmarried.

iv. EMMA J.[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., say 1854; died in Moretown, Vt., 7 June 1864.[18]

53 v. ITHIEL SILSBY[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 6 June 1855.

54 vi. LUCY JEANNETTE[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 4 October 1857.

55 vii. JOEL PATRELL[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 20 January 1860.

viii. ABBIE[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 22 March 1863; died 19 July 1919[19]; married 1901 FRANK BORT, born in Moretown, 1859. No children. Abbie is buried with her parents in the Cook Center Cemetery, Sac Co., Iowa.

56 ix. FRANK EDWIN[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 21 September 1864.

57 x. MARY AMELIA[5] BAILEY, born in Moretown, Vt., 21 February 1866.

21. LEVINIA LAURA[4] PATRELL (John[3], Joseph[2-1]), born in Vermont about 1831[20]; living 1860; married by 1855 FRANKLIN ROWE, farmer, born in Vermont about 1830, living 1860.[21]

When Levinia's eldest sister, Mary, died, her obituary mentioned that she was the aunt of Frank Rowe of Northfield.[22] Frank was living in Northfield in 1900, with his wife of seven years, Mary. This information led to Frank's second marriage record, the only Vermont vital record located for any member of this family.[23] On this record, Frank's mother's name was given as Laura, which provides us with the likely solution to what became of John[3] Patrell's youngest daughter, Levinia Laura. Despite diligent search, no further information could be developed on this family.

Joel Simonds, 28 August 1868[29] ELSIE HART, born in Pomfret, Vt. about January 1848,[30] died in Northfield, 14 November 1906 of septicemia from diabetes, aged 58 years, 10 months, 8 days,[31] daughter of Webster and Lucia (Ring) Hart.

According to the 1900 census, Elsie had given birth to three children, two of whom were then living. In that year there was also a grandchild living in the household, Glenn C., born in September 1895, who was the son of daughter Irene[5] Patrell.[32]

Franklin Knowles enlisted as a private from Northfield at the outbreak of the Civil War. Company C of the Fifteenth Vermont Regiment in which he was rostered from 11 September 1862 through 5 August 1863, had the great fortune to be mustered out without ever having been dispatched into battle.[33] Several soldiers died of disease, nonetheless, but Franklin returned home in good health and unscathed.

In 1880, Franklin's step-mother, Hannah, then in her late seventies, lived in the home in Northfield with Frank, Elsie, and their two surviving children,

Sudden Death of Old Veteran

Frank Knowles died suddenly last night at the home of his brother-in-law Samuel Ellis on Cemetery street. Mr. Knowles was down street about four o'clock apparently as well as usual and went up to the home of Mr. Ellis; soon after he arrived he asked for a drink of water and passed away without any warning. The remains were brought to C.P. Hatch's Undertaking rooms and today taken to his home on the Roxbury Road. Mr. Knowles was a veteran of the Civil War.

The funeral arrangements have not been made.

Franklin M. Knowles

The funeral of Franklin M. Knowles whose death was noted in the News last week was held Thursday afternoon at his late home on the Roxbury road. Rev. Charles Bingham, pastor of the Universalist church officiated. The burial was in the Roxbury Cemetery. The bearers were Capt. John L. M[ ], W.W. Holden, Allen Hatch, George Cole, William Joyce and Warren C[ ], members of the Grand Army. [ ]

Mr. Knowles, who was 81 years old, is survived by one son Eugene Knowles and a daughter, Mrs. Carl Coburn with whom he made his home since the death of his wife nine years ago. He is survived by two grand children.

Mr. Knowles served in the Civil War and was a member of the Grand Army Post at Randolph.[35]

Oscar Lyman Pattrell

Eleanor M. Ellis

Oscar farmed in Wilder, Vermont. In the summers, George and Arthur would help him with the haying. The granite around the base of the farm house came from their own land, and was wedged and split by Oscar and George.

Eleanor's obituary appeared in the Vermont Journal, out of Windsor, Vt., the issue of 15 June 1917:

Indirect evidence of Cary's life indicates that he was probably born in Massachusetts and resided in Arlington, Vt., Victory, Vt., Hannibal, N.Y., and perhaps briefly in White Creek, N.Y. Despite diligent search, we have only been able to follow a few of the members of this family beyond the year 1870.

Children of Cary[4] and Mary (Clark) Patrell:

i. EMMA[5] PATRELL, born in New York about 1855; living in 1870.[60]

ii. SMITH E.[5] PATTRELL, steel finisher and stationary engineer, born in Victory, Vt., about December 1856[61]; died in Jamestown, Chautauqua Co., N.Y., 15 October 1901 of mitral regurgitation[62]; married as her third husband in Jamestown 11 January 1888[63] MILLICENT A. (STACY) LEASURE, born in Jackson, Penn., about November 1851, daughter of William and Anna (Johnson) Stacy. According to the 1900 census,[64] Millicent had given birth to one child and that child was living. Given that she was almost 40 at the time she married Smith, we think it likely that her child belonged to one of her two previous husbands.

61 iii. ERNEST[5] PATRELL, born in New York about 1862.

iv. CLAUDE B.[5] PATRELL, station agent, born in Hamilton, Madison Co., N.Y., about 1867; married in Olean, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y., 25 June 1891[65] EILEEN McCOOL, born in Oil City, Venango Co., Penn., about 1873, daughter of Charles and Margaret McCool.

25. NATHAN R.[4] PATRELL (Isaac[3-2], Joseph[1]), machinist, born in Ware, Massachusetts, 11 July 1831[66]; died in Pownal, Vermont, 1 May 1880 of consumption, aged 49 years[67]; married in Cambridge, Washington County, New York, 29 January 1857[68] JOHANA JANE BURTIS, born in Hoosick, Rensselaer Co., New York, May 1839, died there 26 October 1871, evidently in childbed, daughter of John and Rebecca (Refenburgh) Burtis.[69]

Children of Nathan R.[4] and Johana Jane (Burtis) Patrell:[72]

i. HILAND G.[5] PATRELL, born Rensselaer County, N.Y., December 1850; died Hoosick, N.Y., 23 November 1860.[73]

ii. MILANO E.[5] PATRELL, died Hoosick, N.Y., 23 November 1860.[74]

v. JAMES J.[5] PATRELL, died Hoosick, N.Y., 26 October 1871.[77]

26. HORACE P.[4] PATRELL (Isaac[3-2], Joseph[1]), hardware merchant, born in Shaftsbury, Vermont, 10 April 1846[78]; died in North Pownal, Vermont, 29 December 1906 of pneumonia, aged 60 years, 8 months, 19 days[79]; married say 1873 LYDIA ANTOINETTE "NETTIE" CHAPIN, born in Easton, New York about 1848, died in Alden, Erie Co., New York, 21 November 1928 of chronic myocarditis, aged 81 years, 11 months, 12 days,[80] daughter of John T. and Mercy (Handy) Chapin.

In 1862, at age 18, Horace enrolled in the Vermont militia from Pownal.[81]

Although he had lived and died in the Pownal area, Horace was buried in Alden, N.Y., perhaps because his wife was from that area. After his death,

"Littie," or Lydia as she was called in the 1925 census, lived with her unmarried daughter, Mary, on Broadway St. in Alden.[82] In her will, written 6 July 1911, Lydia gave her household goods and half her remaining estate to daughter Mary, and the other half to son Wallace.[83]

Children of Horace P.[4] and Nettie (Chapin) Patrell:

i. MARY E.[5] PATRELL, teacher,[84] born in Bennington, Vt., 2 August 1873[85]; died in Alden, N.Y., 21 January 1939 of ovarian cancer, aged 65 years, 11 months, 8 days.[86] In her will, dated 21 January 1939, Mary bequeathed the bulk of her $9,000 estate to her brother, Wallace.[87]

Mary was remembered in a short history of the library where she had worked many years, 125 years and growing...The Village of Alden, Silver Centennial, July 6-10, 1994 (pamphlet), p. 32:

> Miss Mary Patrell was one of the founders of the Alden public library. It may have been her idea that started the movement to create the library, since as a teacher, she knew of the value of a convenient source of books. When the library was organized in 1902, she was on the board of trustees, and served as secretary. She served as assistant librarian to Miss Mary Parker. In 1915, she became the librarian, working without salary until her retirement in 1939.

62 ii. WALLACE R.[5] PATRELL, born in Pownal, Vt., 15 November 1875.[88]

27. MARY JANE[4] HAYDEN (Sally[3], Isaac[2], Joseph[1]), born in Indiana about 1844; living in 1875 when her son was born, but according to his obituary died when he was a "young boy"; married in Porter Co., Indiana, 25 December 1871[89] ELI SHOLES, who also died when his son was a "young boy."

Their son, "Sylvenie" Sholes lived with his wife in the household of his uncle, Frederick Tulley, in 1900.[90]

This couple's short lives are marked only with a fragment of what may be Mary's gravestone, surviving in the Sholes and Tulley lot in Adams cemetery, Morgan township, Porter Co., Indiana.

28. MARTHA ROSANNA[4] DAY (Esther[3], Isaac[2], Joseph[1]), born in Essex, Vermont, 30 October 1833; died in Longmont, Boulder County, Colorado, 7 January 1904 of bronchial pneumonia, aged 70 years[91]; married in Scott, Sheboygan Co., Wisconsin, by Rev. J.L. Irwin 25 March 1852[92] JAMES STEVENS, farmer, born in Yates Co., New York, 18 October 1824,[93] died in Longmont 14 August 1908,[94] son of Asa and Sarah (Winfield) Stevens.

We learn a considerable amount about this family from James' Civil War pension files.[95] James Stevens enrolled at Fond-Du-Lac, Wisconsin, on 15 October 1864 as a private in Co. F., 27th Regiment, Wisconsin Infantry Volunteers. He was honorably discharged at the end of the war at Madison, Wisconsin, on 16 May 1865. Following the war, the family lived in Scott, Wisconsin, for about a year, then moved to Waupun, Wisconsin, in May of 1869. Later they lived in King City, Missouri, until August of 1891, when they settled finally in Longmont, Colorado.

James applied for a pension when he was 82 years old, a resident of Longmont. He stated that he was born in Yates Co., New York, on 18 October 1824, was 5 feet 7 inches tall, of dark complexion, with grey eyes and grey hair. A second lieutenant in his company, Clayton Stevens of Conway Springs, Sumner County, Kansas, deposed in support of James' pension application, that, "James Stevens who in line of duty on or about 25 February 1865 near Algiers, Louisana[sic] was very badly afflicted with dioreah also with Rhumatism and kidney trouble which rendered said soldier unfit for military service."

From the obituaries of James and Martha, we learn something of the fates of their nine children:

Martha R. Stevens

Mrs. Martha R. Stevens died in Longmont, Thursday, Jan. 7, 1904, of bronchial pneumonia, wife of James Stevens; aged 70 years. Martha Rosanna Day was born in Essex, Vermont, Oct. 30, 1834. Moved to Wisconsin in 1850 or 1851. Was married to James Stevens March 25, 1852. They moved to Missouri in 1870. They have had nine children only five of whom

Manor, New York by Rev. William H. Lord, 6 September 1866[113] ANN E. STEVENS, born in New York about 1840, died in Mexico, Oswego Co., New York, 2 March 1914 of tubercular trouble of bones and lungs contracted in 1909.[114]

Joseph served as a private in the Civil War. In his pension application, we learn that Joseph Day was 5 feet, 8 inches tall, of fair complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. He was a farmer when he enlisted.

His career is best summarized in a biography which appeared in Landmarks of Oswego County, New York...:

> Joseph Day, enterprising meat dealer and stock buyer, was born in Vermont in 1842, came to Mexico in 1879, and since 1886 has been engaged in his present business. He has a well arranged building near the Boyd House, and has the best facilities for keeping fresh meats. He keeps a large supply of ice of his own cutting. When a child he lived a few years in Oneida County, also in Jefferson, and in 1862 enlisted in the 10th N.Y. Heavy Artillery, but was discharged for disability after serving ten months.[115] valvular heart disease, aged 63 years, 2 months, 25 days,[122] daughter of John and Mary (Moon) Duer.

A biographical sketch of William's father-in-law details how John Duer was born in Bucks Co., Pennsylvania, moved to Miami Co., Ohio, where he was married to Mary Moon, and "joined pioneer settlers of Fond du Lac County" where he was a farmer and assessor of Waupun Township. Of his children, "Sarah M. is the wife of William Day, their union blessed with five children."[123] This sketch was written in 1889, before the birth of sixth child, Dina.

In 1920, William Day lived in Columbia County, Wisconsin, with his son Charles W., and daughter Cora.[124]

Children of William P.[4] and Sarah Martha (Duer) Day:[125]

72 i. CLARA A.[5] DAY, born in Wisconsin about 1871.

ii. CHARLES W.[5] DAY, born in Kansas about 1873; living in 1932 when he was informant on his father's death certificate; unmarried in 1920; died before his brother Leon, who died in 1967.

Rosina's death drew much local attention:

Rosa Patrell

A sensation was created last Tuesday evening by the discovery that Mrs. Rosa Patrell, a dress and cloak maker, having rooms at the City Hotel, had committed suicide by shooting herself through the heart with a revolver belonging to Dr. H.O. Dunbar, to whom it is stated she was engaged to be married. The deed was committed between five and six o'clock. She was seen and spoken to on the street shortly after five o'clock the same night, and appeared in her usual cheerful mood at that time. Less than an hour later she was discovered by Dr. Dunbar dead in a chair with the fatal revolver still in her hand, which was blackened with powder. She had muffled herself with clothing so as to deaden the sound, and inmates of adjoining rooms did not hear the discharge. Medical Examiner Oliver was notified and an investigation brought forth a note addressed by the deceased to Dr. Dunbar which established the cause of the desperate deed, and made it so clear that it was a case of suicide that further examination was deemed unnecessary. The note ran as follows:

> Dr. Dunbar: I wish to repeat once more that I can no longer endure this treatment. My love for you is such that death is better than a living hell. I am dying of a broken heart. I hope to be decently buried. Give my love to all my people. Good by. Rosa A. Patrell. p.s. My bank book is in my black bag. I wish mother to have my things.

It is believed to be a clear case of jealousy. The maiden name of the deceased was Tourtelott and she was a native of Prescott, and 31 years old. Both her parents are living there and a brother, Frank Tourtelott, is a well-known citizen of this town. Her family connections are highly respectable. By her marriage with Mr. Patrell, a Dana man, from whom she had separated, she had two or three children, now dead. The funeral was held in Prescott, Friday, and the remains were interred in Greenwich.[211]

James Homer Patrell

Second wife Grace Law married first to a Dougherty, with whom she had four children, including Helen, born in March of 1894.[212]

Child of James Homer[4] and Rosina (Tourtelotte) Patrell [others implied by her obituary]:

i. CHILD[5] PATRELL, stillborn in Greenwich, Mass., 26 April 1880.[213]

Children of James Homer[4] and Grace (Law) Patrell:

ii. GEORGE ELBRIDGE[5] PATRELL, born in Hardwick, Mass., 6 June 1899[214]; died there 29 February 1980[215]; unmarried.

In October of 1977, Dean and Roberta Smith stopped in and visited with George, the only known living Patrell in the Hardwick-Ware area. He lived in a smoke darkened house without central heat or electricity. He invited them in and told them he knew his father's name was James, but that he knew nothing about the earlier generations of Patrells. Following George's 1980 death, a 19th century photo album was found among his effects. Although none of the studio portraits in the album were named, distant relatives have been able to assist in identifying some of them. The photo album is in the hands of the Hardwick Historical Society and some of the images are used here with their permission.

Mr. Leon Thresher of Hardwick remembered George, who worked from time to time doing odd jobs. He spoke of him as a quiet, rather somber man, who had a wry sense of humor. Mildred Allen remembers him for kindly helping her mother from time to time when she was in need.

George E. Patrill

Funeral services for George E. Patrill, 80, of Petersham Road will be held tomorrow, March 6, at the Snyder and Britton Funeral Home, Summer Street, Barre, at 10:00 a.m. The Reverend James A. Ewen will officiate. Burial will be in Hardwick Center Cemetery. There are no calling hours.

Mr. Patrill was born in Hardwick, son of Homer and Grace (Dorighty) Patrill, and was a lifelong resident of this community. He died March 1st at his home.

He had been caretaker of Hardwick Cemetery for many years prior to his retirement in 1976. He was a member of the American Agricultural Association. He leaves a cousin, Mildred, wife of Roy Allen of Vancouver, Washington.[216]

Joseph Warner Patrell

Emma Robinson had a child before her marriage: Jennie A., born in Barre, Massachusetts, 29 April 1876, daughter of Emma Robinson and Edward A. Partridge. Jennie changed her name to Jennie Adeline Patrill in 1879.[226]

On 29 March 1945, William J. Patrill of Pelham, Massachusetts, was granted letters of administration on the estate of his father, Joseph Warner Patrill. The heirs at law included William J. Patrill of Pelham, Massachusetts, son; Cora Williams of Hatfield, Massachusetts, daughter; Robert L. Patrill of Belchertown, Massachusetts, son; and Alice Williams of Hardwick, daughter.[227]

Although the estate represented a comfortable sum, it was entirely real estate, and Joseph had been the recipient of a modest amount of aid from the town of Pelham at the turn of the century.[228]

Anna married first in Amherst, Massachusetts, 4 August 1875[229] Clarence L. Sears and had two children with him, Emma L. and Charles A. She married second in Shutesbury, Massachusetts, 12 April 1889[230] Eber Blake.

Joseph and first wife Emma are buried together in Hardwick Center Cemetery.

William J. Patrill

William J. Patrill, 79, of Buffum Road [Pelham], died yesterday in The Cooley Dickinson Hospital. Born in Shutesbury, he was the son of the late Joseph and Anna (Amidon) Patrill. He was a U.S. Army veteran of World War II, and worked for many years for the Town of Pelham. He is survived by nieces and nephews. The funeral will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the Douglass Funeral Home. The burial will be in the Pelham Valley Cemetery....[244]

viii. ROBERT LEROY[5] PATRELL, born in Shutesbury, Mass., 6 July 1900[245]; died in the Belchertown State School, Belchertown, Mass., 23 October 1959 of an acute pulmonary embolism, aged 59 years, 3 months, 17 days[246]; unmarried. Robert was buried in Pine Grove Cemetery, Belchertown.

40. LILLIAN EDITH[4] PATRELL (William P.[3], Isaac[2], Joseph[1]), born in Springfield, Massachusetts, 4 June 1863[247]; died in Ossipee, New Hampshire, 15 March 1919[248]; married about 1886 FRANK SIAS HANSEN, hotel keeper, born in Ossipee 13 March 1860,[249] died there 23 March 1915 of valvular heart disease, aged 55 years and 10 days,[250] son of Moses and Emily A. (Sias) Hansen.

From his 1915 obituary, we learn that Frank was at one time an actor:

Frank Sias Hanson

Frank Sias Hanson of Boston, old-time actor and hotel proprietor, died Tuesday in Ossipee, N.H. He conducted the Howard House on Howard Street, Boston, for many years after leaving the state, and in 1913 became proprietor of the Carroll Inn at Ossipee. He had been suffering with heart and nervous troubles since September. Born in Ossipee March 15, 1860, he was the son of Moses Franklin Hanson who for thirty-five years conducted a stable at Charles and Chestnut streets in this city. He developed a talent for the vaudeville stage at an early age and travelled all over this country and Europe with famous troupes. Under Mr. Hanson's management the Howard House was widely known as a hostelry where actors of varying degrees of prosperity were welcome. It has been said that no stranded actor was ever turned from his door and that many an actor was aided by him to regain lost prestige. Two years ago Mr. Hanson returned to Ossipee, bought the Carroll Inn and conducted it to the time of his death. His wife and a daughter survive him.[251]

In his will, Frank Hansen left the bulk of his estate to his wife Lillian E. Hanson and to his daughter, Ona L. Hansen, and named Fred E. Hansen of 65A

Lillian was fondly remembered when she passed away in 1919:

Lillian E. Hanson

Mrs. Lillian E. Hanson passed away at her home Saturday March 15, 1919, wife of the late Frank S. Hanson, passed away at her home at Carroll Inn, last Saturday morning, after a brief illness.

She was born in Springfield, Mass., and later lived in Boston. She has resided here for the past six years. Since her husband's death four years ago she has managed Carroll Inn.

She is survived by a daughter, Miss Ona L. Hanson.

Her funeral was held last Monday at 2 p.m. Service was conducted by the Rev. Daniel McIntyre.

There was a large profusion of flowers, and she will be greatly missed in this community, not only by her kindness, but by her willing generosity.[253]

Children of Lillian Edith[4] Patrell and Frank Sias Hansen:

He was one of the youngest men ever admitted to the Massachusetts Bar, and at the age of thirty became a special justice. In later years Judge Brackett became interested in theatrical circles. Until his death he was counsel for the Shubert Theater interests in Boston and for many years was the attorney for the Theater Managers Association.

Judge Brackett was appointed a special justice of the West Roxbury District Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge George R. Fowler. He was a member of the Eliot Club, a former president of the Park Street Club and former president of the Monday Night Club. At the time of his appointment as a judge he was associated with W. Sumner Myrick in the practice of law.

An aviation enthusiast for years, in June 1911 Judge Brackett purchased a Bleriot monoplane. He also was an enthusiastic golfer and was one of a group interested in the purchase of a large golf course at Richford, Vt. and running over into Quebec. Provisions were planned for sufficient space for an airplane field for those who wished to commute by air.

Judge Brackett had made his home recently at the Hotel Westminister.

Born in Roxbury in 1867, Judge Brackett acquired his early education at the Roxbury Latin School. After being graduated from that school he entered Boston Univeristy Law School, completing his course there with honors, receiving the degree of L.L. B. In 1888, when he was scarcely twenty-one years old he was admitted to the Suffolk Bar. He commenced the practice of law while with Edmund H. Bennett, dean of the Boston University Law School. Later he became associated with Colonel Francis Hesseltine and subsequently opened his own office.

In 1894 and 1895 he was chairman of the Republican Ward and City Committee of Ward 23, resigning that position to accept the appointment as chairman of the board of trustees of Mount Hope Cemetery Corporation by the late Mayor Curtis. The following year he was appointed by Mayor Quincy. He is survived by his wife, who was Ona Hanson of Ossipee, N.H., whom he married eleven years ago.

TWO LOCAL RAILROAD FATALITIES.

A River Road Brakeman Cut to Pieces Between Here and Brightwood.

William E. Patrell, a brakeman on the Connecticut River railroad, met with a horrible death Saturday night, a short distance above the Plainfield-street bridge, and his mangled remains were not discovered until early yesterday morning. About 6 o'clock yesterday morning one of the section bosses while going up the track made the ghastly discovery of parts of a human body about 200 yards above the bridge....It was not until 6 o'clock last evening that the body was identified. Some of the train hands remembered that Patrell boarded the passenger train, which leaves Brightwood station at 7:20 Saturday evening, and that was the last seen of him. Nothing was thought about it at the time, but when the trainmen learned of the finding of the body they remembered that they did not see Patrell when the train reached this city. Just how the man was killed will probably never be known, but it is supposed that in some way he fell from the train near the place where his mangled body was found. After being killed his body lay on the tracks all night, and every train that passed added to the ghastly work of mutilation. About half a dozen passenger trains passed the spot during the evening, and besides the regular freights two specials were sent up the river Saturday night.

Patrell was 24 and had worked for the road two years, being a brakeman on the gravel train. He was known as a steady workman and was a favorite with the train hands. He was formerly a member of the Peabody guards and twice attended the annual encampment at South Framingham. His general good humor won him many friends in the company and "Billy" Patrell was the life of the camp. He was at one time a member of the switchmen's union, but had withdrawn from that order recently. He was not a hard drinker, but did at times indulge rather freely and it is supposed that he must have been drinking Saturday night. He was married a few years ago and lived on Vine street and leaves a young wife and one child. His father, William P. Patrell, is a teamster living on Sheridan avenue.[278]

Henry Ward Beecher Patrell

Henry first worked as a stable hand for a firm in Boston. His interest in theater led to his work as a carpenter and stage manager in Springfield, Massachusetts, at the New Gilmore Theater. In a newspaper article at the turn of the century, the New Gilmore rated an excellent write-up in the News and Gossip section:

[286] Vermont Vital Records, Death Certificate.

The Personnel of the Working Staff of the New Gilmore, Springfield's Vaudeville Theater

That vaudeville has been firmly established in Springfield will be confirmed by a look at the New Gilmore any week day afternoon or evening. Messrs P.F. Shea & Co. by their enterprise and care in running clean shows have made vaudeville as popular in this city and proportionately as profitable as the best vaudeville Houses in the larger cities... (among the short biographical sketches of the staff) ...Behind the curtain Henry Patrel reigns supreme as the stage manager. He is a good one, as the long time he has held that position amply proves. His assistants include....[287]

About 1900, Henry moved his family to Chester, Vermont, and tried his hand at a variety of jobs. This was not successful, and in later years he worked for a manufacturing company and finally as a lumber man for a company in Leominster, Massachusetts.

Flora was an excellent seamstress and did many kinds of needlework. She was active in the Baptist church, local grange and Eastern Star. She worked most of her adult life in a variety of jobs, including a box factory, a local theater doing wardrobe, and clerked in Lawton's Store in Chester, Vermont, where she also did alterations. She altered and made costumes and may have played piano during vaudeville acts.[288]

Henry Patrell worked with a local theater group in Springfield. Like other members of his family, he was also around horses a great deal, and worked for a time as a stable hand for a firm in Boston. He came to Chester, Vermont, with some horses owned by a Boston family, and there met his wife-to-be. Henry had an avid interest in the railroad, often stopping by the yard to talk with the crewmen.

M. Elizabeth Brown

Mrs. M. Elizabeth Brown, wife of William H. Brown, the well known retired grocer, passed away early this morning at her home, 438 Westford Street, aged 75 years and 4 days. Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Miss Mabel E. Brown of Lowell and Mrs. Albert H. Vernum of New Bedford; two sons, Harrison G. Brown of Worcester and Wesley H. Brown of Lowell; one brother Oliver L. Pattrell of Springfield, one sister, Mrs. Eva Robinson of Lexington and eight grandchildren. Mrs. Brown was a member of the Highland Union M.E. Church.[320]

William H. Brown

One of the City's Oldest Residents Succumbed Today

Lowell - William H. Brown, one of the city's oldest residents, died early this morning at his home, 29 Newbury street, following a brief illness.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. A.H. Varnum of New Bedford; two sons, Harrison G. Brown of Worcester and Wesley H. Brown of Lowell; also by 10 grandchildren eight great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

He was a member of the Highland Union Methodist church; Pentucket Lodge, AF&AM; Mount Horeb R.A. chapter; Highland Veritas Lodge, IOOF, and Pilgrim Encampment, and K.P.

Mr. Brown was born in South Troy, Vt., and had resided in this city for over 65 years.

Last Feb. 16 Mr. Brown received friends in celebration of his 97th birthday. He will be well remembered as having conducted a grocery store on the corner of Gorham and Appleton streets for 40 years.

For years he was interested in the city government, having served in the common council and on the board of aldermen and in 1904 he was elected a state representative and served for one term.[321]

Children of Mary Elizabeth[4] Patrell and William M. Brown:

i. MABEL E.[5] BROWN, teacher, born in Wilbraham, Mass., 24 May 1876[322]; died in Lowell, Mass., 23 June 1947 of broncho-pneumonia, aged 71 years, 29 days.[323] Mabel never married. She is buried in Edson cemetery, Lowell.

93 ii. OMA ALTHEA[5] BROWN, born in Wilbraham, Mass., 7 February 1878[324]

94 iii. HARRISON G.[5] BROWN, born in Lowell, Mass., 30 December 1889[325]

CROSBY, hatter, born in Holliston, Massachusetts, 20 September 1856,[330] son of William and Harriet A. Crosby.

William H. Crosby was living in Beacon, Dutchess Co., New York, in 1920, but was probably in Hartford, Connecticut, in 1923 when his brother, Horatio F. Crosby, died.[331]

We learn from Harriet's obituary that she was survived by one daughter:

Mrs. William H. Crosby

Mrs. William H. Crosby died at Highland Hospital, Fishkill Landing, Tuesday. She was formerly Harriet Patrell of Chicopee, Mass.; leaves husband, daughter Miss Alice M. Crosby; two brothers and two sisters: Mrs. W.H. Brown of Lowell, Mass., Mrs. Eva Robinson of Florence, Mass., Cyrus Patrell of North Dana, Mass., and Oliver Patrell of Springfield, Mass. She was an attendant at the Presbyterian Church, Matteawan, in which place the family lived.[332]

In her will, written 4 February 1890 and proved 6 April 1910, Hattie G. Crosby of Milford, New Haven Co., Connecticut, left all her property to her husband William H. Crosby and appointed him executor of her will. Her estate was valued at $1,500.[333]

Child of Hattie Georgianna[4] Patrell and William H. Crosby:

Oliver Lincoln and Minnie Helena Linnehan Patrell

Oliver was quite young when he was sent to live with another family while his father recovered from Civil War injuries. Oliver used to tell the story of leaving the home of his benefactors in Palmer, Massachusetts, having been obliged to go to work and earn money to pay them back. He had $35 in his pocket and what possessions he could carry in a knapsack, and went to Springfield, Massachusetts. He took a job at Barr's Restaurant there, one of the better establishments in the city, where prominent people from the area dined. His job was to manage the vegetable bins and to procure and store fresh eggs used for breakfasts. Across the room from him worked three German bakers who had charge of making all the breads and pastries for which they were well known. They would not give anyone the secret of their recipes. O.L., who was said to have a photographic memory (which he lost in 1918 after contracting the flu), would surreptitiously listen and watch them at work until he knew the ingredients and how they went about making their products. One day one of the German bakers who made all the Lady Fingers for which the restaurant was famous, did not come to work and they did not have any on hand. So O.L. spoke up and said he knew how to make them and using the fresh eggs at his disposal, rather than the cold storage eggs used by the Germans, and the memorized recipe, his Lady Fingers came out bigger and better than his predecessor's. Thus he began a career as a baker. He eventually had his own bakery with a fleet of 30 or so trucks, known as O.L. Patrell, Bakery.

Although proud of his Protestant heritage, he was the first in the family to marry an Irish Roman Catholic. He used to take his wife and children to the church, but refused to attend. He is buried in non-sacred land in St. Michael's cemetery next to Minnie in Springfield, Massachusetts.[340]

On 23 March 1904, Ithiel wrote home to his mother from Grinnell. This interesting letter was typed on Bailey & Carney Buggy Co. stationery and mentioned many family members and activities.

My Dear Mother,

Cook Center, Iowa.

I thought we would be able to make you a visit some time this spring, but time seems to pass swiftly by, and with all of our work it has been hard for us to get away, but we are in hopes some time during next summer we may be able to make you a visit.

We visited Jennette and family last Christmas, and enjoyed ourselves very much. From there I went into North Dakota to attend to some business affairs that kept me about two weeks.

I have been at home since last Thanksgiving all of the time, with the above exception. I expect to be at home most of the time the coming season, as my office work has increased to make it necessary. This change I shall very much enjoy, for I assure you it is no great pleasure for me to be away from home so much.

Kate and Louie were with me last season, until about the first of August. There are some pleasant things about travelling, especially in the west, where you see so much of the grand scenery that the west is noted for.

I find by my own experience, and with conversing with people here in the east "By the way this country is called the east by the people in the west" that they have but a very small conception of the west, when you think of some of the counties in the western states being nearly as large as the state of Iowa, and only inhabited on the creeks and rivers, where they are able to get water for irrigating purposes, and the balance looking like a desert, although, there is some grass that grows on these you begin to realize something of the western country. I am told that it takes fourteen acres of land on the plains to keep one head of cattle, and I don't doubt it. I would think they would get completely tired out hunting for a mouthfull to eat, but they seem to thrive and get fat, as the grass is very nutritious.

Wherever they are able to find water for irrigating purposes, good crops can be raised, such as alfalfa, hay, wheat, oats and nearly all kinds of vegtables. Corn will not do well, on account of the nights being so cool. They have lots of sunshine and pure air making it very healthy; on the other hand without rain during the summer, the dust becomes almost intolerable in places.

The scenery in the west is somewhat similar to the New England states. There are some parts of the west where it is heavily timbered, especially the other side of the range where they have more rain, and it is there you will find where families have taken up timber claims, built log cabins, chop down the trees, pull out the stumps, and clear off the land, getting ready to raise something to live on, thus making you think of our native state. I have seen in some of the remote places log school houses, with the old fashioned plain wood boards for seats and desks, such as you perhaps can remember when attending school. I have also found places where school children had to go five and one-half miles to attend one of these schools, but the above is rather the exception than the rule.

Our winter at Grinnell has been very cold. I don't remember of ever burning so much fuel as I have this winter. We have not had any bad storms, but snug cold weather every day for a long period, without any let up.

The roads at the present time are somewhat muddy, and I presume spring will soon be hear.

Charlie Price has ordered some maple sugar from some one that Uncle George has referred him to at Acworth, N.H., and I have placed an order through him for one hundred and fifty pounds, which we will divide with Fannie, and perhaps others. I learn they have had a cold winter in the east, also deep snows. If such is the case, presume the season for making sugar will be late.

The old settlers of Grinnell are holding meetings once a year, usually in the spring, at the church, and they are quite interesting, being made up of mostly eastern people.

When I stop and subtract March 26, 1869 from March 26, 1904, thus making it thirty-five years since we landed in Grinnell, it seems almost impossible, but such are the facts.

I visited Etta Bailey and family at Salt Lake City, Utah last summer, arriving there in the afternoon, and leaving the next morning. I found them all well, and nicely situated. Clyde has a position in an office getting $90.00 per month. Carroll is also in a railroad office getting $70.00 per month. Ollie is teaching school. I also met Clydes intended at that time, since then they have been married. She has the appearance of being a very nice lady. Her folks at one time were Mormons, but are not now. I expect Frank is planing for his next sumers work. Had thought he and Emma would some time make us a visit.

We are well, with much love to you all, I am,

Your Son I S Bailey Jr.

P.S. Mr. Wheaton died this winter, was over 90 years old[25]

I.S. Bailey Passes Away

Long Time Business Man, Once President of School Board, Dies

Mr. Bailey Had Had a Long and Honorable Business Career In This Community

Ithiel Bailey was always a gentleman. He was born in Morristown, Vt., June 6, 1855. The family moved to Grinnell and settled on a farm near this city in 1869. He attended the High school in Grinnell. He grew up on the farm and February 28, 1876 he married Ida K. Akey who lived about a mile north of his father's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey moved to Sac county in 1880 and lived there four years. Herald readers recently have read from his pen several stories of early life in Sac county. He was an industrious, steady and deserving man. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey returned to Grinnell in 1884. Soon after he formed a partnership with A.A. Foster in the farm implement business and this partnership was enlarged to Foster Bailey and Goodrich by the entrance of Cass Goodrich into the firm. They branched out and Mr. Bailey continued the partnership and conducted a hardware store in the south room of Ames block. This partnership continued until it was dissolved by mutual consent and Mr. Bailey in partnership with A.C. Rinefort conducted a joint hardware and grocery business in the new Spaulding block now occupied by J.C. Penney

He afterwards formed a partnership with B.J. Carney under the firm name of Bailey and Carney. He was secretary of the Grinnell fair for a number of years. He was always a republican in politics and for a number of years represented the second ward of Grinnell on the County Centre committee.

In the nineties he was elected to membership in the school board and served six years, part of the time as president.

Mr. Bailey was an exceedingly quiet and modest man. In the prime of his life no man stood higher in the estimation of the people of Grinnell than he and none were better liked by the farmers of the surrounding community than Mr. Bailey.

In his early life he was essentially a successful man and no implement man in Grinnell had a greater influence among the farmers than he. Though modest, he was active and energetic and useful in more ways than one. He was a member of the Congregational church and his honesty and integrity were never questioned.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, Ida K. Bailey of Grinnell, and son, Louis Bailey of Marshalltown. Two brothers, Frank Bailey of Schaller, Iowa, and Joel Bailey of Amherst, South Dakota survive him, as do also two sisters, Lucy Jeanette Price of Chicago and Mary Robinson of Schaller, Ia.

His death occurred Saturday afternoon. In our long years of acquaintance with Mr. Bailey we have never heard him speak a harsh word of anyone. He and Mrs. Bailey lived an ideal life with friends on every side, popular, kindly and useful.

The last few years of Mr. Bailey's life he wrote farm news for the Herald and the genial spirit and kindly disposition that marked his earlier life made him popular and effective here. It is a pleasure to have known Mr. Bailey, to have felt the genial influence of his kindly life and to speak of him at his death as one of the gentlest, bravest and best of men. He had been having a little trouble for a short time and went to Iowa City for examination and was advised to have an operation. This he refused to undergo and came home after a week's stay in Iowa City with the full knowledge that his years of usefulness were ended. He died as he had lived in a calm serenity of mind, glad to enjoy the quirks and jollities of his friends, a wonderful man to the last.

Funeral services were held from the Congregational church Monday at two o'clock conducted by Rev. Robert Inglis, assisted by Rev. E. M. Vittum....

Francis Bailey Dies at Veterans' Hospital

Francis E. Bailey, 5th son of Joel and Elizabeth Bailey, was born March 20, 1895 near Odebolt, Iowa. In the spring of 1904 he came with his parents to Nebraska, locating near Osmond where they lived for a number of years. Later they moved to Britton and Amherst, So. Dak. where he grew to manhood and engaged in farming until World War I when he enlisted in the service of his country. He was a Private First Class Co. C. 158th Infantry in the U.S. Army. He enlisted May 25th, 1918 and after serving overseas was honorably discharged April 29, 1919. He returned to this country and again took up farming.

He was in good health until about two years ago. Last winter he entered the Veteran's Hospital at Wadsworth, Kansas and remained there until May 1944. Thinking he was better he went to Schaller, Iowa to visit relatives and he became suddenly worse with heart trouble and was taken to the Veteran's Hospital at Des Moines, where he died at 7:30 a.m. July 13 at the age of 49 years, three months and 23 days. He was preceded in death by his father and mother and one sister, Mrs. Ernest Ulrich and his youngest brother, Grant. He leaves four brothers and four sisters, Floyd of Trenton, Mo., Howard of Minneapolis, Minn., George of Plainview, Guy of Amherst, S.D., Mrs. John Ray of Chicago, Mrs. M.A. Mather of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Dave Curr of Amherst, S.D. and Mrs. Lloyd Long of Springfield, Oregon and a host of other relatives and friends. He was of a friendly disposition and made friends wherever he went.

The body arrived in Plainview on Sunday afternoon and the funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Ashburn Chapel with Rev. E.C. Williams in charge.

....Plainview and Pierce Legionnaires were in charge of the last rites, with Commander Ed German, G.B. Gould, E.D. Beech, C.H. Chilvers and Nick Zimmer, representing Tomek-Otto post.

Others from Pierce attending the last rites were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schwede and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ulrich of Osmond.

He was an uncle of Mrs. Schwede and Mr. Ulrich, and was also a cousin of Mrs. L.M. Hixson of Pierce.[40]

Frank, Emma, and Frank's mother Lucy, were living in Cook, Sac County, Iowa, in 1900.[45] Frank and Emma's adopted son was actually the son of Emma's sister, Florence and her husband Joe Murphy. Florence died when her baby was just two and a half months old.

Frank and Emma Bailey

Frank Edward Bailey was born September 21, 1864 near Moretown, Vermont. He came with his family to Sac County in 1876. On September 26, 1894 he married Emma Gertrude Hixson. She was born June 9, 1871 at Toulon, Illinois. She came with her parents, William and Lucy Oziah Hixson, to Cook Township in 1888. Frank and Emma were the parents of one son, Arthur William Bailey, born August 8, 1909.

The Baileys were the first in the community to have electricity. They had their own electric plant; it had twenty-four batteries. It was run by a gasoline engine which ran all day and charged the batteries so that electricity was available at night. They even had an electric iron and refrigerator; the refrigerator was made by putting coils in an old icebox. This refrigerator and iron could only be used with their own electric plant (a 32-volt system) and could not be used when Iowa Public Service came in later. They were also among the first to have indoor plumbing.

Friends or relatives in need of assistance were never denied any help or encouragement Frank and Emma could give. They often kept the neighborhood teachers; any employees at the Bailey farm left counting Mr. and Mrs. Bailey as friends.

The Baileys were charter members of Cook Country Club, a group of neighbors who banded together to talk over mutual problems, as well as for social good times. One of the happy occasions of their last years together was the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Emma Gertrude Bailey passed away October 28, 1948. Frank Edward Bailey passed away March 31, 1964, reaching the age of 99 years 5 months and 10 days. Both Emma and Frank are buried in Cook Center Cemetery south of Schaller, beside his parents.[46]

COBURN, tool sharpener and stone cutter, born about 31 October 1871, died in Northfield, 18 October 1940 of chronic myocarditis and mitral stenosis, aged 67 years, 11 months, 18 days,[60] son of Anson P. and Tabitha (Rich) Coburn.

After Irene's death, Carl married second at Northfield by Fred E. Cross, J.P., 7 September 1921[61] Lutie K. Edwards, who survived him.

Mrs. Carl Coburn

Mrs. Carl Coburn aged 45 years, passed away at her home on the Roxbury road Wednesday, after a short illness. Twin daughters were born to Mrs. Coburn, 15 days before her death and her condition became serious soon after and she rapidly failed. One daughter, Lila, died the day following the mother, the other daughter Irene survives.

Mrs. Coburn was formerly Irene Knowles, and had always lived in Northfield and vicinity. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Delbert and Glen, and the infant daughter, also one brother, Eugene Knowles.

Funeral services for the mother and daughter were held from the home Saturday afternoon, Rev. G.H. Redding officiating. Interment was in the Roxbury cemetery. The bearers were Royal Bowman, Irving Cady, Ben Peake and C.B. Dearborne.[62]

Carl Coburn

Carl M. Coburn, 68, former tool sharpener, died Friday evening while listening to the radio at his home on the Roxbury road. Mr. Coburn, who operated a small farm, had worked on a road job near Warren Thursday, and his death was sudden.

He was born in Roxbury Nov. 18, 1873, the son of Anson and Tabithy (Rich) Coburn, and lacked one month of being 69 years of age. In 1891 he was married to Irene Knowles, and three children born to them survive, Delbert of Roxbury, Glenn of Northfield and Irene of Northfield. His second wife, whom he married in 1921, also survives. Five sisters, now deceased, will be remembered in the community - Mrs. Nell Williams, Mrs. Abbie Williams, Mrs. Bertha Wallace, Miss Bessie Coburn and Miss Angie Coburn.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Kingston and Morse Funeral Home. Burial was in the family lot in the Roxbury cemetery.[63]

Nellie Moore Mason

Mrs. Nellie Moore Mason, 81, of 9 Parker Place died at Franklin County Public hospital, Greenfield, Monday morning. Taken ill at her home a week ago, she was removed to the hospital by ambulance on Saturday. She had been in frail health for some time.

Mrs. Mason was the widow of Rev. George Lincoln Mason, a well-known figure in this area, who died on May 2, 1943. She was born in Enfield, daughter of Edward H. and Maria Moore, the latter dying when her daughter was born. Nellie Moore grew up and received her education in her native town and became the public librarian there. She was married to Mr. Mason in the Free Baptist parsonage at Barrington, N.H., some time previous to his being ordained a Free Baptist minister in 1894. The couple lived in Center Sandwich, N.H., in Hartland and Woodstock, Vt., in Rochester, N.H., and at Green Harbor, Marshfield, and they came to Orange in 1916 when Mr. Mason became pastor of the Universalist church in North Orange for six years.

When Mr. Mason retired from the ministry in 1928 he and Mrs. Mason chose to settle in Orange. They owned a house on Howe street for some time and then moved to their last home in Parker Place.

Mrs. Mason was a past president of the Woman's Club in Enfield, a past president of the Outlook club, a former treasurer of the Philomath club, a member of the Rebekahs and of First Universalist church.

Survivors include two sons, Henry D. Mason of Athol and George A. Mason of Phillipsburg, N.J., and two granddaughters, the Misses Shirley and Kathryn Mason, both of Athol. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at the Higgins funeral home on Grove street, with Rev. Gordon S. Kenison officiating. Burial was in Quabbin Park, Ware.[196]

Children of Nellie Maria[5] Moore and George Lincoln Mason:[197]

134 i. HENRY DRUMMOND[6] MASON, born in West Lebanon, Maine, 5 December 1892.

Mr. George Neff has led a long and active life with his "old-time fiddling," his business and civic interests. His grandfather, Solomon Neff, told him stories about his Uncle Joseph Neff's prowess as a fiddler and made George, who had inherited a real musical talent from his mother, full of longing for a violin. At the age of eight he made himself a crude violin which would play. When he was 11, a sailor came by one day and asked for a meal. He offered to sell them his violin and George's father bought it for him for 25 cents. This violin turned out to be an excellent instrument and George, who plays entirely by ear, was able to play for his first dance in a Tolland kitchen a year later. It is this same violin which he plays today, grown more beautiful and mellow with the years. It started George on a musical career which has given pleasure to thousands and has also brought him renown and two silver trophies for being the best old-time fiddler in northern Connecticut.

When he grew up, George bought a portable saw-mill and went into the logging business, traveling over various parts of Conn. and Mass. It was while he was working in Ware, Mass., that he met and married Elsie Patrill. He had a saw mill in Blandford for eight years at the time of the Provin Mountain project when the lumber was bought standing and he was hired as sawyer.

In 1915 the saw mill was sold in Mass. and the family returned to Tolland where Mr. Neff bought the old Grover place where he now lives. Here he carried on a small dairy farm where he wintered as many as 15 head. Just to fill in any spare moments, he set up a barber shop in the summer kitchen of the 200 year old house.

George served as Selectman for the town of Tolland for 17 years. During five of these years he was First Selectman. In 1923 he went to Hartford as Representative to the State Legislature of Conn.

Because of his saw mill interest, when he formed a dance orchestra years ago, he called it the "Saw Mill Gang." His wife and children followed the dances with him and on occasion he and his wife danced a set to show how it should be done. Since he was often off in the woods when a call came to play at a square dance, it meant getting the family ready, hitching up the horse for what was often a long jaunt over dirt roads to another town, returning in the wee, small hours of the morning. This was likely to happen three and four times a week. Later he owned one of the first Stanley Steamers which shortened the trip immensely.

The "Saw Mill Gang" today is a family affair, for all of George Neff's children have had a musical education. Ellery the violin maker, studied harmony for three years and plays the violin in the orchestra. His son Emery plays the saxophone and another son, Harold, also plays the saxophone and "calls off." Ellery's son Ben, 16, plays the trumpet and drums while Harold's son Henry plays the accordion. Henry's wife Jean plays the piano. Back in the days when radio was young, this orchestra was one of the pioneeer broadcasters over both WTIC and WORC. Such old favorites and Fisher's Horn Pipe, Hull's Victory, Money Musk, and Turkey in the Straw were popular then as now. At 83 George is still strong and he and his orchestra are to be heard every Saturday night at the Vernon, Conn., Grange Hall.

His fiddling has created a splendid philosophy of life. He says that music does a lot for mankind. It breeds peace and goodwill. It could do a lot more, for if folks laughed and danced and fiddled, there wouldn't be any hate in the world because you can't hate anyone when you're dancing and fiddlin. The song in his soul and a serene outlook on life has kept George Neff young at heart.[209]

Lewis Patrell

Lewis Patrell, 61, of Ware, a brother of Roy Patrell of this town (Hardwick) and a Hardwick native was found dead in his home in Ware Friday night. He had been in failing health for about a year and Medical Examiner T.L. Roberson said death was due to natural causes.

Mr. Patrell's great-great-grandfather, Joseph Patrell, was a native of one of the islands of Guernsey and was one of the first settlers of the Ware River Parish. He served during the French and Indian War in 1778, and was at the capture of Fort William Henry. He also served at Dorchester during the Revolutionary War in 1788 [sic].

Mr. Patrell was well known as an old-time fiddler, playing frequently at dances in this vicinity and participating in contests in theatres in surrounding towns. He had been employed by the Ware Lumber Company, but for the last few years had conducted a shop for filing saws and other tools.

He leaves, besides his brother here, one daughter, Mrs. Charles Rickada of Hartford, Conn. His wife has been dead for many years.[226]

Robert Gaston Hamilton

WEST PELHAM MAN KILLED. Robert G. Hamilton, aged 36, of West Pelham was hit by a car on the Pelham branch of the Holyoke street railway company near the ice pond Saturday evening and sustained injuries from which he died soon after midnight. The car left Amherst at 8:07 in charge of Motorman Hilpold and Conductor Raddock, and was running at fair speed. When almost opposite Hamilton, who had been leaning against a pole, he stumbled across the rails in front of the car, which ran over his legs and arms and fractured his skull. He was taken to Harry Glazier's house, where he died. He leaves his mother, Mrs. Harriet J. Hamilton of Belchertown, two sisters, Miss Amy Hamilton of Amherst and Miss Grace Hamilton of Belchertown, and a brother, Clifton Hamilton, also of Belchertown; and two half-brothers James Hamilton of Springfield, and Frank Hamilton of Enfield. The funeral will be held at his mother's home in Belchertown tomorrow.[249]

BELCHERTOWN The funeral of Robert G. Hamilton whose death was the result of an accident that occurred Saturday evening in Amherst, was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of his mother, Mrs. Harriet J. Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton was 36 years of age, was born in Belchertown and the larger part of his early life was passed in this town. Lately he had lived in Amherst and his friends say that he had made arrangements to come here for Christmas. He slipped and fell on ice in front of a car of the Amherst and Sunderland street railway and was run over and nearly killed, dying in about three hours. He leaves besides his mother, two sisters, Miss Amy of Amherst and Miss Grace of Belchertown, also a half sister, Mrs. E. B. Peeso, and two half-brothers, James M. of Springfield and Frank J. of Enfield. The remains were brought from Amherst and taken to the home of Mrs. Hamilton on Monday. Rev. M. H. Fishburn conducted the funeral service which was private.[250]

Leon A. Hamilton, Veteran Policeman

West Springfield - The town lost more than a retired policeman Tuesday when Leon A. Hamilton of 110 City View Ave., died in Holyoke Soldiers Home at the age of 77. It lost a little bit of a legend.

Hamilton, who served the department for 40 years from May 24, 1928 to a mandatory retirement on New Year's Day in 1968, was a motorcycle cop for 30 years until he was 62 and finally moved to the desk at police headquarters where he served his last three years before he was forced to retire at the age of 65 on his birthday.

And symbolic of his years in service, he held patrolman's badge Number 1.

But while he had motorcycle duty, he rode his machine with the pride and bearing of a Marine in a poster.

"The guy was a legend," one police officer said Tuesday night hours after Hamilton died. He remembered long before he was old enough to join the force himself, watching Hamilton astride his motorcycle sitting ramrod straight. Perhaps because of his bearing and his sharp dress in crisp uniforms he was called the department's "Dapper Dan."

The spring before he retired, an article in The Springfield Newspapers stated, "If you walk into the Police Department between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. five days a week, chances are you will meet him. He will be the first to ask you if he can aid you."

Hamilton escorted many dignitaries through town including President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, when they visited the Eastern States Exposition.

He received numerous citations from the town's Board of Selectmen for his criminal investigations and on Dec. 16, 1952 he was cited for his "alertness and bravery in the capture of four persons in West Springfield who were escaping from Westfield police after an armed assault."

He also received national attention for what was called at the time his "dogged" pursuit of a young thief.

In 1955 he solved a series of breaking and enterings when he followed home a dog who had been loitering near a warehouse that was broken into frequently. The dog belonged to a 13-year-old boy who later admitted to a string of breaks.

He was a Navy veteran of World War II.

Born in Granby, Conn., he lived in West Springfield most of his life.

He was a member of Mount Orthodox Lodge of Masons, Scottish Rite Bodies, and Melha Temple Shrine, both Springfield, and the local American Legion Post.

He leaves his wife, the former Mary A. Morris.

The funeral will be Friday morning at Curran-Jones Funeral Home with burial at the convenience of the family. A Masonic service will be Thursday night in the funeral home.[253]

A pretty June wedding took place Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Rev. Theodore B. Lathrop, pastor of Grace Congregational Church, joined in marriage Miss Ida Gertrude Patrill of Framingham and Harold Edward Sanders, a musician in the 21st Infantry band, Regular Army, Camp Devens. The ceremony took place at 110 Union Avenue, where the bride has made her home for several years. The house was prettily decorated by Seaver the florist. They were unattended. The bride's gown was of brown crepe de chene, trimmed with lace. She carried a boquet of rose buds. A reception followed, and many beautiful gifts were received, including several from Dennison employees where the bride has been very popular as a stenographer in Dept. 30. The groom is a veteran of the World War and is still in the service. He wore his army uniform at the ceremony. After a honeymoon trip to Portland, Maine, they will reside in Framingham.[265]

Harold was remembered by his son, Robert, who wrote the following biography for this book:

Harold was born in Albia, Iowa, in 1894, son of William Sanders and Anna Mary Mills. He served in the U.S. Army during WWI in France as part of the American Expeditionary Forces. He was a member of the 213th infantry band, playing saxophone and clarinet. He was discharged at Camp Devens, Mass., with the rank of corporal.

After WWI, he led his own orchestra, playing at major theaters in the Boston, Mass., area. During the Depression he worked at many jobs: commercial fisherman, night watchman, leader of his own band, factory worker, WPA and Mass. civil service in the Metropolitan Water Works Dept. in Framingham.

Harold was a member of the American Legion in Framingham and at Hyattsville, Maryland, and worked as a member of the Park Police of Washington, D.C. from 1942-1943.

In 1944 he went to Miami, Florida, and briefly served as a deputy under Sheriff "Smiling Jimmy Sullivan." He was a member of the Moose Lodge. He had severe diabetes.

At her mother's death, Nellie went to live with the family of Nathaniel Henry and Louisa Adaline (Ray) Cook in Pelham, Massachusetts.

Nellie had a son some years before she married Charles Metcalf. The Cooks with whom she lived filed for an appointment as guardian of her son when he was about five and a half years old, "the parents being unfit to have such custody." The court did not answer the filing, but several months later, on 9 April 1903, Charles E. Metcalf of Lebanon, Grafton Co., New Hampshire, petitioned the court, saying,

> I am of twenty-one years or upwards and am desirous of adopting Carlton Rupert Patrell of Lebanon, N.H., a child of Ellen A. Metcalf of Lebanon, Grafton Co., N.H., who was born in Pelham, Mass., on the 27th day of August 1897; he prays for leave to adopt said child and that his name may be changed to that of Carlton Rupert Metcalf....[270]

Nellie consented to this adoption, signing her name "Ellen A. Metcalf." Young Carlton Rupert was five years and 7 months old. Nellie's sister Cora's son, Eugene Patrell Williams came to live with Nellie and Eugene, and the Metcalfs took in other foster children over the years, as well.

In 1907, Charles E. Metcalf was listed in the Lebanon city directory with a theatrical occupation. In later life, Nellie ran a restaurant called the Columbia Cafe in Amherst, Massachusetts.

Harold Stokes attended Lowell Technical College for several semesters studying electrical engineering and then worked for fifteen years at Central Vermont Public Service as a lineman. At the outbreak of World War II, he went to work for Jones-Lamson Machine Tool Co., in Springfield, and eventually became a Power House Engineer there.

Harold played on a championship basketball team at Chester, Vermont, High School in 1919-20 and played baseball for several years in "Dusty League." He was a member of the I.O.O.F.

As a young girl in Chester, Fern showed an interest in theater and was often photographed posing in different costumes with her dog. Her father was stage manager of the local theater for a short time, having worked in that capacity in Springfield, Massachusetts.

Fern worked as a telephone operator and in a drug store in Chester, Vermont, before her marriage. She was active in the Calvary Baptist Church in Springfield.

In the fall of 1955, while separated from Harold, Fern became a House Mother at Pembroke College in Providence, Rhode Island. In later years she held the same position with Becker Junior College in Worcester, Massachusetts, Boston University, and finally at Cushing Academy in Ashburnham, Massachusetts, from which she retired. After retirement, she was active in the Community Church at Pepperell, Massachusetts, and belonged to the Pepperell Women's Club and Pepperell Golden Agers & Church Workers Guild.

Fern was striken with a fatal heart attack at her home in Pepperell Meadows, and was rushed to the local hospital in Ayer, Massachusetts, then transferred to University Hospital in Boston, where she died. She was buried in Pleasant View Cemetery, Chester, Vermont, with her parents and grandparents.

Wesley H. Brown Dies, Aged 55

Lowell - Wesley H. Brown, a life-long resident of this city, died last evening at his home, 29 Newbury street, aged 55 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edith (Wood) Brown; a son, Richard W. Brown of Newton; a daughter, Miss Barbara H. Brown of Lowell; a sister, Mrs. Albert H. Varnum of New Bedford; a brother, Harrison G. Brown of Worcester; and several nieces and nephews.

He was a member of the Highland-Union Methodist church, and was a former trustee of the church. He was greatly interested in the work of the Boy Scout troop at the church, and had been a member of the troop committee.

He was born in this city, son of the late William H. and M. Elizabeth (Patrell) Brown. He was educated in the public schools of Lowell and was also a graduate of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Following his graduation from that school he became associated with his father who was proprietor of the W.H. Brown grocery store at the corner of Appleton and Gorham streets, and later became associated with the American Hide and Leather Co., as a chemist, where he was employed for many years, until ill-health forced his retirement.[384]

Oliver Jr. and Mary are remembered by their eldest son, Oliver III:

Oliver attended Central High School in Springfield, but did not graduate. He went to work for the Boston & Albany Railroad as a clerk. In 1919, Oliver Sr. came down with the flu, and Jr. had to work in the bakery to avoid closing it. He regretted that move for the rest of his life.

Jr. became a master baker. In the 1930s, Patrells Bakery was one of the largest individually owned bakeries in Springfield, with a large wholesale business serving most of the town's restaurants. They also had fifty independent drivers, mostly unemployed people who would take out the back seat of their old car, fill it with pastry and go around to all the neighborhoods peddling.

The big business proved to be unrewarding. Minnie, Oliver Jr.'s mother, used to do the books and handle the daily orders, but soon passed away. One by one the fifty drivers went broke, leaving unpaid bills. Oliver decided to restructure. He terminated the twenty bakers, the two truck drivers, most of the women in the store and became a one-man shop, selling goods out of one store only. He worked 16 hours per day and 24 hours over Friday and Saturday.

In 1941, his first year in the one-man operation, rationing was introduced. The OPA sent him a letter restricting the supply of butter, shortening, flour, sugar, etc., to 80% of the amount used the previous year. Oliver, being scrupulously honest, went to them and explained that he had restructured and would only need 10% of last year's supplies. They praised him for his honesty and promptly amended his quota to 8% of the amount used the previous year. Somehow the bakery survived. Oliver III used to work there on Saturday mornings, starting at 4 a.m. throughout High School. He used to sleep fast, staying out on a Friday night date until midnight, then up at 3:30 a.m. to make the doughnuts. He was never late or there was hell to pay.

Oliver Jr. was easily bored with the same routine, night after night alone, and he began to enjoy a little wine to get a glow and ease the tedium. By 1948 he realized he had become an alcoholic, and feared losing the bakery. He went to doctors. He made several vows to his priest. Nothing worked. In final desperation, he attended an AA meeting, where he found help and remained sober for the rest of his life. He also became an avid volunteer for AA. He would complete 24 hours of hard work, get a call and go out to hold the hand of another alcoholic for six hours to help that person stay sober. He attended meetings and helped others for 35 years.

Mary (Doyle) Patrell graduated from Cathedral High School in Springfield, Massachusetts in 1919. She was nearly stone deaf, but it wasn't much of a handicap. She was a whiz at bridge, and often played with her sister-in-law Helen Lee. She would scoop up the cards, all the while carrying on a completely unrelated conversation. She usually monopolized the conversation because of her handicap, otherwise she would have no idea what was being said. On the death of Minnie, Oliver's mother, Mary and Oliver moved to 390 Hancock St. to take care of Oliver Sr.

Mary began working in the bakery next door, frosting cakes and washing pots and pans, as well as other support work for Oliver Jr., who was a one-man shop at that time. After 30 years in the bakery, one summer day with the temperature inside at 110 degrees, Oliver yelled to Mary, "ARE YOU HAPPY DOING THIS?" and she replied, "Hell, no." He then went out to the old garage they used for storage, grabbed two pieces of luan plywood, a hammer, and some nails and tacked the plywood over the big old front windows and retired.

They enjoyed retirement and each other for about 5 years, before Mary was taken with pancreatic cancer and passed away.

George and Martha are buried in Plainview Cemetery, near their last home in Plainview, Nebraska.

George Ithiel Bailey

Funeral services were held Saturday, October 16, 1976, at 2 p.m. at Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Plainview for George Bailey, 84, of Plainview. Rev. Milburn Franke officiated and burial was in Pleasant View Cemetery.

Dennis Lichty was organist and accompanied the congregation who sang "Abide With Me" and "What A Friend We Have in Jesus."

Pall bearers were Dennis Bailey, Dale Bailey, Bill Ruth, Delvin Bailey, Roger Bailey and Dan Bivens.

Ashburn Funeral Homes were in charge of arrangements.

George Ithiel Bailey was born August 13, 1892 at Odebolt, Iowa, the son of Joel and Elizabeth Bailey and passed away at the Plainview Public Hospital on October 14, 1976 at the age of 84 years, two months and one day after a three-week illness.

He came to Osmond, Nebraska, as a young boy with his parents settling on a farm west of Osmond. It was near Osmond where he grew to manhood and met Martha Luedtke whom he married February 12, 1913 at the home of his parents near Osmond by Rev. Brueggeman, pastor of the Luterhan Church at Osmond. This union was blessed with eight children, five sons and three daughters.

In 1949 the Baileys moved to a farm five miles west and three miles north of Brunswick and moved to Plainview in 1969. They were presently living at the Plainview Manor.

George was confirmed the spring of 1945 at the Zion Lutheran Church of Creighton and later transferred to Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Plainview where he was a member at the time of his death.

He was preceded in death by one infant daughter, Esther in 1920; one son Ernest in 1969; two sisters, Mrs. Pat (Irene) Ulrich of Pierce and Mrs. John (Maude) Ray of Bakersfield, Calif., three brothers, Floyd of Holden, Mo., Francis of South Dakota and Grant of Osmond.

He is survived by his wife, Martha; four sons, Earl of Eugene, Oregon, Everett of Arlington, Calif., Elmer of Joplin, Mo., and Eugene of Plainview; two daughters, Ethel of the Plainview Manor and Mrs. Melvin (Evelyn) Tubbs of Hay Springs; five daughters-in-law; one son-in-law; 17 grandchildren; 23 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Howard of Minneapolis, Minn., and Guy of Aberdeen, S.D.; three sisters, Mrs. Mat (Lucille) Mathers of Fullerton, Calif.; Mrs. David (Gladys) Curr of Salem, Oregon, and Mrs. Lloyd (Fern) Long of Eugene, Oregon, and a host of relatives and friends.[28]

Martha M. Bailey

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha M. Bailey, 89, of Plainview were held at 11 a.m. June 25 at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church with the Rev. Milburn Franke officiating. Burial was in Pleasant View Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Dennis Bailey, Dale Bailey, Bill Ruth, Delvin Bailey, Roger Bailey and Dan Bivens.

Mrs. Eugene Wiegert was organist and accompanied the congregation who sang "Abide With Me" and "What A Friend We Have in Jesus."

Ashburn Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Martha M. Bailey was born March 30, 1893, at Sheboygan, WI, to Herman and Bertha Luedtke and passed away June 22, 1982 at the Plainview Public Hospital at the age of 89 years, two months and 23 days.

A simple operation proved fatal for Irene:

Pierce Lady Dies in Omaha Hospital
Mrs. E.A. Ulrich Operated Upon Last Wednesday Morning

The many friends of Ernest Ulrich will deeply sympathize with him over the loss of his wife, who died at the Methodist hospital at Omaha, last Saturday morning, as a result of a major operation for appendicitis and gall stone trouble from which she had been ailing for some time past. Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich went to Omaha last Monday noon and little did their friends think that this would be the last time they would see her in this life.

The operations were performed on Wednesday morning at the Methodist hospital and the patient rallied very nicely from the same. This was followed by a hemmorhage of the liver and the patient's condition gradually became more critical. Two transfusions of blood were given in an effort to save her life. Reports from the hospital Thursday and Friday were encouraging. However, she was not strong enough to survive the ordeal and it was with heavy hearts that Pierce people heard of her death last Saturday morning. Mrs. Ulrich made a brave fight for life and was conscious up to within a short time before death came.

Mrs. W.C. Ulrich, upon hearing of the serious condition of her sister-in-law Thursday morning left for Omaha on the early train out of Norfolk to be with her.

The remains were brought to Pierce Saturday evening and taken to the home on West Willow street.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the home at 1:30 o'clock and at the Congregational church at two o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Walter S. Henry.

The minister's remarks were very appropriate and comforting. The great truth taken from the life of the departed was her helpfullness to all. Another lesson the speaker said, was what kind of lives we were living.

In reading a brief history of the life of Mrs. Ulrich, Rev. Henry said:

"Mrs. Ulrich was a noble woman, loved by all who were privileged to know her. Her true worth is estimated by the real goodness of her heart, the greatness of her soul and the beauty of her character. As a daughter, sister, wife, mother and a friend she was loyal and loving. In all these cherished relationships she exerted a wholesome influence."

The floral offerings were many and most beautiful. A mixed quartet, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Brande, County Superintendent Ruth Kile and C.B. Brande, with Mrs. E.H. Magdanz, as accompanist sang three familiar hymns.

After the services the remains were taken to Prospect View cemetery where the beautiful burial service of the Rebekah Lodge was given. This was followed by a hymn "Go Bury Thy Sorrow," sung by Miss Florence Leamy and accompanied by her sister, Manota, on the flute. The pall bearers were Messrs. F. N. Reimers, R.L. Mallory, Bruce Boyd, Walter Hilgert, W.L. Lea and Hugo Hoehne.

Irene Valette Bailey, daughter of Joel P. and Lizzie M. Bailey of Amhurst, S.D., was born September 20, 1897, at Adebolt, [sic] Iowa. With her parents she moved to Osmond in 1904, where she resided on a farm up to the time of her marriage to E.A. Ulrich, January 15, 1916.

[44] Evelyn Dick manuscript, p. 9.

Since that time they have lived in Pierce and on a farm north of our city. Last March the family moved to Pierce where they have since resided.

At the time of her death she was aged 32 years and 10 months.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Dale, 12 years of age, and two daughters, Doris and Darlene, aged 9 and 7 respectively. Also her parents, four sisters - Mrs. Maude Ray of Chicago, Mrs. Lucile Mather of Los Angeles, California, Mrs. Gladys Curr of Amherst, S.D., and Mrs. Lloyd Long of McLean. Also five brothers, viz: Floyd and Howard of Amherst, S.D., Geo., of Plainview, Francis of Philadelphia, and Guy of Magnet. One brother, Grant, passed away some years ago.

Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Curr of Amherst, Geo. of Plainview, and Guy of Magnet were relatives present from a distance, Monday at the funeral services.

Mrs. Ulrich was a member of the Rebekah and Royal Neighbor Lodges and an earnest and helpful worker, especially in the former.

Her helpfulness and goodness as a neighbor was always evident. To The Call and family she was sympathetic and interested. Especially will she be missed by our little daughter, Mary, who during the few months that Mrs. Ulrich lived as a neighbor, had learned to love and trust her as a child does her mother.

This small tribute on our part comes from one who only a short time ago passed through the same experience as Ernest Ulrich is now passing. We do not pretend to explain why our dear ones are taken from us - when our children need the help and care of a loving mother, but as Rev. Henry said during his remarks Monday afternoon, all will be made plain, if not in this life, in the life that is to come.[45]

A. Long.

Newspaper accounts of their marriage and deaths follow:

Lloyd Long Joins the Benedicts

Lloyd Long and Miss Fern Bailey autoed to Yankton last Thursday where, we understand, they were united in the holy bonds of wedlock.

They were accompanied by Miss Malinda Stevens and Evan Thompson, of Pierce, who acted as best man and lady.

The marriage was supposed to have been a secret but in some manner it became public.

The bride is the sister of Mrs. Ernest Ulrich and is well known and admired by all. She is a graduate of the Pierce public schools and has taught in the rural schools of Pierce county.

The groom is a Pierce county product and is a young man who is capable and honest.

Both have a host of friends among the younger set who will congratulate them heartily upon this important event and hope that prosperity and happiness will always attend them.

The happy couple are making their home at present with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Long on R.F.D. No. 2, out of Osmond.

Next month they are planning on moving to a four hundred acre farm, one-half mile south of McLean, which Lloyd will farm for a year.[59]

Lloyd Elwin Long

Lloyd Elwin Long of 3950 Coburg Road, Space 5, Eugene, died October 4, 1979, at his home at the age of 77. He was born April 6, 1902, in Pierce, Nebraska. He was married to Fern Bailey on October 31, 1924, in Yankton, South Dakota. He was a logging operator for Weyerhaeuser Lumber. He had lived in this community since 1936. He was a member of the Springfield Elks Lodge, No. 2145 for 17 years. He was on the Senior bowling League at Firs. He is survived by his wife, Fern of Eugene; 4 sons: Leslie K. Long of Junction City, Lowell J. Long of Springfield; Elwin L. Long of Owensboro, Kentucky; Larry E. Long of Medford, Oregon; 2 daughters, Mrs. Robert (Della Jean) Frye of Powers, Oregon and Mrs. Goodwin

Marshall Robinson

Marshall Earl Robinson was born to James Duncan and Mary Bailey Nelson Robinson on a farm south of Schaller on August 13, 1903. In 1905, he moved with his family to Schaller where he received his education. Marshall graduated in 1922 and attended the State University of Iowa before deciding to make farming and cattle feeding his career.

In 1925 Marshall was married to Griselda Schmidt at St. Paul's Lutheran in Schaller. Following their marriage, they lived in the Milford area for three years and then east of Schaller for 16 years. In 1944 they moved to the farm that they purchased west of Schaller and it was here that Marshall resided until his death.

Marshall was confirmed at St. Paul's Lutheran where he remained a faithful member, served as an elder, and held other church offices. He was Eden Township assessor, worked for the farm security Administration, the A.A.A. and other groups. At the time of his death, he was a Eureka Township trustee.

He is survived by his wife, Griselda, and one daughter, Marla Jean and husband William Rindsig of Spencer; three grandchildren, Robin and wife Terri of Spencer, Steven and wife Jennifer and great grandchildren Matthew and Stephanie of Ann Arbor, Mich., and granddaughter Billee Jean Rindsig of Ames; one brother, James B. of Portland, Ore., two sisters, LouElla Tryon of Storm Lake and Elizabeth Jarvis of Alta and many other relatives and friends.

He was preceded in death by one brother, Leslie, and four half brothers and sisters, Emma Robinson Hixson, DeLos and Guy Robinson, and Vivian Nelson Watkins.[70]

Child of Marshall[6] and Griselda (Schmidt) Robinson:

117. OLIVE MAY[6] BRISTOL (Jennie[5], Oscar[4], Lyman[3], Joseph[2-1]), born in Lebanon, New Hampshire, 12 April 1885[76]; died in Waterville, Maine, 8 September 1942 of angina pectoris, aged 57 years, 4 months, 27 days[77]; married in Weathersfield, Vermont, by Rev. A.W. Force, 16 October 1910[78] JOHN ENOCH ROWELL, grocer, born in Craftsbury, Vermont, 7 December 1883, died in Waterville 14 November 1957 of chronic myocarditis, aged 73 years, son of Willard C. and Luella S. (Priest) Rowell.[79]

Following Olive's death, John remarried in Otisfield, Maine, 23 July 1944[80] Helen Sydney Smith, born in Lakeville, Canada, about 1893, daughter of Mathew C. and Mather (Hume) Smith. Helen survived him.

John was the city treasurer for Waterville in the 1940s. A longtime resident of Waterville, when Olive died, the newspaper alluded to her courage and depth of character:

Mrs. John E. Rowell

Mrs. Olive Bristol Rowell died very suddenly at her home at 277 Main street yesterday. She was born April 12, 1885 at Lebanon, N.H., daughter of Edwin F. and Jennie Bristol. She is survived by her husband John E. and four children, Mrs. Eleanor Dorsett of Limerock, Conn., Ruth E. of New York City, Army Air Cadet Howard F. of Camp Merced, Cal., Robert C. of Waterville; two sisters, Mrs. Edith Wicks of West Sandlake, N.Y., and Mrs. Isabelle Myers, West Monroe, La., and one brother, Roger P. Bristol of Hanover, N.H.

Mrs. Rowell received her education in the schools of Claremont, N.H., and since her marriage to John Rowell Oct. 10,[sic] 1910, had always resided in Waterville. She was a woman of great depth of character and friendliness. Her great courage in the face of personal loss, and her radiant life will long been an inspiration and beacon not only to her family but to her many friends. Her greatest activities outside of her home were in the Methodist church of which she was a member. She was past president of the Ladies' Auxilliary, a group leader of the W.S.C.S., and for many years had taught a class in the church school.

John E. Rowell

John E. Rowell, 73, former well-known political figure and store owner in Waterville, died at his home at 289 Main Street Thursday night following several years of ill health.

Mr. Rowell had been a resident of Waterville for the past 47 years.

He was born Dec. 7, 1883, in Craftsbury, Vt., the son of the late Willard C. and Luella (Priest) Rowell.

For many years Mr. Rowell was engaged in the retail grocery business, prior to which he was manager of the Armour Co. for 13 years. He retired in 1942.

He had been active in politics and civic affairs all his adult life. At one time he had been a member of the board of aldermen, school board, board of assessors, and also served as tax collector and city treasurer for many years. He was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Pleasant Street Methodist Church, charter member of the Waterville Kiwanis Club and past president of the Waterville-Winslow Chamber of Commerce.

He was a director of the Waterville Loan and Building Association for many years.

He is survived by his widow, Helen S. Rowell, a son, Robert C. of Waterville; two daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Dorsett of Lime Rock, Conn., and Mrs. Ruth Higgins of New York City, N.Y.; a brother, Frank P. of Portsmouth, N.H., and 12 grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Redington Funeral Home today from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. Funeral services will be held at the Pleasant Street Methodist Church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Burial will be in the family lot in Pine Grove Cemetery.[82]

W.R. Johnson, 2 May 1916[90] ROSE LILLIAN MARTIN, born in Oka, 23 February 1889,[91] died in White River Junction, Vermont, 27 January 1975, daughter of Mitchell and Mary Ellen (Simonds) Martin.

Ernest was a garden produce farmer with a special talent for growing and marketing numerous types of quality vegetables. He also grew several varieties of apples, berries and flowers and made and sold maple syrup in season. He loved and raised beautiful fields of gladioli and entered many, including some of his own varieties, in flower shows for ribbons.

Ernest met his wife Rose at church where they both sang in the choir. Ernest loved music and sang in men's quartets. Singing around the piano at home with his wife and daughters was a common family event. He enjoyed his friends, taking his produce to market, singing for special occasions with his quartet, volunteering at election time and working at the post office at Christmas.

Rose was born and raised in Oka, Quebec, with siblings Mary, Marjorie, Felix, Tom and Martin. She went to Montreal as a young lady to complete her schooling and secure employment. She answered an ad in a newspaper for a housekeeper and seamstress placed by a lawyer named Stevens in Norwich, which brought her to the United States. She attended the local church in Norwich and took an active part in the choir and social gatherings, and where she met her future husband.

Family of Ernest Albert Pattrell

Calista (Mosher) Scott remembers that her grandmother Rose was asked by the Mohawk tribe to speak as a representative in negotiations between the Iroquois Nation and the State of Vermont. She prepared and spoke eloquently to a large crowd of legislators and the public at the State Capitol in Montpelier in 1955.

Rose was an accomplished seamstress and worked as a tailor's assistant in Hanover, New Hampshire. She made beautifully tailored men's suits and coats with hand-sewn button holes. She created women's fashions as well.

At home Rose's work included caring for her three daughters as well as nursing ailing and ageing family members. She washed by hand, cooked and kept a tidy house. She sewed for her children and maintained a beautiful flower garden around the perimeter of her house.

In 1949, Ernest moved to Florida where he worked at a variety of jobs: ticket taker, handyman, gardener. Although far away, he continued close ties with his family. As remembered by his daughter, Helen, her father was a strong and stable person, "a rock."[92]

The local newspapers in Vermont took notice of his gardening prowess:

[92] Biographical details supplied by Calista (Mosher) Scott.

Ernest Pattrell, accompanied by his sister, Miss Avis Pattrell, attended the show of the New England Gladiolas Society August 15 in Horticultural Hall, Boston. As a member of the Society he exhibited several varieties of gladioli from which he received four blue ribbons and nine second places. Mr. Pattrell was joined at the show by his daughter Louise of North Quincy and his niece Miss Louise Pattrell of Boston.[93]

William R. Sanders

William R. (Bill) Sanders, 32y, Webster City, was instantly killed early Sunday afternoon when the car in which he was riding and being towed by another vehicle overturned in a shallow ditch about four miles northeast of Webster City.

Deputy Sheriff Roger Smith said today that Sanders was driving a car which was being towed by another auto driven by his father-in-law, Harold Biggs of Webster City, when the mishap occurred at about 12:40 p.m. Smith said that apparently the tow-chain linking the two cars came loose after they had just come down a hill and crossed a small bridge, heading north. Sander's auto careened into the ditch, throwing him out and pinning him underneath it.

Biggs went to a nearby farm to summon help, and volunteers helped roll the car off Sanders, but he apparently had died instantly of a fractured neck, Smith said. Biggs told officials the two men were towing the car out into the country to a site where Sanders planned to pull the motor out of the car to work on it.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Foster Funeral Home with Rev. S.W. Cunningham officiating and with burial in Graceland cemetery.

William Richard Sanders, son of Harold and Ida Sanders was born Feb. 28, 1936 at Framingham, Mass. When he was 2 years old, he moved with his parents to Florida, and he was reared and educated at Miami. He served in the U.S. Armed Forces from 1954 to 1957, being stationed in Alaska. Following his discharge from the service, he returned to Miami, later moving to California.

He was united in marriage Nov. 13, 1965 at Phoenix, Arizona, to Penny Biggs and the couple resided at Phoenix for several months before moving to Texas where Mr. Sanders engaged in construction work. His work later took him to Memphis, Tenn., and to Fort Myers, Fla. Since May 14, 1967 the family has resided in the Webster City area. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and one son, Anita Jenette and James Randall; one brother, Robert Sanders of Opa-Locka, Fla. He was preceded in death by his parents.[164]

(Stone) Atwood. Roy is buried in Evergreen Memorial Gardens, Vancouver.

Mildred Sarah Williams Allen

[165] Mass. Vital Records, 1919 births 97:150. Mildred's biological father was William H. Powers of N. Prescott, but she carried the Williams surname.

[166] Social Security Death Index.

The Allens' early lives were remembered by their daughter, Pat Flagg:

Roy Allen was educated to the eighth grade, was very mechanically minded, and a quick learner. He was considered a jack of all trades by most who knew him. While Roy did not serve in the military, he did work in the CC Camps in the Dana, Mass., area during the recession, planting trees and doing maintenance work in area towns. He also helped to remove and relocate all the graves from Dana and other towns that became part of the flooded Quabbin Reservoir Valley in the project that supplied water to Boston.

Roy worked many years with Heaney Pump and Water Systems, putting in wells all over New England. He was an exhibitor for these water systems at many Springfield Expositions and other area fairs. He helped put in the underground systems that helped deliver the water from the Quabbin Reservoir to Boston. During W.W. II, Mildred and Roy worked side by side welding at St. Pier Chain, in Worcester, Mass. His last job was with a new company started by a couple of neighbors calling themselves Wayne-Roys, inventors of the first backhoe. Roy welded many years for them.

Roy worked a second job for many years as dog officer for the town of Rutland, Mass., and helped to save many good dogs from a terrible fate. I remember we always had several dogs with us until a home could be found. He loved all animals, especially dogs.

Roy's hobbies included singing, mostly country songs with friends in our neighborhood group, and playing a makeshift wash tub put upside down with a broom handle pole and string. He also played the spoons and harmonica quite well. As a young man in Dana, one of his best friends was "Yodeling Slim Clark." Roy took him to Ware, Mass., to help pick out his first guitar. Clark went on to become a famous country singer.

Roy was an avid hunter of bear, deer, 'coon and also processed hides. He loved to fish both fresh water and deep sea, and taught all of his children how to fish on individual fishing trips.

As a young man he found an injured falcon and nursed it back to health, then used it to learn falconry. After it died, he had it stuffed and given to the Natural History Museum in Worcester, Mass.

Mildred and Roy both attended the Rutland Congregational Church and later joined the Episcopal Church in Holden, Mass. They were both members of the New England Goat Association and raised large numbers of goats on their fifty acres in North Rutland. They not only drank the goat milk they produced, but made cheese, too.

Mildred lived with her Powers father and her mother in Cooleyville the better part of her first seven years. She was educated in a one room school house by Jennie Horr, where she had a famous classmate, the niece of President Truman, Margaret Truman. Mildred moved and changed schools seventeen times until, at age 14, she left school to work keeping house for several prominent families in and around Hardwick.

Mildred's hobbies are poetry, sewing, canning, flower and vegetable gardening. She is also an avid reader. Her jobs included sewing at David Clark Co. in Worcester, where the first space suit was made, and at Sears Roebuck Bras, Awnings & Tent Co., in Worcester, and Sims Cab Co., in Rutland making Caterpillar and John Deere cab covers. She still works part time at Campbell Pet Co. in Vancouver, Wash., sewing pet supplies.

My fondest memories as a child with my parents was our weekend drives into northern New England, sometimes all of us sleeping in the car and picnicking and all of us joining in and singing songs with my parents as they drove us on these weekend adventures. We also had many family reunions on our property in Rutland on the 4th of July and at Aunt Cora (Patrell) Williams' house on Grandpa Patrell's land.

I always remember that my mother worked very hard to provide us with a good life. She was the only mother that drove when I was growing up and she made sure that I was involved in 4-H, Brownies, Girl Scouts, ballet, tap and baton. Likewise, she chauffeured my brothers and the kids in the neighborhood to their activities long before it was considered chic to be such an independent woman. She was also the only mother that I knew that could work along side her husband and could tear down an engine and put it back together if need be.

Mildred now makes her home in Vancouver, Washington.

Ann Shinkevich, Douglas Stokes, and Edward Henry Stokes

[183] Mass. Vital Records, 1941 births 92:471.

Edward enlisted in the U.S. Navy Reserve in June of 1945 right out of Springfield High School. He trained at boot camp in Bainbridge, Maryland, graduating in December of 1945 and rose to the rank of Fireman 1st class. He served at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and in Norfolk, Virginia, in early 1946, then shipped overseas to Port Lyute Naval Airbase in North Africa. During his duty and liberties there, he sailed to Tangier, Casablanca, Naples, Palermo and the Azores. After leaving the Azores, his ship, the U.S.S. Portsmouth, had gunnery practice at sea. Stationed in the #1 gun turret below the big guns and just over the powder room, he remembers hearing them loading below and firing above, and thinking, "Don't screw up boys, I'm on my way home!"

At home, he returned to a co-op apprenticeship at Jones and Lamson Machine Tool Co., finishing and receiving his High School certificate in June of 1947. He stayed with J. & L. and became a design engineer and then a computer programming engineer, teaching programming to customers. After 45 years service, he went to Vermont Rebuild from 1988-91, then worked briefly for an English firm until his 1992 retirement.

In the 1950s, Edward became commander of the local VFW, coached Little League and worked in Cub Scouts with his son. Now in retirement he enjoys gardening and woodcutting.

Child of Edward Henry[6] and Ann (Shinkevich) Stokes:

i. DOUGLAS EDWARD[7] STOKES, born in Springfield, Vt., 5 November 1954[184]; attended the University of Vermont, where he received a B.A. Douglas played Little League and belonged to the Boy Scouts. He also worked at Jones and Lamson. Unmarried.

Dean Crawford Smith and Roberta Jean Stokes

Roberta attended school in Springfield, Vermont, graduating in 1947 from the Commercial and Business curriculum and was hired by Bryant Chuck and Grinder Co., where she had spent her high school apprentice years holding several secretarial positions. In the fall of 1948, she married Dean Crawford Smith, a recent graduate of the Thompson School of Agriculture at the University of New Hampshire at Durham.

Settling first in Kingston, Rhode Island, where Dean was employed by Eastern States Farmers Exchange, she worked for the Industrial Management Dept. at the University of Rhode Island for five years. They subsequently lived in Jefferson, Iowa, Saunderstown, Rhode Island, Pepperell, Massachusetts, and finally retired to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, in 1985.

In 1972, both Roberta and Dean became interested in learning more about their respective families and thus started a long and rewarding avocation in genealogy. They were both life members of the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston, and maintained memberships in genealogical societies in Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and California. In the 1980s, they invested in a retirement cottage in Goleta, California, and spent their winters on the west coast and summers in Portsmouth.

Dean authored four books and many articles in genealogical publications. Roberta also contributed articles to genealogical journals, but the present book is her first attempt at compiling an entire family genealogy.

Dean Crawford Smith

Goleta, CA - Dean Crawford Smith, C.G., V.P. and genealogist, of Portsmouth, NH, and Goleta, CA, passed away at 4:43 p.m. at Cottage Hospital in Santa Barbara, CA, on January 28, 2000 after a brief illness. He was 74.

The only child of Daniel L. and Marion A. (Ordway) Smith, Dean grew up during the depression with his mother, grandfather and extended family in Claremont, NH, where he graduated from Stevens High. He served in the Pacific Theater in WWII as a Navy Gunners Mate 3rd Class and on shore patrol in the Philippines. After the war, Dean graduated with honors from The Thompson School of Agriculture, at the University of New Hampshire, and worked in agriculture for fifteen years with several companies including the Farm Bureau in New Hampshire, Iowa and Rhode Island. While in Iowa, he took a role in emergency volunteer relief efforts following the devastating 1954 tornadoes.

In 1961, Dean changed careers and joined Groton (MA)-based New England Business Service (NEBS), as its first Product Manager. His keen business sense mixed with genuine regard for co-workers and clients was extremely successful. He is remembered for furthering the careers of both men and women with no respect for a glass ceiling. He was always humble in the face of a changing business world that valued advanced degrees. In 1985 he retired as Vice President of Marketing and VP of Corporate Development (New Ventures). Many of his business form designs are still in use.

Dean was Charter President of the Rotary Club of Wakefield, RI, and a member at Jefferson and Maquoketa, Iowa, Groton, MA, and Kittery, ME Rotary Clubs. He was an honorary member of the Goleta, CA, Rotary. He was a member of the New Hampshire President's Council and served on the Board of Directors of numerous organizations, including Adventures in Caring Foundation (Santa Barbara), whose members make compassionate visits to hospitals and hospices.

Dean held a life-long interest in archaeology and took great pleasure working with the crew on a York, England, excavation which he funded in the 1980s. Dean was an accomplished woodworker and lovingly restored his Pepperell (MA) home. He was an avid golfer and horticulturist on both coasts.

In 1987, Dean brought together many years of research on his family history, and began an ambitious publishing program, tracing the ancestry of his mother's grandparents. His publications included a substantial body of highly regarded articles and four books, the second of which won the prestigious 1993 Donald Lines Jacobus Award for genealogical excellence from the American Society of Genealogists. In 1995 he received his C.G.

He was a valued member and generous patron of many genealogical societies, including the Santa Barbara County Genealogical Society, the New Hampshire Society of Genealogists, and the Society of Genealogists (England). He was a Life Member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, on whose Board of Trustees he served fourteen years as member, Treasurer, and finally, Vice President. In 1997, NEHGS opened the Dean C. and Roberta J. (Stokes) Smith Technology Center, a modern microform and computer research facility made possible by the Smith's generosity.

In 1948 he married Roberta Jean Stokes of Springfield, VT. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1998 at a dinner dance hosted by their children.

Dean is survived by his wife, one son, Bradford Dean Smith, O.D. of Augusta, ME, one daughter, Kristin Lynn Forest of Reno, NV; four granddaughters, Melinda Ann Hunt of San Bruno, CA, Devon Marie Smith, Catherine Fern Smith, and Taylor Lynn Smith, all of Augusta, and one grandson, Ryan Joseph Smith of Augusta.

Donations may be sent to Adventures in Caring Foundation, P.O. Box 3859, Santa Barbara, CA 93130.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Welch-Ryce-Haider Funeral Chapels.[187]

"Ted" Lee attended the University of Massachusetts and served as an officer in the Army Tank Corps for two years. He worked as an Aetna Life and Casualty representative for five years, before earning an MBA from the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

"Ted" Lee was highly regarded for his stewardship as President of Information Handling Services, a Denver subsidiary of Indian Head Company. His business acumen drew considerable attention, and he was the subject of a number of magazine and newspaper articles in the popular press. Colorado Business magazine's "Profile of the Year" in 1979, mentioned his outside interests, including his "charming Connecticut country home, which he and his wife had remodelled themselves with such finesse that it was featured in a popular magazine," his collections of paintings, antique cars and toys. He enjoyed hiking, hunting, fishing and tennis.

At his death, the Denver Post ran an obituary that described many of his business accomplishments:

"Ted" Lee, top business exec, dies at 61

Edward M. "Ted" Lee, a prominent Denver business executive, died Wednesday after a long illness.

Lee, 61, was president of Englewood-based Information Handling Services in the early 1980s when the firm became one of the world's largest suppliers of technical specifications and data for manufacturers and contractors.

Under his direction in the 1970s, Information Handling Services made a push for hiring women, minorities and disabled employees, a progressive concept at the time.

IHS formed a partnership with Fort Logan Mental Health Center in a program to help more than 8,000 mental-health patients function in competitive work situations.

Participants in the program started out by disassembling microfilm cartridges in a hospital workshop, then progressed to temporary employment with IHS.

"He really cared about his people," said family friend and business associate Nick Del Calzo of Denver. "That always came through in his approach."

Lee was Colorado Business magazine's "Profile of the Year" in 1979.

After leaving IHS in 1981, Lee worked in several entrepreneurial ventures.

Most recently he developed an information system for the National Network of Estate Planning Attorneys.

Lee was born in 1935 in Springfield, Mass., and graduated from the University of Massachsuetts and the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

Survivors include his wife, Jill Dana Lee, daughters Dana O'Brien and Deborah Minor; sons Michael Lee and Edward Lee III, mother Helen Lee, and brother Christopher Lee.

A funeral mass will be at 10 a.m. today at the Basilica of the Immaculate Conception, 1530 Logan St. Donations may be made to Little Sisters of the Poor at 3629 W. 29th Ave., Denver, 80211.[207]

Clyde Sargent, Expert on China At War College

Newport, R.I. (AP) - Clyde Bailey Sargent, 73, a former Naval War College and CIA expert on China who served in China with the wartime Office of Strategic Services, died of cancer Monday at Newport Hospital.

Mr. Sargent worked at Cheeloo University in China before becoming an assistant to the U.S. ambassador to China in 1937.

When the United States entered World War II, he joined the Office of Strategic Services, a forerunner of the CIA, as a civilian and performed intelligence gathering missions in India and China.

He later became a military member of the OSS and served in China with the Flying Tigers, a group of American fighter pilots.

After the war, he was a political adviser and alternate member of a joint U.S.-Soviet commission on Korea before the Korean War.

He taught at the CIA's foreign service and language school in Washington through the 1950s and 1960s. After retiring from that post in 1965, he joined the faculty of the Naval War College in Newport as a professor and consultant on Chinese affairs.

Mr. Sargent held degrees from Columbia University, the College of Chinese Studies in Peking, Trinity College and Denison University of Granville, Ohio.

He was a member of the Cosmos Club of Washington and a former member of the Explorers' Club of New York.

He is survived by his wife, Mary, and two sons.[3]

180. LaVONNE G.[7] CURR (Gladys[6], Joel[5], Lucy[4], John[3], Joseph[2-1]), born in Britton, Marshall Co., South Dakota, 14 May 1920; married 9 August 1942 JACK ARLON DAY, foreman, born in St. Louis, Missouri, 27 April 1921, died in Oxnard, Ventura Co., California, 13 May 1996 of cancer, aged 75 years.[100]

Jack Arlon Day

A twenty-six year Oxnard resident, Jack Arlon Day, age 75, died May 13, 1996 at the Maywood Care Facility in Oxnard, with his wife LaVonne at his side. Jack was diagnosed with cancer in Feb. of 1995, and had two major surgeries that year. He was in fairly good health until mid-January of 1996. He fought a courageous battle with LaVonne caring for him in their home until May 10th when she had to place him in the Maywood Care Facility because of his weakened condition. He passed away three days later.

Jack was born April 27, 1921 in St. Louis, Mo. When he was a young boy the family moved to Parsons, Kansas. He attended school there and graduated in 1939. The following year he moved to Los Angeles, Ca. and while working at the Broadway Dept. Store he met his future wife, LaVonne Curr, and they were married August 9, 1942.

From 1942 to 1945 Jack served in the U.S. Army. He was stationed first at Camp Carson, Colorado Springs, Co., until Feb. of 1944 when his company was sent to New Guinea. Later he was to serve in Manila, the Philippines before returning to the states in Nov. of 1945.

In Dec. 1945 Jack took his family to South Gate, Ca. and he was hired by Pioneer-Flintkote as a compositor in the Folding Box Division. Western Kraft bought the Folding Box Division and in 1969 moved to a new plant in Camarillo and Jack was Shipping and Receiving Foreman. Later, International Paper bought the plant and Jack was with them until his retirement on April 27, 1986.

He enjoyed his retirement years by keeping busy with his hobbies of collecting cacti, painting and most of all, his music. A Big Band fan, he collected records then recorded them on tape. His family and his music were his life. Proud of his sons and grandchildren, he was interested in their many accomplishments. With his outstanding memory for facts and details, he could talk on many subjects, helped by being an avid reader.

Jack is survived by his loving wife, LaVonne, of nearly 54 years, their sons Richard and Robert and six grandchildren, Robert, Jeffrey, Scott, Stacie and Allison, of Cerritos, Ca., and Jennifer (Mrs. Chris Pierson) of Riverside, Ca. Also surviving are a brother, George of Temecula and sisters Gloria and Joyce of Los Angeles, and serveral nieces and nephews. A sister, June, preceded him in death....[101]

Helen R. Mosher, Elementary Teacher

A memorial service for Helen Rose Mosher of Redmond will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. at Green's Funeral Home, 18551 N.E. 79th St. in Redmond. Mrs. Mosher died Monday in Redmond.

Born Jan. 19, 1917 in Hanover, N.H., Mrs. Mosher grew up on a family farm with her parents and two sisters. A valedictorian in high school, she was awarded a scholarship to attend University of Vermont where she majored in education. When she began teaching in 1941 in a rural, two-room school with only 14 students, she met and married Thomas Mosher. From 1945 until her retirement in 1976 Mrs. Mosher held several positions in the public school system; she was a librarian and special education resource teacher in Vermont, an intern supervisor through the University of Oregon, a demonstration teacher in Vermont and a reading specialist to inner-city children. In 1954 she was voted Vermont Rural Teacher of the Year.

She also participated in the Curriculum Development Program in Vermont, Colorado and Oregon and was a member of the Executive Board for Northwest Teachers and chairman of the Local Teacher's Association both in Vermont, and belonged to the University of Vermont Women's Club in Eugene.

Upon retiring, Mr. and Mrs. Mosher wintered in Yuma, Ariz. and lived in Eugene, Ore. during the rest of the year. She volunteered at the Yuma Library and tutored young students well into her retirement. She was an avid reader and enjoyed playing the organ and piano. Her family remembers her Christian faith was very important to her. Mr. and Mrs. Mosher moved to Redmond last year.

Survivors include her husband, Thomas J. Mosher of Redmond; her daughters, Calista Scott and husband Dean of Kirkland, Judi Milburn and husband Louis of Seattle and Leslie Romine of Albany, Ore; her sister, Irene L. Romine of Santa Barbara, Calif; her grandchild, Jody Milburn of Seattle and her great-grandchild Caitlin Rose Milburn.

Green's Redmond Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.[152]

Helen and Tom's daughter, Calista, remembered her parents:

Tom was a successful dairy farmer in the 1950s in Vermont, managed a 300 acre farm with 30 head of Jersey cattle, cultivated fields of corn and alfalfa and before he was well established, he worked additional jobs as truck driver and for the Vermont State Highway Department. In the 1960s he worked for the Colorado Springs Street Department and for the Eugene School District as custodian.

On 1 December 1942 he was inducted into the Coast Guard, and served in the Asiatic Theater during World War II in the 13th Coast Guard Artillery as a Technical Sergeant 4th class, and was discharged 12 February 1946.

Tom loved music and to dance and sing. He was handsome and quick-witted with a talent for making up rhyme. He enjoyed telling stories and making people laugh, and was therefore quite socially popular. He valued work and a job well done. He won many awards for having the lowest contamination count of milk from the creamery and always passed barn inspections. He was creative and an inventor of useful equipment. He designed a buckrake for picking up field hay, special hay wagons for use on the hilly Vermont fields, a motorized raft for family fun and other items as well.

Helen taught for thirty-three years, and had many experiences and honors. Most dear to her was an award from the Vermont Association of University Women as Outstanding Rural School Teacher of the Year (1954). Helen loved books and played both piano and organ and her singing voice touched many hearts. She was able to reach some youngsters with their reading problems through the piano. She wrote of her career, "It was filled with the joy of watching children become excited over their achievements." Her faith was very important to her and she placed a higher value on friendships and family over possessions one might have.

Edward Romine, baby Leslie Romine and Irene (Pattrell) Romine

Irene Pattrell joined the WACs in July of 1944 and trained in Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia. The local newspaper proudly announced her new duties in June of 1944:

> Miss Irene Patrell has completed her second year's work as teacher in the high school at Greensboro and is at home now for a short vacation. Next week she will go to Poughkeepsie, N.Y., to visit friends and relatives there prior to her departure to take up new duties in the Women's Army Corps. Miss Pattrell has enlisted in the Air WAC and expects to leave for basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., sometime after July 1. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pattrell of this town.[155]

She was stationed in California, Missouri, Pennsylvania and Maryland, and for the last thirteen months, in Nanking, China. She was discharged at Camp Stoneman, California, in October 1948 as T/R or sergeant. Following the war, she worked as administrative support for the Veteran's Administration in Hanover, New Hampshire.

Irene was an accomplished organist and played for church services near her home.

Kenneth Romine volunteered in January 1943 and spent two hitches in the U.S. Army in the China-Burma-India theater. While there, he travelled over the Burma road from India to China and was stationed in Shanghai, Formosa (now Taiwan) and Nanking. He attended the 7th Army intelligence school and later the language school at Monterey, California, where he learned Chinese. In addition, he became fluent in German, Russian and Vietnamese. He was stationed in Germany on and off for about twelve years, during which time he attended the 7th Army NCO academy in Oberamergau. He served three tours of duty in Vietnam, beginning in 1965, and retired in 1973.

Following their divorce, Kenneth married second in Ft. Riley, Kansas, 18 December 1965 Gertrude E. Mestenhauser Coffman. He now lives in Old Town, Maine, where he enjoys fishing, gourmet cooking and reading.[156]

After Irene's death in April in Santa Barbara, California, there was a prayer service in Lompoc. A full memorial service and interment is planned in Vermont in August of 2001. A memorial stone will be placed at Union Village Cemetery in Norwich, Vermont.[157]

September 1957[176] LOIS WEALTHY FACEY, born there 21 May 1932,[177] died there 2 July 1993 of epidermoid cancer of head and neck, aged 61 years,[178] daughter of Philip George and Florence (Drake) Facey.

Kenneth served with the 1st Cavalry in Australia and New Guinea, the Admiralty Islands, and other islands on the way to Japan during WWII. His division entered Tokyo with MacArthur. While in New Guinea, the officers of his division and that of his brother, Clyde's, arranged for the brothers to meet. Kenneth was discharged 28 December 1945.

In her will, dated 17 April 1975, Lois W. Pattrell of Northampton bequeathed all her property to her husband, Kenneth E. Pattrell, and asked George and Florence Godomski of 1228 Florence Road, Easthampton, Massachusetts, to manage a trust for her minor son Kenneth Barton Pattrell, in the event of her husband's death. She bequeathed legacies to several charities and gave $1,000 to Florence W. Facey of Northampton. If Florence predeceased her, then her share to be divided equally among Rose Pattrell of Winsted, Connecticut, Lois M. DeMarsico of North Adams, Massachusetts, and Philip G. Facey, Jr. of Cohasset, Mass; and further bequests to Mrs. Gene Loomis Tryon of 2010 Burlington Ave., North, St. Petersburg, Florida, Florence Godomski of Easthampton, Massachusetts. She also mentioned her mother (living) Florence W. Facey being her survivor. In case her mother, her son and her husband did not survive her, she listed three classes of beneficiaries: Class A: Mr. Philip G. Facey, Jr. of 4 Woodland Drive, Cohasset, Massachusetts, then to his children; Class B: Rose Pattrell, widow of Clyde Pattrell, Sr., or then to his children; Class C: Mrs. Lois M. DeMarisico of 119 Pleasant St., North Adams, Massachusetts, then to the beneficiaries above listed in Class A and Class B.[179]

State of Vermont Windsor County ss

On the 4th day of June 1846 personally appeared before the Probate Court of the District of Hartford Benjamin Roberts Burts of sd district, Aged 71 years, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on his oath, make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provision made by the Act of Congress passed July 4th 1836 - That he is the son of Mary Pattrel, who died on the 27th day of December Eighteen hundred and thirty nine, and who was the widow of Benjamin Roberts Burts, who died at Canaan New Hampshire on the Eighth day of August Seventeen hundred and Eighty-Eight (1788) and who was a Soldier of the revolutionary war - That he served in the New Hampshire line, and that he the sd Benjamin R. has often heard his mother say that her husband the sd Benj Roberts Burts was a three years man - That his father the said Benjamin Roberts Burts was married to Mary Fox previous to the revolutionary war at what place he does not know, but he resided at the time of his enlistment, in Canaan in the State of New Hampshire - That some time after the death of his father, his Mother Mary Burts was married to Joseph Pattrel of Norwich, Windsor County, Vermont, and that the sd Pattrel died leaving his Mother a widow at the time of her death, and many years previous thereto.

Benjamin R. Burts

Sworn to and subscribed this 4th day of May A.D. 1846

I Lyman Pattrill of Norwich in Windsor County and State of Vermont, aged forty two years, depose & say I have been acquainted with and have examined the paper hereto annexed purporting to be the record of Benjamin R. Burts family of Canaan, New Hampshire. That the entry is quite forty years ago. Mrs. Mary Pattrill informed me that said paper was a record of the births of his Children and of the death of her husband, Benjamin R. Burts. That while she was the wife of said Burts they resided in Canaan, New Hampshire. That the initial R in her husbands name was Robert. That her husband was a soldier in the war of the Revolution and that during s^{d} war their residence was in the State of New Hampshire in the town of Canaan. That soon after his death she removed to this town (Norwich) and not long after this time she was married to Joseph Pattrill, and I also further depose & say that Joseph Pattrill the last husband of the said Mary died in the year Eighteen hundred and twenty nine (1829) and that the said Mary remained his widow to the time of her death. And that the only child of said Mary known to be living is Benjamin R. Burts who now resides and has resided for more than forty years in our neighborhood and within a mile of my house - and that the record above refered to was when I first saw it inserted in a common account book and that there has been no attention of said record for more than thirty years, nor since I first saw it which is nearing forty years.

Lyman Pattrell

I Sally Johnson of Norwich, County of Windsor, and State of Vermont, aged 80 years, depose and say that sometime about the year Seventeen hundred and ninety (1790) the widow Mary Burts came into our neighborhood and took up her residence in the family of Mr. Humphrey Ball. Mr. Ball lived less than half a mile from our house - not long after this time, Mrs. Burt came to our house to live as a nourse - She then informed me that she was a widow, and came from Canaan, New Hampshire, and that she had several children then living - that she was married and resided in s^{d} Canaan and that she had suffered greatly during the revolutionary war, having several small Children to provide for during the time her husband was in the service - That she said her husband was gone in the service some years, I cannot state with certainty how many, I am sure however it was more than one year. That not long after this time, the s^{d} Mrs. Burts was married to Joseph Pattrell of this town, (Norwich) - Mr Pattrell lived within one mile of our house till his death - That his wife the s^{d} Mary lived many years afterwards, and died a few years ago at a very great age. That Benjamin R. Burts who now lives in this place is the son of the s^{d} Mary, and I always understood was her eldest child by her first husband and was named for his father - That he now lives a near neighbor to me and has resided here more than forty ys

I do not remember that Mrs Burts ever informed me where she resided when she was married to sd Burts, but I well remember she informed me that during the war of the revolution they lived in Canaan, New Hampshire and that her husband the s^{d} Burts died there and that the said Mary was the widow of Joseph Pattrell at the time of her death and had been for many years previous therto

[Sworn 7 July 1846] Sally Johnson

I Susan Root of Norwich in the County of Windsor and State of Vermont, aged 58 years, depose and say that ever since I have any recollection of events I have lived in the vicinity of the residence of Joseph Pattrell late of Norwich deceased And most of the time within 80 rods of his residence - That I was well acquainted with the s^{d} Pattrell - That he married the widow Burts, and by this marriage had several Children, only two of whom are living, Viz Lyman Pattrell of this town, and John Pattrell of Moretown in this State - That Mrs Pattrell formerly Mrs Burts, had several children at the time she was married to the s^{d} Pattrill, only one of whom has been known to be living for a great many years, that is Benjamin R. Burts who lives in this neighborhood - Mrs Pattrell had another child, a son by her first husband, who, a great many years ago, was said to have went to the Provence of Canada and some years after that, it was reported he was dead - I should think that was nearly twenty years ago and I think nothing has been heard of him since and so I have been informed even by the friends and relatives in this place with whom I have been intimately acquainted for more than forty years - That most of Mrs Pattrells Children by her first husband died when they were quite young, and further deponent saith not

Susan Root

State of Vermont, Orange County ss At Thetford this 26th dayof December 1846 Susan Root appeared and subscribed and made oath to the above deposition...

I Samuel Johnson of Norwich in the County of Windsor and State of Vermont aged 57 yrs depose and say that ever since I can remember I have lived in the neighborhood of Mr. Joseph Pattrell - That Mr Pattrell died about the year 1829 and his widow died but a few years since. That I was well acquainted with all the children of Mrs Mary Pattrell and of all the children by her first husband Benj R. Burts who are known to be living, or who have been known to be living for a grate many years vis Benj R. Burts who now lives in this town, a near neighbor to me, he is over 70 years old - That Mrs Pattrell had living at the time of her death three children by her last husband, Joseph Pattrell, - viz John Pattrill, Lyman Pattrell and Eunice Knowles. That the sd Eunice died some few years ago and John Pattrell now resides in Moretown in this State and Lyman now resides in this town on the same farm which his father and Mother lived when they died and further deponent saith not

Samuel Johnson

State of Vermont, Orange County ss At Thetford this 31st day of Oct 1846, Jamuel Johnson who subscribed the above deposition personally appeared and made oath that it is true...

I James Waterman of Norwich in the County of Windsor and State of Vermont Aged 62 years depose & say that I have been personally acquainted with the family of Mr Joseph Pattrell of this town for more than forty years - That the said Pattrell married Wid. Mary Burts - That Mrs. Pattrell had four or five children by her first husband Burts - That Benjamin R. Burts who now resides in this town within two miles of my house is the only person living of all the Burt children or of all supposed to have been living for a great many years - That Mrs. Pattrell died a few years ago and left three children only two of whom are now living viz John Pattrell who now lives in Moretown in this State and Lyman Pattrell of this town. These are the children Mrs Pattrell had by her last husband, Joseph Pattrell - That Benjamin R. Burts who now lives in this vicinity and who is the son of the late Mrs Mary Pattrell is an aged man, I should think more than 70 years old

Burlington, Feb. 22, 1852

Some three or four years ago an old man by the name of Jedediah Burt who lives in Essex Vt called upon me saying that he had been informed that his mother Polly or Mary Patrel of Norwich Vt, former widow of Benjamin Burt, died entitled to a pension. He stated that she died about the year 1830. (He was not accurate in this for she probably died in December 1834.) I told him she was not entitled to a pension as she died before any law passed granting pensions to widows of Revolutionary Soldiers.

I heard nothing more in relation to the mother until the present winter, when a Mr. Owen, with whom I am acquainted, and who sought to aid Mr. Burt, informed me that a pension had been obtained for the children of said Polly Patrel, and that said Burt had not been represented, and that the certificate issued payable to the other children of Polly Patrel. I advised him to go to Norwich and ascertain the truth of the matter. He went for that purpose, and informed me, on his return, that a certificate of pension issued for a pension from March 4, 1831 to some time in Dec (the date I do not remember) 1839, and that the money had been paid to the children named in the certificate, Jedediah Burt not being named therein. He further informed me that he ascertained that Polly Patrel died in December, 1834, and that a record of her death was recorded in the town clerk's office, in Norwich, in 1846, stating that she died in December, 1839. From the investigation which Mr. Owen made, I am inclined strongly to believe that this record was manufactured for the purpose of fraudulently procuring a pension and probable other testimony of like character.

Mr. Owen is of the opinion that if a fraud had been practised, the children of Polly Patrel were not the guilty parties.

Jedediah Burt knew nothing of the matter until after the pension was obtained. But on learning that a pension had been obtained, he claimed his share, and I believe he has received from the other children about twenty dollars. He supposed the pension was fairly and honest obtained.

I am very respectfully your able Servant,

Coms of Pensions

Norwich Vt. Sept 7, 1846

Dear Sir

Enclosed I send the application of Benjamin R. Burts for a Pension in the right of his mother Mary Patrell, deceased, for the service of his father Benj[a] Robert Burts in the war of the Revolution. The papers transmitted are the declaration, Secretary's certificate of the service. The family record attached to the affadavit of Lyman Pattrill showing also that the applicant is the only serviving child of the said Burts. The affadavit of Sally Johnson identifying Mary Patrell deceased as the Widow of claimants father, and as residing in Canaan N.H. The affadavit of Doct William Sweate showing the date of the death of Joseph Patrill, and the certificate of the Town clerk showing the date of the death of claimants mother Mrs Patrill, which I trust will be satisfactory in the case.

Yours Respectfully,
Ira Davis

Norwich Nov. 7 1846

Dear Sir

Enclosed is the evidence requested by yours of Sept 29 in relation to the children of Mary Pattrell.

I perceive by your letter that you are disposed to allow only the Service rendered subsequent to the desertion of Burt, but I do not see the propriety of that conclusion. It appears from the notes that Burt served about 19 months previous to his desertion and that after a short absence, he returned and served until discharged. From the fact therefore of his return, that he was received and served the remaining time, I think the error of his desertion was then considered as cancelled and should be so treated now both upon general principles and for special reasons.

Whenever a person is disfranchized for any offense and is by the proper authority restored to his legal privileges this act of restoration removes entirely his disability and confers upon him all his former rights. The Resolution of Congress of Oct 17 1777 furnishes a special reason which the service rendered previous to the desertion should be treated precisely as if no desertion had taken place when coupled with the fact that he returned and served.

Had Burt never returned to his company justice and propriety would have required the he be not entitled to the benefit of the Pension laws, But after having returned and faithfully served I think his transgression should be remembered no more

Ira Davis

To the Hon Secretary of War

Sir,

In addition to the views heretofore submitted to the Department in the case of Benjamin R. Burts who claims a Pension in the right of his father, I would respectifully submit the following, to wit:

That the Pension laws of 1832, '36 and '38 bestow their benefits upon the recipients, not in payment for services rendered nor as a bounty but simply as a gratuity.

2d I do not find, on examination any provision in either of the above mentioned statues by which its benefits and withhold from any individual in consequence of disertion nor am I able to find any general law by which any individual is deprived of such benefits on that account, nor am I able to concieve by what authority the comissioner of Pensions now indeed any office of the government may give to those statutes a construction by which any portion of those embraced within the terme of the law should be deprived of its benefits on the contrary all statutes of the kind should be construed beneficially.

By the law of 1836 under which this claim is presented the only conditions imposed are a given level of service and marriage previous to its termination. If then these terms have been complied with I can see no reason why any part of the claim should be rejected.

To the Hon. William L. Marcy, Secretary of War

Dear Sir,

Some months Since I sent to the Pension Office the application of Benjamin R. Burts, for a Pension in right of his Mother Mary Patrill deceased, who was formerly the widow of Roberts Burt the father of the applicant.

It appears from the Regimental pay Ledger that the said Roberts Burt entered the Service on the 28th of April 1777 and that he deserted on the 25th of Nov. 1778. That he re-joined his company on the 16th of February 1779 and continued to serve until the 8th of July 1780, making a period of 16 months and 23 days service subsequent to his desertion. It appears further from the Pay Ledger that on the 8th of January 1781, he received a certificate for the sum of £42 15s 7d and that he was subsequently paid the further sum of £17 10s 8d. Upon this evidence the commissioner declines allowing for any Service prior to the date of Burt's desertion. From this decision I wish to take an appeal to the Secretary of War for the following reasons

1st I think the doctrine of the Commissioner erroneous when he says that the effect of the pardon of a deserter operates simply to relieve him of the punishment or penalty, and that therefore he is entitled to no benefit from his previous services.

I believe it is an established principle that the granting of a pardon remits all the disabilities incurred by the commission of the crime.

In England I think after a pardon for any crime the person so pardoned may maintain his action for slander against any one who shall afterwards accuse him of it which fully sustains the principle stated above

But in this case, the Deserter was subsequent to his discharge actually paid by the government for the services rendered prior to his desertion, which is, I think at least primo facia evidence that it was at that time considered that his disability was removed and his rights and privileges fully restored.

I am Sir Yours Very Respectfully

A Underwood Esq[r]

US D Atty

Dear Sir

I wrote you last week relative to a fraud upon the US Govt in obtaining a pension for Widow Mary Pattrial for about 5 years after her decease and it did not occur to me at the time that the Court was sitting at Chelsea & I sent it to Wells River. You have probably received it before this time, I have learnt something further relative to the matter which I will Confidentially communicate to you for it is so barefaced a fraud I think it should not be winked at if great characters are encurred in it it is so much the worse.

Widow Pattrial lived and died at the house of her son Lyman Pattrial in this town in Decem 1834, as the neighbors say and I think there is no doubt about the proof. One man told me Saturday that he moved into the nieghborhood about 1/2 a mile from Lyman Pattrials in 1837, and the Old Lady was not living then, & he understood that she died 2 or 3 years before, another man told me that he had talked with Lyman Pattrial about the pension and that he did not deny but what his mother died in 1834, but said he had nothing to do about getting the [blank], that Dr Wm Sweatt & Dr Ira Davis did all the business they let him & 2 other brothers have some of the money they drue from March 4[th] 1837 to Dec 1839 about 5 years after she died, & drew about $500. Lyman Pattrial told Mr Bradle that Doct Sweatt made a certificate of the old ladys death, and give it to another 1/2 brother by the name of Burt, to carry to the Town Clerk and have it recorded. The town clerke says Doct Davies gave him the certificate in 1846 to put in record and it appears by the certificate that she died in Dec 1839. There is no doubt about the proof that she died in Decr 1834, I think Lyman Pattrial would tell you the whole story all about it if you could see him. It appears that Mrs Pattrial was married to Benja Burts, and he died and then she married Joseph Pattrial, it is for the service of her Burt husband that the pension was obtained she has now living 2 sons by her Burt husband vis. Benj[a] & Jacob, Benj[a] lives in this town & Jacob lives in Underhill in this state, and two sons now living by her Pattrial husband, Lyman who lives in this town, & John who lives in Waitsfield in this state. John told a man in this town that they drew a pension about 5 years after the old lady died, that he came down to get his share of the money & Davis & Sweatt figured up a large bill for expenses and paid him what they call'd his share. The way this matter came to my knowledge was that they would not pay Jacob Burt any thing, he being a poor old ignorant man, and he sent a man here a few weeks since to look it up, he told him that he called at the pension office in Montpelier as he came along and found that Mrs Pattrell drew about $54 per year from March 4th 1837 to Dec 1839; he went to Lyman Pattrell to get him to pay Jacob Burt his share & he refused & he said when he left that he should call on Doct Sweatt and if he could do nothing he should take some other course Since then I have not heard any thing from him I presume Sweatt settled with him but do not know. I suppose the application in the name of the Old Lady must be a forgery as she died about two Years before the law was passed. The original papers in the Pension office at Washington will show all about the proceedings. I wish this to be confidential between us.

Very Respectfully Yours
A Burton

To the Commissioner of Pensions

Sir, The application for a Pension in the right of Mary Patrill was made by Benjamin Burt a son of the said Mary by a former husband as will appear by the files. Burt in his declaration says that himself, John Patrill & Lyman Patrill were the only surviving children of the said Mary Partill. His statements were confirmed by the affadavits of some of his most respectable neighbors. And I have no doubt that the declaration and affadavits were made in the most perfect good faith.

But subsequent to the receipt of the Pension, it was found that Jedediah Burt a brother of Benjamin was still living - who it was understood by the friends had died some years before.

Jedediah claimed his proportion of the Pension, but agreed to relinquish any claim to what his brother Benjamin had received on account of his extreme poverty. I gave Jedediah $10 Lyman Patrill I understood gave him the same sum, & John Patrill was to do the same, but afterwards, as I learned, on account of some misunderstanding, refused to do so. Some two or three months since, A man calling himself Orlando Owen, residing in the vicinity of Burlington, called on me to enquire about the Burt case I gave him what information I was able - That if Jedediah had not received his proportion I was willing to assist him to obtain his right on an account of his poverty. A short time afterwards the said Owen wrote charging B. Burt, myself & the Partrells with fraud swindling &c., in obtaining the Pension, and that unless we paid him a certain sum - I think about $70, he would make complaint to the Pension office. He charged a fraud in the omission of the name of Jedediah and of the date. I enclose to a friend in Burlington $30 with directions to pay it into the hands of Jedediah Burts (who is also very poor) on condition he would give a receipt to B. Burt for $20 in Full, excepting his claim on Patrill, and the $10 I gave him (Jedediah) in consequence of his poverty.

In prosecuting the claim I have used such evidence (excepting the proof of service) as was furnished me by the claimants, without suspecting any fraud, and do not now think that the declarant had the least idea that his brother was living at the time he made his declaration.

Yours very Respectfully

Dear Sir,

Sometime in January last I left with the Department an appeal from the decision of the Commissions of Pensions in the case of the application of Mary Patrell, former widow of Benjamin R Burts, for a Pension. The question involved was the effect of Burt desertion upon the right of his widow to a pension. It appears by the records that after a few weeks absence he returned and completed his term, was regularly discharged and subsequently paid not only for the latter part of his service, but the balance due at the time of his desertion.

Will you have the goodness to examine the case as soon as convenient & inform me of the result.

I am Sir Very Respectfully
Yours,

Ira Davis

Washington, Jan^{y} 3 1852

Sir

We are requested by Mr. Ira Davis of Norwich, Vermont, to call up the case of Mary Patrill, widow of Benj. R. Burts, who was placed on the Vermont role, Act 4 July 1836. She was pensioned for 16 months and 20 days, when there should (I think) have been a full pension.

He entered the service 28 April 1778 & was discharged July 1780. It is true that he deserted 25 Nov 1778 and rejoined the Army Feb 16, 1779 Under these circumstances and when the certificate of the Secy of States [ ] payments for more then two years, I do not see how it can be disallowed.

The record shows as follows.

Engaged 28 April 1777	Payments
Deserted 25 Nov. 1778	8 Months 3 days in 1777 £16.4.0
Joined Feb. 16 1779	10 Months 25 days in 1778 £21.13.4
Discharged July 1780	10 1/2 Months in 1779 £21.13.4
	6 Months 8 days in 1780 £12.10.8
J.E. Heath Esq	Respectfully
Com of Pensions	Evans & Fout

Know all men by these presents that I Lyman Pattrill of Norwich County of Windsor & State of Vermont, son of Mary Patrel deceased, do hereby constitute and appoint Evans & Fout of this City of Washington, my true & lawfull attorneys, for me and in my name to prosecute the claim of my said Mother deceased, for an addditional amount of Pension in consequence of the Revolutionary Service of her former husband Roberts Burt (or Benjamin R. Burt) and generall to do all acts and things touching said premises which I might lawfully do if personally present, and hereby confirming all legal acts which my said attorneys may do in my name, touching said matter of Pension, by virtue of these premises.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal this 30th day of April A.D. 1852 in presence of

Ira Davis Lyman Patrell

Dr Sir

Mr Lyman Pattril the son of Wid. Mary Pattrial came to see me a day or two since, & [ ] I should write you about his mothers Pension He says if he has done any thing wrong about it he has done it innocently. He says the first that was said about getting the pension for his mother was soon after they got a pension for old Mrs Whiting Doct Sweatt was at his house & was telling that he had got a pension for Mrs Whiting & that he had just paid Elijah Whiting her son $150 for her share - He says his wife spoke & asked him why they could not have a pension for their mother as well as for Mrs Whiting? Sweatt then asked when she died and he says they told him that she died Dec 25th 1834 & Sweatt then replied that she died too long ago. He says his wife replied to him that Mrs. Whiting died 2 or 3 years before her mother Pattrial died & Sweatt said he guessed not & went away.

After that he says Davis was there at his house, & nearly the same conversation took place between him & them. Some time after that he says Sweatt called on him & told him there was a new law past, & he thought he could get a pension for his mother & the next he knew anything about it Sweatt or Davis notified him to go down to the plain & execute a power of Attorney to get the money & he says he & his brother John & Benj[a] Burt went down to Davis and executed the power, not knowing but all was right & honest. After that he says Davis called on him with the money & paid him one 9th part of what he said was drawn

He said they kept two thirds & divided the other 1/3 between him & his two brothers & he says he did not know that any thing was wrong about it. He says he was paid 54 dollars [illegible]

I am told from good authority that there is abundant testimony to prove that old Mrs Whiting died 2 or 3 years before old Mrs Pattrial. They will know at Washington how much was paid the Whiting heirs.

Yours Tly

N.B. Pattriel says Sweatt has been to see him & pretended that Burt deceived them about the time of the old ladys death when the fact is that Sweatt doctored her in her last sickness and Pattrial has his account receipted & the last charge on the account is s[d] a visit to the old lady on the 24th day of Dec 1834 & Pattrial & his wife both told him & Davis also that she died Dec 25, 1834. He must be very forgetful

Yours Tly

Dr Sir

I have been s[d] day to see what could be done in the Pattell case. I am apprised that the Statutes both of the U.S. & this State have been out for the fraud upon the U.S. & the purjury (if any) have as the statute of Limits of this state for purjury is 3 years. So I see no way to punish these fellows Davis & Sweatt but to commence a suit in favor of the U.S. ag[ainst] them...

UNPLACED PATRELLS

1. CHARLES D. PATTRELL, blacksmith and carriagemaker, born in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, 14 November 1843[3]; died in Meriden, Connecticut, 18 March 1904 of consumption, aged 60 years, 4 months, 4 days[4]; married in New Milford, Connecticut, by Rev. A.B. Pulling, 8 February 1868[5] BELINDA JOSEPHINE MARVIN, born in Kent, Connecticut, 14 September 1847,[6] died in Meriden, 3 October 1924 of myocarditis and broncho-pneumonia, aged 77 years,[7] daughter of William and Mercy (Sheldon) Marvin.

Despite a diligent search, no information about Charles' parentage has been uncovered. His 1904 death certificate states that the names of his parents were unknown. Census records in 1880 and 1900 show that both his parents were born in Massachusetts.

Charles D. Pattrell joined the Union forces at Goshen, Connecticut, on 11 April 1862 and served during the Civil War as a private under the command of Capt. Perkins in Company I, 1st Connecticut Heavy Artillery.

His personal description from military documents indicates that he was 5 feet 7 inches tall, of light complexion with sandy hair and blue eyes.[8]

While assisting in mounting heavy siege guns in front of Yorktown, Virginia, in May of 1862, he was "ruptured on the left side," but despite the hernia, continued to serve. He was honorably discharged at Arlington, Virginia, on 18 April 1864 and immediately re-enlisted in the same company that same day. He was finally honorably discharged 25 September 1865, after the end of the war.

About three years later, at age twenty-four, a resident of Washington, Connecticut, Charles D. Pattrill was married in New Milford, Connecticut, to twenty-two year old Belinda J. Marvin of New Milford.[9]

Following his marriage, Charles settled in New Preston, Connecticut, where he worked as an hostler, having found that blacksmithing was too demanding on his herniated left side. On this basis, he applied for and received a military pension beginning in 1880.

In his mid fifties, Charles Pattrell responded to several requests for information about his family from the Bureau of Pensions. Among the questions asked on the forms of January 15th 1898 and August 15th 1898 was: Have you any children living? If so, please state their names and the dates of their birth. He answered:

Sarah J. Ethiers Born March 11th 1869
Lizzie E. Camp July 12th 1873
Howard May 7th 1880
Charlie E. June 24th 1886
Mabel M. August 4th 1889

From this we understand that Charles and Belinda had children both before and after he was pensioned.

An obituary for Charles D. "Patrill" appeared in the Saturday, 19 March 1904 edition of the Meriden Morning Record:

Charles D. Patrill, aged 66 [sic] years died at his home, 238 Cook Avenue, about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon after a long illness. By trade Mr. Patrill was a blacksmith, but of late years he had worked much about livery stables of the town. He leaves five children, two sons and three daughters...

Following his death, widow Belinda J. Pattrell applied for a pension, stating in her general affidavit that,

My husband Charles D. Pattrell died poor, leaving me no property of any kind, and was buried at the expense of the State of Connecticut. His life was not insured, and I am not the owner of any cash, stocks, bonds, nor am I interested in any mixed property. My income since May 16th 1904 has been nothing, and I am dependent upon friends who are in no way legally bound to support me.[10]

This was not an uncommon state of affairs for a widow, at a time when women were primarily homemakers. Youngest daughter, Mabel Mercy Patrell, was under sixteen years old at the time of her father's death, and was living with her widowed mother when Belinda applied for this pension.

Belinda survived her husband about twenty years, and it is clear that despite her affidavit, her daughters were close by and helpful in her support.

Both Charles and Belinda are buried in Walnut Grove Cemetery, Meriden, Connecticut.

Mrs. Belinda J. Pattrell

Mrs. Belinda J. Patrell, aged 77, died last evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Brooks, of 287 West Main Street, after an illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Patrell was born in Kent, Conn., and came to this city 42 years ago. She was married in 1868 in Milford, Conn., to Charles B.[sic] Pattrell.

She is survived by two sons, Charles E. of Hartford, and Howard W. of this city; three daughters, Mrs. William Green, of Cheshire, Mrs. Charles Camp and Mrs. George Brooks of this city; two sisters, Mrs. George Hanlon and Mrs. Clinton Hendricks, both of New Milford.

The funeral will be held at the home of her daughter Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. A.J. Lord will officiate and burial will be in Walnut Grove cemetery.[11]

Mrs. Belinda J. Pattrell

The funeral of Mrs. Belinda J. Pattrell was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Brooks, of 287 West Main street. Rev. Dr. A.J. Lord officiated and burial was in Walnut Grove cemetery.

The bearers were Herbert, Harold and Clifford Pattrell,[12] Fred Neun, Harold Brielman and Ernest Hackbarth.[13]

SECOND GENERATION

2. SARAH PATTRELL (Charles), born in Washington, Conn., 1 March 1869[21]; died in Meriden, Connecticut, 6 May 1957 at the home of her nephew Gerald Camp[22]; married first in 1896 CLIFFORD ETHIERS, born in Quebec, Canada, about October 1868,[23] living in 1900; married second say 1901 CHARLES ALBERT GREGOR, molder, born in Meriden, about 2 February 1877,[24] died in Springfield, Massachusetts, 16 November 1907 of mitral regurgitation, aged 30 years, 9 months, 14 days,[25] son of Christopher and Carrie (Kuhn) Gregor; married third as his second wife in Hartford, Connecticut, 6 October 1923[26] GEORGE H. BROOKS, burnisher, born in Meriden, 18 December 1883,[27] died there March 1965, aged 81 years,[28] son of William H. and Celina (Thibault) Brooks.

Clifford immigrated to the United States in 1893 and was still listed as an alien in the 1900 census. Following second husband Charles Gregor's death, Sarah lived with her mother and unmarried siblings, and the whole family worked in a typewriter factory in Hartford.[29]

We see from Sarah's obituary that none of her children survived her:

Sarah P. Brooks

Mrs. Sarah P. Brooks, of 85 Twiss St., died this morning at the home of her nephew, Gerald Camp, of 22 Stone St., after a long illness.

Born in New Preston, she had been a resident of Meriden almost all her life.

In addition to her husband, she leaves one brother, Charles Pattrill, of Hartford, a sister, Mrs. Mabel Green, of Wallingford, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at the John J. Smith Memorial Home, time to be announced.[30]

Death of Charles A. Gregor
Stricken With Heart Trouble as He Got Up Yesterday Morning -
Was at Work Friday

Charles A. Gregor, 30, died in his home 110 Rowland Avenue yesterday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock of heart trouble. He worked Friday at the Springfield Iron foundry where he had been employed as a molder six years. He was stricken as he was getting up yesterday morning and although he had been doctoring his case, was not considered especially serious. Mr. Gregor was born in Meriden where he spent his life until six years ago and in Meriden he learned the iron molding trade. He was a member of the iron molders' union and of Henry S. Lee lodge of Knights of Pythias. He leaves a widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Gregor of Meriden, three sisters, Mrs. Fred Atwater and Mrs. Fred Whitney of this city, Mrs. John Bishop of Meriden, Ct., and a brother, August of Meriden. Short services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home. Rev. E. V. Hinchliffe officiating. The body will be sent by Undertaker George T. Perry to Meriden, where the funeral will be held with burial in Walnut Grove cemetery.[31]

The funeral of Charles A. Gregor was held from the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. Charles Pattrill, 361 Cook Avenue. The burial service was conducted by the Myrtle Lodge, K.P., with bearers from the Knights of Phythias and Iron Molders' union, of Springfield.[32]

Sarah's last husband survived her about eight years:

George H. Brooks

George H. Brooks, 81, formerly of 22 Stone St., died unexpectedly Wednesday afternoon at the Corner House Convalescent Home. He was the husband of the late Sarah Pattrill Brooks.

Mr. Brooks was born in Meriden and had been a lifelong resident of the city.

He was a parishioner of St. Rose Church.

He was a former employee of the International Silver Company, having retired in 1949. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles N. Carroll and Mrs. Robert J. Kearney, both of Meriden, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be held Friday at 8:15 a.m. from the Smith Funeral Home, 226 West Main St. and at 9 a.m. from St. Rose Church. Burial will be in St. Laurent's Cemetery.[33]

10 i. ROBERT EDMUND PATTRELL, born Waterbury, Conn., 26 June 1924.[74]

6. MABEL MERCY PATTRELL (Charles), born in Meriden, Connecticut, 4 August 1889[75]; died in Wallingford, Connecticut, 7 July 1972 of a cardiovascular accident, aged 82 years[76]; married in New Haven, Connecticut, by Elmer A. Dent, Methodist-Episcopal minister, 14 September 1911[77] WILLIAM HENRY GREEN, born in Chicopee Falls, Massachusetts, died in Meriden 3 May 1930 as the result of an auto accident, aged 40 years,[78] son of James R. and Anne E. (Conley)[79] Green.

William's fatal car accident was front page news in 1930:

William H. Green

William H. Green, 40, of 72 North Cherry street, Wallingford, is not expected to live as a result of an automobile accident on Old Colony road just south of Walnut Grove cemetery, last night at 11:15 o'clock. His companion Bernard Luby, 22 of 20 Christian street, Wallingford, was badly injured, suffering fractures of both the left leg and left arm, but his condition is not considered serious.

The two men according to police reports, were riding toward Meriden in a light coupe which was operated by Luby. On the long hill an attempt was made to pass a preceding truck but the Wallingford man, noting the approach of another car from the north, pulled back into the line of traffic. His car apparently continued its speed and crashed into the rear of the truck.

Henry Nowak of New Haven, driver of the heavier vehicle, brought it to an immediate stop. The light car was badly damaged in the crash and was towed to the Dutee W. Flint company of Wallingford, owner of the machine. Green is employed as a salesman by the firm.

A passing motorist rushed Green to the Meriden hospital. This morning his name was placed on the danger list with a possible skull fracture being the major of several injuries.

The Meriden hospital ambulance responded to a call and took Luby to the institution.

Green is married and has four children, the eldest of which is nine years of age. Luby is unmarried.[80]
